Kissinger turns to Sadat: will you compromise?

CAIRO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met President Anwar Sadat today to find out how much Egypt will compromise in exchange for a new Israeli military withdrawal and said he definitely plans to return to the area next month.

"I definitely plan to come back," Kissinger said in answer to a newsman's question whether he would return in March. It was the first time the secretary confirmed he would make a second trip in his current diplomatic efforts.

Diplomatic sources said Kissinger would come back to the Middle East the week of March 9.

Kissinger flew to Cairo from Tel Aviv, where he asked the Israelis for a new "act of faith" to achieve an interim agreement to settle the four-war, quarter-century conflict.

Kissinger pledged to the Israelis that the United States "will not knowingly sacrifice Israel to the considerations of great power politics."

The secretary said his nearly 10 hours of talks in Israel Monday and Tuesday were exploratory and not conclusive. He called them "very constructive and useful."

On arrival in Egypt, Kissinger said, "I am in this area to see what I can do to make progress towards a just and lasting peace and to take the next step on that road as soon as possible."

The secretary and his wife Nancy drove directly from the airport to Sadat's rest house on the Nile, 18 miles north of Cairo, for a working lunch.

Sadat greeted Kissinger with a "Hello, Henry," and the two men embraced and kissed on both cheeks.

Asked whether he expected a second-stage Israeli withdrawal on all fronts, Kissinger said, "I cannot make any predictions now.

"I am here to see what I can do to make progress toward peace," he said. "I am always optimistic."

Before leaving Tel Aviv, Kissinger said he did not "attempt to reach any final conclusion this trip but rather to explore the basic principles."

"I will now go to Egypt and I will have similar discussions with the Egyptian leaders," he said.

Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon saw Kissinger off at Ben Gurion airport near Tel Aviv and said the Kissinger-Israeli talks were "preliminary" but "very constructive."

"There may be different approaches to how this interim agreement should be achieved and what should be the result of it," Allon said.

"But once we start we must stick to the initiative and until we get positive results with great patience and good will of both sides."

Kissinger planned to talk with Sadat today and Thursday and to bring the Egyptian leader's ideas back to Israel after the discussions and after a brief stop in Damascus, Syria.

The secretary is trying to find room for compromise in Sadat's often-expressed refusal to issue a declaration of nonbelligerency unless there is a total solution to the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Israel wants such a declaration in return for giving back at least some of the Sinai territory its troops seized from Egypt during the 1967 Middle East war. The key lands include the Mitla and Giddi passes and the Abu Rodeis oil fields.

Masked robbers flee with $600

Gunmen bind, rob area mom, 2 kids

An Upland woman and her two children were awakened by two gunmen early this morning, tied up and robbed of $600 in cash, police reported.

Mrs. Edward Hager and her two children, Debra, 14, and Steven, 12, told police that they were sleeping at their home at 1272 Clinton Court about 1 a.m. when suddenly they were awakened by two men, one armed with a revolver and the other with an automatic. The two men pushed the woman and the two children into the living room.

In the living room the gunman took out some adhesive tape and bound and gagged Mrs. Hager and her children. Mrs. Hager said the men asked where her husband was. She said her husband was out and had not returned home.

She said the men then left them in the living room and began searching through their bedrooms for money. After a short time the robbers left.

Mrs. Hager and her children managed to free their bonds and call police about 1:50 a.m. Mrs. Hager told officers that she feared for her husband, who is part owner of the D&M Metals Co. in Ontario.

Officers managed to locate Hager and contacted the other owners of the metals company. They had not been approached by the gunmen.

Police said this morning that they believe the robbery to be an "inside job." Police reported that the robbers apparently knew the layout of the Hager home and where the money was kept.

The Hagers described both men as having accents. One was described as being in his late 20s to 30, 6 feet 4, of slender build with a week's growth of beard. He was armed with a revolver, and was wearing a brown jacket and blue ski mask.

The second man, armed with a 9mm automatic pistol, was described as 5 feet 11, of stocky build and wearing a blue ski mask.

Police said the robbers escaped with $600 taken from the home and from Mrs. Hager's purse.

$20,000 loss

Trailers loaded with hay stolen under overpass

A thief with his own tractor stole two semi-trailers loaded with hay, valued at approximately $20,000, Tuesday from underneath the Pomona Freeway overpass at Mountain Avenue in Chino.

The trailer and hay thefts were reported by Charlie Tadema, owner of the trailers, about 9:30 a.m. Tadema said he left the two trailers, each loaded with 450 bales of hay under the overpass Monday to keep them out of the rain. When he returned to pick them up Tuesday morning, they were gone.

The trailers were both described as 1970 model utility trailers, with blue and white frames with the letters "KW" on the mudflaps.

Body of lost woman skier is recovered

TRUCKEE (UPI) — The body of a coed who died of exposure while skiing during a blizzard was recovered Tuesday near Donner Summit.

Evelyn Golding, 21, of San Rafael, a student at the University of California at Davis, became lost Jan. 31 while skiing with her fiance, Keith Ulisse, 21, of Danville, also a student at Davis.

Ulisse was found Feb. 2 in a Sierra Club way station, frost bitten and suffering from exposure. He said he had left the young woman while searching for help.

4 accused of bombings in L.A. protection racket

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal grand jury Tuesday indicted four men with alleged Mafia connections on charges of terrorizing the used grease industry by burning and bombing trucks to make dealers pay protection money.

One of those indicted was Michael Capito, 54, reputed associate of deposed New York Mafia chieftain Joseph "Joe Bananas" Bonanno.

The indictments were the result of a year long investigation by city detectives and the Justice Department's organized crime strike force.

The ring allegedly demanded $100 a week from dealers who collect used grease from restaurants and sell it to rendering plants, where it is processed and sold to makers of soap and cattle feed. The rendering plants were told to pay $1,000 a month, investigators said.

Three or four trucks of independent dealers who refused to join a Capito-run "association" were burned, investigators said, and a truck belonging to another holdout Marvin Gurewitz, was blown apart by a dynamite bomb last April.

Capito and his son Ralph, 34, were charged with hiring Vincent Perno, 48, to destroy trucks and rendering plants that did not pay for protection. The elder Capito was charged with offering Larry Witzig, an unindicted coconspirator, $1,500 to blow up five boilers at Baker Commodities Inc., a rendering plant in the City of Commerce.

Charles R. Rabaga, 42, was charged with helping Witzig plan the bombing.

Perno was already in custody when the indictment was returned. He is being held on a charge of conspiracy to commit murder, in what authorities called a murder-for-hire scheme to kill a star witness against two men facing bribery charges.

Perno owns an Artesia furniture company.

City organized crime intelligence detectives said Capito "was a real little Caesar with his tough talk, always playing the heavy, trying to scare the hell out of those grease dealers" and would refer to his "connections" and hint that those who did not join his organization would have "problems."

Women inmates set fire in their cell, then die in blaze

ROSARIO, Argentina (UPI) — Eight jailed women died in a fire they set off today in a rebellion in a Rosario prison, police sources said.

The women began rioting and breaking windows in the jail some 300 miles north of Buenos Aires late Tuesday night to protest alleged poor treatment, the sources said.

They said the women set fire to their mattresses and the fire swept out of control, killing the eight.

Three perish in apartment blaze

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Fire swept through a three-story apartment building housing many elderly residents early today, killing three persons and injuring two others.

The coroner's office identified one victim as Melvin Peterson, 58.

The names of two others killed in the three-alarm fire were being withheld pending notification of relatives.

Authorities said fireman Edward Rylicki was injured when he fell down a flight of stairs and broke his neck. He was listed in serious condition. An apartment resident, Jessie Sherkerin, 74, was hospitalized in satisfactory condition with smoke inhalation.

Cause of the blaze was not immediately known.

Ford fears war, oil embargo, if peace bid fails

TOPEKA, Kas. (UPI)—President Ford says there is "a very serious prospect" of another Middle East war and another Arab oil embargo if Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's current peace effort fails.

He pledged his "full backing" for Kissinger, who is in the midst of a series of meetings with Israeli and Arab leaders, and urged that the Secretary be given the full support of the American people and Congress.

"Unless progress is made," Ford told a news conference Tuesday night, "there is a very serious prospect of another war in the Middle East."

If there were such a war, he said, it would raise the possibility of another Arab oil embargo against the United States.

Injured driver booked after truck rams another on Pomona Freeway

A section of the Pomona Freeway was littered with damaged goods early today after one truck rammed the rear of a second east of Brea Canyon Road in Diamond Bar.

The front trailer was ripped in half, spilling its contents over several freeway lanes. The items ranged from chili peppers and toilet paper to tires and a clothes dryer.

A skiploader was used to pick up the damaged merchandise and load it into the dump truck.

The collision occurred shortly before 4 a.m. when one driver, Edward Martinez, 47, of El Centro, apparently fell asleep and his rig rammed a truck-trailer operated by Ralph Ferguson, 48, of San Jacinto, said highway patrolmen.

Martinez, who shattered the front windshield and damaged the panel board inside his cab in the collision, was treated at the Doctors Hospital in La Puente for an injured knee and foot and cut hand.

He was later booked at the Industry sheriff's station on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs. Officers reported finding a container of pills believed to contain benzedrine.

Ferguson reported he was hauling the trailer of merchandise to Hemet when the accident occurred. Martinez, whose trailer was empty, was en route to El Centro, said officers.

Ferguson recalled that he was driving about 50 miles an hour in the outside lane when he was hit from behind.

Martinez told officers he fell asleep while driving in the outside lane and didn't wake up until the impact.

Hitting the berries

Bay Area sets up drunk tank for birds getting 'smashed'

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (UPI) — This San Francisco Bay Area commuter community is being plagued with drunken birds.

Robins and cedar waxwings, on their seasonal migration south, are stopping off to nibble on ripe pyracantha berries. The berries are getting them smashed.

Gary Bogue, curator of the Alexander Lindsay Junior Museum, said the bright red and orange berries contain a mild toxin which affects the birds.

"They become disoriented, confused," Bogue said. "They're spaced out. They've been wandering in front of cars, flying into cars and windows.

"In human terms, they're drunk."

He said many Bay Area animal care facilities have been treating the birds for minor injuries.

Even a "drunk tank" has been set up here so the birds can sleep it off, he said.

Medi-Cal costs soaring

Brown stops any new prepaid health plans

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., moving to stem soaring Medi-Cal costs, has invoked a "moratorium" on the award of any new contracts under the embattled prepaid health care program.

Acting on the recommendations of a task force of 80 investigators, he also ordered that 30 existing contracts in the $100 million-plus annual program be renewed only until June 30.

Brown announced the actions at a news conference Tuesday and directed that the investigators' findings be made available to newsmen today. He cautioned against expecting "scandal or true criminal behavior."

Brown, who ordered the investigation late last month, told newsmen he had appointed Steven M. Passin, 28, as a special deputy director of the Department of Health for prepaid health care plans. Passin is a former executive of the American Medical Association and was one of the investigators.

Under prepaid health care plans, an organization, usually doctors, contracts with the state to provide a full range of services to Medi-Cal recipients on a predetermined flat rate basis rather than billing the state later.

The prepaid health care program, included in the Medi-Cal reform of 1971, was a pet project of Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Currently, the state has contracts for 53 prepaid health care plans with a current enrollment of 269,000 low income patients. The cost in state, local and federal funds is $8.1 million monthly.

The Health Department reported that 30 existing contracts will expire between now and June 30. These cost $4.9 million this month and have an enrollment of 154,103 people.

In addition, the department has in hand 20 new applications from proposed contractors and was ready to act on four of them immediately when Brown ordered the moratorium.

The prepaid health care program, similar to the private Kaiser medical program but offering more services, has drawn fire during the past year from Legislative Auditor General Harvey Rose.

For example, Rose charged that only 48 per cent of the money spent on prepaid health plans went for health services while 52 per cent was expended on administrative costs such as the salaries of people who operated them.

County planners give lift to Chino industrial park

Development of a new industrial park inched forward Tuesday when 99 acres southwest of Central Avenue and Merrill Street were recommended for annexation to the City of Chino.

The Landmark Investment Co. of Pasadena owns 69 acres and the City of Chino owns the remainder. The company proposes to construct 22 buildings on its property.

The Local Agency Formation Commission, a county agency, voted unanimously for the annexation following a public hearing. No protests were registered.

A company representative indicated the firm planned to begin construction immediately. The site was selected because of its closeness to both freeway and railroad systems.

The city-owned property includes a sewage plant and open space lease for agriculture uses.

The annexation request will be returned to the Chino City Copuncil for a public hearing. This may be set within the next 30 days, said officials.

Chino was represented at the hearing by Gale Carr, director of community development.

S.B. County to have census; sees $1 million more in aid

How many persons now reside in San Bernardino County?

That will be determined next April when census takers go door to door in a special program to count members of each household.

The San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors this week approved a $422,000 contract with the U.S. Bureau of Census to determine the present population.

Officials believe the county may be due $1 million in additional federal and state subventions which are allocated on a population basis.

The census bureau counted 684,000 county residents in the official 1970 census. This was later revised upward to 700,000 in 1972. Officials however, believe the population to be closer to 730,000.

Cost of the census will be shared by eight of the county's 14 cities with assessments to be based on actual population.

Those cities participating include Ontario, Chino and Upland. They will be able to use the population figures to qualify for additional state and federal funds.

The six cities not participating include Montclair. The number of residents here will be counted but the city will not be able to use the information to apply for additional money, officials explained.

Montclair officials said they decided not to participate since the city has had little population increase since 1970.

Some 1,300 census takers will be employed and they should complete the count within two weeks. In addition to the size of each household, they will be asking the sex, race and age of the residents.

Census results will be authenticated by Aug. 1 with detailed tabulations available by Oct. 15.

N.Y. HIT BY SNOW

Despite the snow and freezing temperature that hit New York this morning this bicyclist makes his way through Central Park. This is the first heavy snow storm to hit the N.Y. metropolitan area this season. The storm clogged traffic and shut down one of the city's three airports.

Upland schools face $37,712 deficit

A deficit estimated at $37,712 projected for the 1975-76 school year was reported by Glenn Hardy, Upland School District's business manager, to the board of trustees Tuesday.

Emphasizing that his figures did not represent a budget for next year, but only basic expense projections and income projections, Hardy told the board that he could not recommend use of the $334,000 presently in reserves.

"To deficit finance at this time would be folly," he said. "I am presenting this as food for thought for the board, the superintendent and particularly for the employes. There may not be adequate funds to meet all the demands of the employes for next year."

Supt. Bill R. Plaster suggested to the board that there was still time to consider an election to raise the base revenue limit. In order to qualify for the May 27 election, a resolution would have to be submitted to the county by March 7, he noted.

"While I'm not suggesting that (a tax override election) there is much to ponder," Plaster said. A special meeting was set for next Wednesday at 4 p.m. to further consider the deficit problem.

Also at the special meeting the board will make its initial proposal regarding summer school salaries. The representatives of the Certificated Employees Council submitted a proposal Tuesday for a 12 per cent cost of living increase. Salaries would range from a low of $7.13 an hour to a high of $14.39 per hour for a five-hour day during summer session.

The board accepted the administration's recommendations for summer session. The summer program will begin on June 23, one full week after the close of the regular school year, and conclude on July 25. All schools, except for Upland Elementary School, will be used for the summer session. Upland Elementary will be undergoing painting and renovation during the summer. Students from that area may attend classes in the Upland Junior High building.

In a report on the first semester of school which was completed on Jan. 31, Plaster noted that the district now has one of the lowest teacher-pupil ratios in the area. The average elementary class is 28.5 students per teacher with a 27 to 1 ratio at the junior high schools.

Growth of school population has not been as great this year as some anticipated due to the number of new dwelling units in the area, he said. The first day of school the enrollment was 5,744 and had increased to 5,783 by the fifth month.

Rowland man is arrested in racing swindle

Two brothers, one from Rowland Heights, have been charged in a 10-count felony complaint with bilking a businessman out of $40,000 by claiming to have "inside information" on winners of horse races at Santa Anita.

Sheriff's vice detail detectives arrested Ralph Besancon of Rowland Heights and his brother, Richard L. Besancon of Garden Grove on charges of conspiracy to commit grand theft, touting and bookmaking.

Authorities said the pair, along with one man still being sought, approached an unidentified businessman and told him they had information on sure winners on specific dates at the track.

One of the suspects posed as a track official, investigators charged, and bilked the wife of the original victim out of $10,000. The pair offered to place bets for the victims on races in which they already knew the winners, investigators claimed.

Richard Besancon was taken into custody at the Orange County Jail where he had served 30 days for a similar offense, deputies said. His brother was arrested at home.

Valley Aerojet plant gets $1.7 million job

The Air Force has awarded a $1.7 million contract to the Aerojet General Corp's plant in the Chino Hills to assemble Minuteman missile components.

The contract is for the procurement of various quantities of destruct system assemblies, explosive components and related data applicable to the missiles, reported Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist.

Test cut short on new supersonic jet

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — A minor cooling system leak Tuesday cut short the third test flight of the prototype B1, the huge supersonic jet bomber the Air Force hopes will be an important weapon of the 1980s.

The plane landed without incident after a cockpit warning light flashed, indicating buildup of excessive heat in the electrical system, an Air Force spokesman said.

The flight ended after about an hour. The plane's first test flight lasted an hour and a half, and the second for three hours.

The plane, which flew for the first time Dec. 23, is the only flying B1 in existence. Another prototype is scheduled for completion by Rockwell International later this year.

L.A. council wants harder recall law

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The City Council voted Tuesday to make it more difficult for the city's 18 elected officials to be subjected to recall elections.

The council has until Friday to order the city attorney to draft the charter amendment for the May 27 ballot. The final form of the amendment must be approved by the council before a ballot measure can be placed before the voters.

One revision would require recall petitions to be signed by at last 25 per cent of the registered voters in the area represented by the person involved.

Presently, a recall petition must be signed by at least 20 per cent of the number of all voters who cast ballots at the last election.

Pill for teen-agers proposed in state

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill permitting doctors to prescribe birth control pills and contraceptives for teen-agers without parental consent was introduced Tuesday by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson.

Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, said his bill (SB395) would "end a cruel inconsistency in the law that has prevented thousands of teen-agers from avoiding unwanted pregnancies."

Approximately 46,000 teen-agers received abortions in 1973, Beilenson said.

He said the measure was "more carefully limited" than similar bills he sponsored in 1970, 1971 and 1971. All three were vetoed by former Gov. Ronald Reagan. Reagan contended the bill went too far saying "simply because sexual permissiveness may exist among young people does not mean the state should make it easier for them."

Ward says sheriff using copter for pals

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Board of Supervisors Tuesday renewed its request for all the Sheriff's Department flight logs for a five year period after charges were made that county helicopters were used for personal purposes.

Supervisors Baxter Ward charged that Sheriff Peter Pitchess used the county helicopters to fly his family, friends and celebrities to San Diego, Palm Springs and other destinations.

Ward made the charges after studying logs for the period between July, 1972 and November, 1974 and insisted that the board be provided with the logs for the five year period it had originally requested.

In a memo to Supervisor Pete Schabarum, Pitchess said that "any efforts to retrieve and decipher logs for a period in the past beyond that which we have provided is a waste of manpower resources in our department as well as in those of the chief administrative officer."

Judge rejects marijuana case

Drug-sniffing dogs can't do their duty on private property

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal judge has ruled that the U.S. Customs Bureau's drugsniffing dogs can be too efficient, detecting narcotics so unerringly that they constitute an illegal invasion of privacy.

U.S. District Court Judge Harry Pregerson ruled that the discovery of 1,525 pounds of marijuana in a truck parked at a Santa Ana gas station was an illegal seizure.

Customs agents said they received an anonymous call Oct. 10 that a truck and trailer parked at the gas station were loaded with marijuana. They brought two of the dogs, used to sniff cars at the border with Mexico, to investigate.

The dogs, Blue and Baron, indicated there was marijuana in the truck and trailer, a search warrant was obtained, and John Solis, 29, of Santa Ana was arrested for possession of it.

Pregerson ruled late Monday that while the dogs may legally be used to examine autos and luggage at border crossing points and airports where citizens expect such things, bringing them on to private property without probable cause is an unconstitutional invasion of privacy, especially since they are so efficient at detecting hidden substances that could not be otherwise be seen.

The subsequent search warrant was thus tainted by the illegal search using the dogs, Pregerson said, and the seized marijuana cannot be used as evidence against Solis.

The government was expected to drop charges against Solis, who has more serious problems to worry about. While out on bail following the marijuana arrest, he was rearrested on two counts of murder.

Jobless U.S. veterans lining up to train Saudi troops

ALHAMBRA, Calif. (UPI) — With 10 years in the U.S. Marine Corps coming to an end, Sgt. Daniel Garcia wants a transfer to the Saudi Arabian National Guard. Navy Veteran Charles Nuchols is ready to go too. So are hundreds of other jobless American veterans.

"For the money, man, the money," Nuchols said when asked why he wanted to train Arabians to guard their oilfields.

He said he was told the American instructors would get $1,800 a month plus room and board.

Garcia and Nuchols were among more than 100 men lined up Tuesday outside the offices of Vinnell Corp., which has been given a $77 million contract by the Pentagon to train the Saudi Arabian force, and is hiring 1,000 former American military men as instructors.

A spokesman for the company said that in addition to the applicants at the gate the firm's switchboard was swamped Tuesday by more than 300 telephone calls from all over the United States from job seekers, including three women.

Most were veterans, many with Vietnam experience.

Garcia, 30, of New York, said he will be discharged from the Marines soon and that he should have just the background the company wants, including two combat tours in Vietnam.

Harold Ganster, 26, of Riverside, said he spent three years in the Army, did one Vietnam tour, and was interested both in the money and for the old lure of military service, travel. He wants to join the instructor corps and see Saudi Arabia.

Nichols, 35, Riverside, said he can't find work as an electrician, thinks being a mercenary would be lucrative, and is not bothered at the thought of training foreign troops, even though he recognizes that the Saudi troops may be training to repel U.S. forces. He sees that as a decision already made at a higher level.

"If we're going to sell them guns and equipment, it doesn't make sense not to teach them to use them," Nuchols said.

Garcia said that if a conflict did develop, U.S. instructors would obviously have to withdraw.

Vinnell Vice President James DeSimone said that with controversy over the program rising, it would be "inappropriate" for the firm to make any more public statements.

"We don't know whether there will or will not be a congressional investigation of the matter," he said. "We feel it is up to the United States government to make any additional statements or explanations."

AMC adopts one-week-on, one-week-off production

DETROIT (UPI) — American Motors Corp. will lay off one-third of its hourly labor force Monday and concentrate production on a single model —the small Pacer.

The layoff, announced Tuesday, involves 8,500 workers.

The announcement was the first indication from U.S. automakers of their planned production next week in the face of a three-month supply of unsold cars. There are 252,980 workers idled this week, compared with 275,130 on short and long-term layoffs last week.

AMC's supply of unsold Gremlins, Hornets and Matadors stood at a 90-day supply entering February, a sharp drop from the 120-day supply at the beginning of January because of $200 to $600 cash rebates it began offering Jan. 21.

But the stock of unsold cars was large enough to cause AMC to continue its one-week on, one-week off production schedule. All plants operated this week after a one-week shutdown that ended Monday.

Next week's layoffs include 4,500 workers at the Kenosha, Wis., assembly plant, 3,000 at the Milwaukee body plant and 1,000 at the Brampton, Ont., assembly plant. Indefinite layoffs will remain at 450, a small number in comparison to its "Big Three" competitors who have 207,200 workers on openended layoffs this week.

Production of the new Pacer, a short-bodied car with interior space equal to mid-sized automobiles, will be increased next week, an AMC spokesman said. The company hopes to have at least 13,000 of them in dealer stock by the end of the month when it debuts Feb. 28.

AMC Chairman Roy D. Chapin Jr. has said the new Pacer should take up some of the slack that will accompany the ending of the industry's rebate programs.

Industry observers said AMC has selected the week-on, weekoff production scheduling in hopes of avoiding the massive open-ended layoffs that have been the industry's answer to slumping sales.

Industrywide, there was a 93-day supply of unsold cars at the start of February. A 50-to 60-day supply is considered normal.

MURDERER AND OUTSTANDING YOUNG MAN

Jaycee honor under fire

Jaycees won't back down on '74 award to convict

DETROIT (UPI) — Lloyd E. Tist was named one of the state Jaycees' "Five Outstanding Young Men of 1974." Jaycees in Warren, Mich., are protesting because Tist was convicted of stabbing a woman to death eight years ago.

The state group has refused to back down on its selection despite protests from the victim's family.

Tist was convicted of second-degree murder in the 1967 slaying of Judy Ann Phares. The Warren Jaycees debated the naming of the 31-year-old convict in a three-hour emergency meeting Tuesday night and voted unanimously to protest to the state Jaycee organization.

Tist last week was named one of the state's five top young men for his work for the blind while confined to Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson. It is the first time a Jaycee group has honored a convict since they started paying tribute to young men in 1956.

"While we, the Warren Jaycees, recognize his accomplishments, we will recommend to the executive committee of the Michigan Jaycees a complete review of those qualifications necessary to be a recipient," said a statement released by the group.

Tist was escorted by guards from his prison cell Sunday to Wyoming, Mich., where a banquet was held in honor of the five men. He is credited with transcribing more than 25,000 pages into Braille and creating a braille map for blind students.

Announcement of the award brought strong protests from Robert Servel, 67, father of Mrs. Phares. The woman was stabbed to death in her home during an apparent rape attempt while her husband was at work.

"I fully appreciate anything Mr. Tist has done for the blind and I commend him for it," Sergel said, "but I don't think the type of murder this gentleman committed seven years ago should be forgotten."

"They've got to go through all this emotional strain all over again," said Sergel.

He said his son took the news especially hard.

"I've raised my son to abide by the rule that crime does not pay," he said. "How can I tell him that a murderer is a hero no matter what he does?"

RUNAWAY AUTOMOBILE

Ross C. Allen of Pomona was hurt slightly Tuesday night when his runaway car knocked him down as it sped backwards across a parking lot before crashing into a building at 151 W. Commercial Ave., Pomona. Allen's brother was sliding across the front seat when the car slipped into gear and took off across the lot and Thomas Street. Allen's leg was hurt, but he did not need medical attention.

GM looks for hike in sales

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. chairman Thomas A. Murphy said today that a continued upswing in car sales would mean an end to new temporary layoffs at the No. 1 auto company by the end of March.

Murphy said if the traditional spring upswing in auto sales occurs despite the ending of cash rebates Feb. 28, progress could be made in recalling some of the 121,000 workers now on indefinite layoff—one-third of GM's hourly labor force.

"We at General Motors look for a gradual improvement in our nation's economy and in the sales trend of our business," Murphy said. "By the end of next month, we are hopeful that our sales results will make our plants so busy that no more temporary layoffs will be necessary."

$3,000 in concert tickets stolen

Shot fired at fleeing thief

The owner of the Raspberry Roach Head Shop in Ontario Tuesday afternoon fired a shot at a thief fleeing the store with a cigar box containing approximately $3,000 in concert tickets, police reported.

Police said the man apparently was not wounded and escaped in a white pickup truck with another man.

The theft was reported by Michael Thomas Crappa the owner of the shop that deals in pop art, concert tickets, and hippie garb at 1539 W. Fourth St.

Crappa told detectives that he was waiting on two customers when a third man in the store suddenly reached over the counter and grabbed a black cigar box containing numerous tickets for a scheduled Los Angeles rock concert.

Crappa said the man fled out the door and he grabbed a .357 caliber magnum revolver from under the counter and took aim. Crappa said that one customer, John Pasquivallatto of Pomona chased after the thief. As Crappa was about to fire at the thief, the other customer, Robert Fishcetti of Covina, hit his arm. The revolver discharged with the bullet piercing the plate glass window in the front of the store.

Crappa said the thief jumped a brick wall and got into a white pickup truck with another man and sped off. Fishcetti later told detectives he deflected the store owner's aim for fear he might hit his friend who was chasing the thief.

Police said the theft is under investigation this morning.

The thief was described as a Caucasian, 19 to 24, six feet tall, 175 pounds and wearing a white T-shirt and Levis.

In Pomona, a young woman told police Tuesday night that she stabbed a man who grabbed her and cut her with a straight-edge razor, but officers couldn't find the man.

Anna Marie Schiotis, 18, said she was walking at Weber Street north of Holt Avenue when she was seized from behind. She said that after she kicked the man and freed herself, he began making swipes at her with the razor. She attempted to ward off the weapon and then took a knife from her purse and thrust it at her attacker's stomach. The man fell to the sidewalk, moaning, she said. She went home and called police.

The young woman had minor cuts on her hand, wrist, forearm, neck and near one ear, but didn't require medical attention, officers reported.

The man was described as a Caucasian about 40 years old, 5 feet 11 weighing 180 pounds. He had sideburns, heavy eyebrows and chipped front teeth.

A young Pomona man was slugged and robbed of his money early today as he was walking near Center Street and Garey Avenue, Pomona.

David J. Dysinger, 22, who lives at the YMCA, said he was confronted by two men, one of whom hit him on the jaw and demanded his wallet. After the money was removed, the wallet was returned to him.

Dysinger's attacker was described as a Negro about 18 years old, 6 feet 1 weighing 150 pounds. He wore a white jacket and dark trousers.

In Upland a lone gunman robbed the Circle K Market at 460 S. Campus Ave., a small amount of cash.

Store clerk Juanita Spicer told police that at 11 p.m. a Negro, about 25, 5 feet 8, 150 pounds, asked to purchase two packs of cigarettes. She handed the man the cigarettes and he suddenly produced a small automatic pistol telling her not to push or touch any buttons or bells. The gunman ordered the clerk to hand him the cash from the register. She complied and the robber fled.

The robber was further described as wearing a brown sweater, yellow ski cap, and light blue pants.

SPOTLIGHT ON CRIME

Rear-end crash injures area man

An Upland man was injured early Tuesday when his car was struck from behind by a truck as he exited from the San Bernardino Freeway onto Euclid Avenue in Ontario.

Kenneth Bromage, 39, of 1040 Torrance Drive was admitted to Kaiser Hospital in Fontana where he is listed in satisfactory condition.

Bromage was going west in the freeway's outside lane about 45 miles an hour and had his turn signal on as he started up the off-ramp, said highway patrolmen.

His car was hit from behind by a truck-trailer driven by Clifford Reid, 52, of Sandy, Utah, they added.

Head of local D.A. office transferred

Richard P. Kalustian, head deputy of the Pomona office of the district attorney, is being transferred to a new position effective Feb. 18.

Kalustian has headed the Pomona office for 11 months.

The transfer is one of eight "lateral transfers" within the district attorney's office, A spokesman for the Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch in Los Angeles said the transfers are part of Busch's policy to occasionally move supervising deputies.

Kalustian, who lives in Inglewood, will be replaced by Bernard Gross, who headed the Pomona office before Kalustian was assigned there.

Kalustian, who supervised 20 deputy DAs, eight secretaries and four investigators in Pomona, will take charge of the Consumer and Environmental Protection Division in Los Angeles. He did not request the transfer.

The new post involves prosecution of unfair competition in business, false advertising and environmental problems, he said.

Gross, who lives in Montebello, became head deputy of the Pomona office in December 1972 and served until Kalustian's transfer to the post. Gross replaced Robert L. Johnson, who headed the office for many years and was transferred to Los Angeles.

Strongman is assassinated

TANANARIVE, Malagasy (UPI) — The armed forces set up a 19-man committee to run troubled Malagasay today in the wake of the assassination of the island nation's military strongman.

The national radio said Col. Richard Ratsimandrava died of bullet wounds Tuesday night, only six days after he took over as military ruler of the former French colony.

Fleet reserve unit opposes hike in commissary prices

The Pomona Valley Fleet Reserve Association, Branch 211, is urging ll military personnel, either on active duty or retired, to oppose any reduction in commissary benefits, according to branch secretary C. Ray Watson.

Watson said that all personnel should contact their U.S. senators and congressmen about the proposed increase of commissary prices.

Watson explained that more information about reduction of commissary benefits will be explained to members of the branch and The Ladies Auxiliary Fleet Reserve Association, Unit 21, at a meeting tonight at 8 at the American Legion hall, at 13130 Central Ave., Chino.

After the meeting the branch and unit will hold a pizza party at Chemelo's Pizza Hut at the cost of $1.50 a person.

What does it feel like?

Panel to discuss suicide attempts

A panel of three persons who had tried to commit suicide will tell what the feeling is like when they appear at the seminar of the Suicide and Crisis Intervention Service Thursday night in Upland.

The seminar, the second of four, will be from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church.

The classes are sponsored by Chaffey College and are free. Raymond Wirth is the instructor.

Other seminars are scheduled for Feb. 20 and 27.

New Conservative leader in debut

LONDON (UPI) — Margaret Thatcher made her parliamentary debut as the first woman leader of Britain's Conservative party today and gave her blessings to a $648,000 raise for Queen Elizabeth.

Her party colleagues cheered loudly as the first woman to head Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition rose in the House of Commons on the first day at the helm of the party of the late Winston Churchill.

Cronkite convinced MIA newsmen alive

NEW YORK (UPI) — Walter Cronkite says he is convinced at least some of 22 journalist missing in Cambodia are still alive. The CBS Evening News anchorman asked journalists Tuesday to step up efforts to get more information on them.

About 15 of the missing photographers and newswriters were captured in April-May 1970, about the time U.S. and South Vietnamese forces invaded Cambodia to attack Viet Cong sanctuaries.

"We are coming against this absolute stone wall —or bamboo curtain —as far as getting into the (Cambodian) Khmer Rouge territory and getting a look on the ground," said Cronkite, who heads a committee of journalists seeking to learn the whereabouts of the missing.

But, he said, "We have good reason for hope. We're convinced at least some of them are being held."

He said evidence has been received that some of the men were seen as recently as 18 months ago.

Cronkite made his plea at a reunion of journalists who covered the Indochina War. The meeting was called to focus on the disappearance in Cambodia of 22 journalists —four of them American —and as a memorial to the newsmen and photographers who died covering the war.

"It is too darned bad we have to come here tonight, in a sense, as failures. We do not have positive evidence the men are alive," Cronkite told about 100 persons attending.

Cronkite asked that journalists write articles about the missing and ask delegations going to Communist areas of Indochina to seek information.

"The interest cannot flag," Cronkite said. "If it flags, we fail. We must keep the hope alive by continuing to work at it."

Bad timing for Catholics at Disneyland

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Disneyland concedes that today's special event is poorly timed.

This is "Catholic School Day" at the amusement park. Children from Catholic schools throughout San Diego and Orange counties, out of classes for Lincoln's birthday, get special ticket discounts.

Today is also Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent, when conscientious Catholics are urged to make personal sacrifices and eschew pleasurable pursuits. The Southern Cross, the San Diego archdiocesan newspaper, called the juxtaposition "surely an inappropriate way to start the season of Lent."

Disneyland's group sales department, which said it had received cancelations from some schools, said a San Diego priest had picked the day.

ANSWER TO THE RECESSION — "Vicki" wears a bikini bottom and little else as she scoops fish out of tank for a customer. She works weekends as a topless salesgirl at a New York tropical fish shop. Since she and another girl were hired, business is up 40 per cent.

Not exactly a mermaid, still the fish aren't complaining

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Other places you know you're gonna be hassled," said Toni, a young lady wearing silver slippers and very little else. "Here, the atmosphere is great. It's got class."

As Toni described how she goes about her work, an assortment of goldfish, catfish, silver angels and kissing fish splashed away, hardly disconcerted by her costume of bikini bottom and pasties.

A picture on the wall showed a cartoon character peeping from behind a door with the caption, "This Place Has Been Rated X."

Toni, a slim black girl, and her co-worker Vicki, a generously endowed blonde, are selfdescribed "dancers" who work weekends as topless salesgirls at a Queens borough tropical fish shop.

"Money is tight," said Stuart Pector, owner of the House of Fish. "We're trying to draw people into our store. You can buy a 10-gallon tank anywhere."

Pector, who charges a $1 admission fee for first-time customers when the girls are there, said that business is up 40 per cent since the store went topless 10 weeks ago.

"We have a lot of people who are curious coming in on the weekend," he said. "Many come back during the week. The great majority do wind up buying something."

Pector said he's received several dozen phone calls and letters from "ignorant people" complaining about the topless idea.

As for the customers, one man who came in with his son to purchase tank accessories said he was not all that overwhelmed.

"There's nothing wrong with it. It's puritanical compared to what I've seen elsewhere," he said.

"When he has mermaids, I'll be back."

Private enterprise in the Soviet

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet court Tuesday deliberated the case of "Uncle Grisha," a wanted man who turned up at a leather factory in Baku, hired his own workers and ran the place for two years as a private enterprise producing suede skirts.

Newspapers reported that Uncle Grisha was so dominant a personality he used a shop manager as his personal chauffeur.

Not only did he secure the suede, he personally installed the machinery and designed the skirts, the newspapers said.

The factory should have been producing handbags.

When he celebrated his 60th birthday in a restaurant, he hired a bus to take his friends home.

The newspapers said Uncle Grisha was Grigory Mazkin, who had been sought by police for 10 years for bribery in Odessa, Ukraine. His face appears on wanted posters around the country.

A Baku court trying Mazkin was told that his most difficult task was procuring suede, which is in short supply. But Mazkin got shipments from places up to 1,000 miles away. In Riga, on the Baltic coast, a consignment was authorized on the basis of a letter delivered by the "official representative" of a Minister.

The representative was Uncle Grisha, prosecutors said.

To sew the skirts, Mazkin and his associates hired "a brigade of tailors" and paid their wages though they were not registered as workers at the factory.

Investigators could not estimate the total number of skirts or money involved, but when police finally raided the factory, they found 3,500 rejected suede skirts worth $109,000.

Ruse to get autograph of Arafat backfires

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A Philadelphia couple who claimed they named their son after Yasser Arafat, leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization, have revealed it was only a ruse to get Arafat's autograph.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Colbert of the city's Manayunk section, said that they are autograph collectors who tell heads of state and other celebrities they have named a child after them in order to get an authentic signature.

The couple recently wrote to Arafat and told him they had named their 2-month-old son after him because they were so impressed with his speech before the United Nations in December. They asked Arafat to "write a few words of advice" to their son.

The Colberts' ploy became public when the Beirut Daily Star printed their letter and Arafat's reply. The Colberts later revealed they did not have a 2-month-old son.

"All we wanted was for the man to send a letter back," said Colbert, an unemployed machinist. "We never meant to hurt anyone and we have never done it to make money."

Psychiatrist hopes to make emergency room less a 'zoo'

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Busy hospital emergency room staffers can be callous, cold and even abusive, warns a psychiatrist.

"There are a lot of complaints about staffers and many are true," says Dr. Louis Spitz, who is trying to remedy the situation.

Spitz says emergency room workers —often harried and strained by a lot of feverish activity —sometimes let their emotions spill into their work.

"For example," says Spitz, "an overdose patient —maybe a suicide attempt —comes in and the usual procecure is to pump the stomach.

"The staffer, who may figure this person has needlessly added to his work load, could find himself shoving a stomach pump tube down the patient with almost sadistic pleasure.

"There are a lot of strange things happening at the same time in a very cramped space in the emergency room," points out Spitz. "I've heard staffers call it the zoo or the circus."

Making the emergency room less of a "zoo" is Spitz' job.

Funded with $27,000 from the National Institute of Mental Health, the assistant professor of psychiatry at the University of Cincinnati has set up a training program for the 245 Cincinnati General Hospital emergency room staffers.

Spitz says General Hospital is a good place to start. Handling 130,000 patients a year, the emergency room is the busiest in Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Kentucky, and one of the busiest in the nation.

"The training program can be linkened to sessions on a psychiatrist's couch," Spitz says of the one-to-one and group teaching techniques. "Basically, we examine the staffers' attitudes and try to change the bad ones.

"Just telling the staffers, 'now be nice and be more understanding' just doesn't work. They already know they should be nice and understanding. We need something deeper here. We need to get in touch with their own feelings and anxieties.

"We're getting less complaints here, but training like this is slow. There's a natural resistance. You've got to remember that staffers see things in one shift that most of us never see in our entire lives.

"It can't be heaven in the emergency room, but it should be a lot better than it sometimes is."

Penney store gains bond drive award

A U.S. Treasury flag, recognizing outstanding achievement in the U.S. Savings Bond drive, has been awarded to the J.C. Penney store in Montclair Plaza.

Donald V. Siebert, board chairman and chief executive officer of J.C. Penney Co., presented the flag to W.J. Paprocki, Montclair store manager.

Ninety-one per cent of all associates at the store participated in the savings bond program. Employes increase their payroll deductions to join the program.

In this year's drive, 60 per cent of the associates who previously participated in the program increased their payroll deductions.

Seibert stated that "We all have a responsibility in supporting the U.S. Savings Bond program."

There's never been a better time to shop Thrifty.

We cut our costs to help cut yours.

At Thrifty, we try to save money where we can so you can save, too. Here's how it works:

WE KEEP OUR STAFF LEAN. If we had more clerks we'd have to pass the expense on to you. So if you don't mind serving yourself to merchandise, you can help yourself to a lot more savings.

NO DRESSING ROOMS. They're okay for big fancy stores with fancy clothes and fancy price tags. But not for us. They take up valuable floor space that could be better filled with the things you need – at the low prices you want.

THE MOST POPULAR ITEMS AT POPULAR PRICES. Usually when stores say this they mean the prices are popular with management. Not so at Thrifty. We stock the items people want most – 25,000 of them. And we buy them in big quantities.

But like any wise company, we don't believe in cutting corners on essentials.

We think you should be able to do much of your shopping in one place – so we have 60 departments carrying everything from auto supplies to cosmetics.

We think you should be able to get what you want when you want it, so we're open long hours, 365 days a year.

And with the price of gasoline, you shouldn't have to drive all over town to shop with us. So we have a store near you.

In today's economy, we think this makes a lot of sense.

Electricity answer to oil shortage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States should reorient its economy toward electricity generated by coal or nuclear power and conserve its petroleum for transportation and manufacturing, according to a report submitted to the Atlantic Council.

The Council, a private advisory group, is headed by former Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler. Its members are academic, government and industry leaders. The report was prepared by John Gray, a private consultant.

Gray referred to a paper he had written for the Federal Energy Administration in which he said: "Increase in supply and use of electricity in the U.S. has been a pervasive historical trend for reasons of economy, versatility and reliability."

Using data provided by Westinghouse Electric Corp., Gray concluded that "electrification" could save 6.5 trillion cubic feet of natural gas and 2.5 billion barrels of oil a year —and that figure would be doubled by the year 2000.

The price tag, Gray estimated, would be $50 billion a year.

The paper also recommended the major oil producing nations be encouraged to invest surplus funds in the United States.

Gray also suggested a new federal gasoline tax, subsidized mass transportation and an energy supply authority — having power similar to World War II's War Production Board —to coordinate the energy effort.

"The free world international community will look to the United States for leadership only if the United States makes sense in the management and financing of its own energy supply and use program," the study said. "This simply is not the case today."

FREE AT LAST — After almost 36 years in prison, Vincent Dawe, center, is the object of considerable attention as he is surrounded by friends and family at the home of a cousin in Monterey. Dawe was convicted and imprisoned for killing a Sacramento fantan dealer in 1939 in an argument over $1.65 Dawe lost gambling. He was imprisoned at California Men's Colony, San Luis Obispo. His main desire now is for a car. "I have seen them and they are nice," said the one-time farm worker.

Rebate works with old car

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ray Zrinsky figures if the automobile world's Big Three can give rebates to sell cars, then so can he.

For two weeks, Zrinsky had a "for sale" sign on his 1962 sedan but had no luck.

Then he decided to use the rebate plan. He has been snowed under with callers since he put a sign in the car window reading, "Buy now and get a $200 rebate."

Zrinsky, who lives in suburban Lombard, says the car is for sale for $175 but he will take $375 and refund $200.

Man who didn't want to leave prison likes it on the outside

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Born in prison to an inmate mother, Bobby Ferguson liked prison life so much he would commit minor crimes to get into jail, and even asked Gov. Robert D. Ray to give him a life sentence. But times change.

Ferguson has spent all but two of his 40 years in state institutions.

Now he has been released again from the Iowa State Penitentiary —and says things have changed. He intends to stay on the outside.

"When I left the prison, Mr. Brewer (Warden Lou Brewer) said they would probably see me pretty soon, but Mr. Brewer's got a long time to wait."

He has found a new home working on the Raymond Meyer farm near Ottumwa and says he is finally sure things will work out, because he has a family.

"That makes all the difference in the world," he told UPI in a telephone interview. "I have lots of things to do here. I do chores, cut wood. I love it real good," he said.

Born in the Iowa Women's Reformatory at Rockwell City, Ferguson was raised in institutions. It was the only life he had ever known. Because it was his only familiar environment, he would commit minor offenses every time he was released from prison. Then he would call police and have himself arrested.

In December of 1973, Ferguson wrote a letter to Ray asking that he be sentenced to life in prison so he could remain behind bars, where he felt secure.

Ray denied the request and instead helped Ferguson get a parole and arranged to get him a job as a custodian in Fort Madison, where the prison is located. He violated parole by leaving that job last February.

Ferguson turned up at a mission home here, disappeared again, then finally gave up his illegal wanderings at mid-year and returned to his prison home.

He was discharged at the end of his sentence. He is no longer on parole and has taken a job at the Meyer farm where, he says, he feels like an adopted son —part of a family for the first time in his life.

He said Meyer offered him the job while he was in prison and came to visit him.

Chinese lose table tennis title on foul

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The National Table Tennis League has ruled that the Republic of China men's team placed toothpaste on ping pong balls during the recent world championship matches.

The decision stripped the Chinese team of its world professional title and awarded the championship to the Seattle Sockeyes.

The two teams met Feb. 3 in Hubbard, Ore., for the championship. The results were suspended after Seattle team captain Tom Ruttinger protested that the Chinese had placed a foreign substance on the balls.

Lizzie Borden club asks for equal time

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (UPI) — The Friends of Lizzie Borden, a whimsical group with members throughout the country, has four words for The American Broadcasting Company:

"We demand equal time."

That was the entire content of a telegram sent after The ABC Monday Night Movie, "The Legend of Lizzie Borden," which dramatized the infamous story of a notorious spinster accused of the ax murders of her father and stepmother in 1892.

"They done our Lizzie wrong again," said William Rabe, president of the group, whose only official function consists of writing letters defending her name whenever it pops up. "We're not going to let 'em get away with this."

Rabe said he had no quarrel with the first hour and 40 minutes of the movie.

"But then in the last ten minutes they construct out of old cloth a plausible but entirely theoretical and unsupported hypothesis as to how Lizzie committed the crime," he said.

Rabe said the movie prompted him to take more drastic action by sending the telegram rather than the usual letter.

Membership in the Friends of Lizzie Borden is automatic with receipt of a stamped self-addressed envelope at Lake Superior State College, where Rabe is public relations director.

The new member receives a "Lizzie Borden Membership Certificate" that features a bloody thumbprint in place of a signature.

New problem for surgeons

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pull-tab ingestion is one of the newest medical maladies, says Medical Tribune, a newspaper for doctors.

It happens this way: person pulls ring off beverage can and drops same inside the can and drinks, swallowing tab accidentally. It's difficult to pin down. The tabs are aluminum and don't show up on X-ray once inside the anatomy.

When care means everything

There are times when care, and care alone, means everything. That's why at Rose Hills we are not just another mortuary. We stress the importance of care and understanding above all else.

It was a care for beauty that led to the creation, more than a half century ago, of the world's most naturally beautiful memorial park.

It was an understanding of people's needs that led us to establish a mortuary. We offer every needed service — mortuary, cemetery, chapels, flower shops, mausoleums and crematory — all at one convenient location.

Care... and understanding. At Rose Hills, we think they mean a lot.

Inflation and recession poisoning population

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government experts said today economic uncertainty has led to a boom in home gardening and home canning. The result: the greatest number of botulism cases last year since the Depression.

Officials say an estimated six million home gardens were planted in 1974, mainly due to rising prices and lingering fears of unemployment. The new gardens have meant more novice canners, and the experts say that could be the reason for the increase in deadly botulism.

Seven persons were killed by botulism last year - five from home canned food, one from commercially packed food and one where the source was not known. The Center for Disease Control reported 20 outbreaks of botulism poisoning involving 30 persons — the highest one year total since 1935.

As a result, officials are trying to alert consumers to the dangers of poorly preserved foods.

"We are planning a major press conference March 10 to launch a massive information and education program nationwide to inform consumers on how to safely home can," Nancy Steorts, consumer adviser at the Agriculture Department told UPI.

In the meantime she suggests anyone doubtful of the quality of home canned food should check with the Agriculture Department's county extension agent.

Botulinum bacteria occur naturally but are usually killed when canned foods are boiled as part of the canning process. If the food is not heated enough the bacteria grow and produce compounds, among the most toxic of natural substances, that can be fatal.

The five confirmed botulism deaths linked to home canned food included one in Alaska last July from whitefish; one in Oregon in August from potatoes and peas; one in Pennsylvania in December from beef and mushrooms, and two in New York in December from mushrooms.

California lawmakers complain they're being stalked by police

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California lawmakers are worried Sacramento police may be stalking them in an attempt to snare them on drunken driving and other charges, legislative leaders say.

"There are definite indications that at least a couple of policemen on the Sacramento force...might be lying in wait around the Capitol trying to nail a few legislators," Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy said Monday.

In less than three months, Sacramento police have arrested three assemblymen on charges of driving under the influence of alcohol. Those charged were Assemblyman John Foran of San Francisco, John Thurman of Modesto and Mike Cullen of Long Beach, all Democrats.

But Sacramento Police Chief William Kinney said he didn't believe his officers were involved in singling out legislators or any other group of drivers.

"I don't think our officers are involved in anything like that," Kinney said. "There are a lot of arrests here and I personally don't keep a record (of lawmakers picked up)."

McCarthy, who called a news conference to discuss the police matter, said he did not know why a few officers were waiting around the Capitol but added he would try to find out.

Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego, said he thinks a particular policeman is treating legislators differently than other drivers.

"I understand he has been lying in wait and following legislators' cars," Mills said, adding that the officer may have appointed himself to "some kind of crusade."

Mills said "a couple of" senators have expressed concern they were being stopped for no apparent reason and checked to see if they had been drinking.

"Members of the legislature like to be treated like anyone else," said the Senate leader. "No one likes to feel like he's being singled out by law enforcement."

Mills said there is nothing legislators could or should do about the problem, if it exists. He said it was up to police officials to take action.

Most of the 120 assembly men and senators park their cars in a garage located under the East wing of the Capitol, which exits onto two downtown streets.

"We've had descriptions of one or two (police) cars following our people (legislators) from one side of the park when they spotted the plates," McCarthy said.

Assemblymen have special license plates with large "A's" on them while most senators have "S's" on theirs.

One officer, Tom Bristow, was in on the arrests of Thurman and Foran.

Bristow said, "I play absolutely no favorites and I'm not looking for anyone when I stop a vehicle nor am I overlooking anyone. Once the vehicle is stopped either you have an intoxicated driver or not."

Sen. Alan Robbins, D-Los Angeles, said he was pulled over in downtown Sacramento last month. He said he wasn't speeding or violating the law.

Robbins said the officer asked him for his license and then asked, "Well Mr. Robbins how much have you been drinking tonight?"

Robbins told the officer he hadn't drunk anything stronger than "Japanese green tea."

"As far as I'm concerned, very clearly and very logically," Robbins said, "the only reason he stopped me was to see if he couldn't get another legislator."

Function of stock market forgotten

NEW YORK (UPI) — Everybody knows it's possible to make money in the stock market if you're smart and lucky —and easy to lose your shirt if you aren't.

But according to brokers, a large number of Americans do not remember the real function of the stock market in the nation's economy. It is explained in grade school textbooks —but who remembers?

All too often, the stock market seems to be simply a huge arena for speculation -- and to many traders, that's often what it is. To that extent it is a barometer of what traders expect to happen in business and the economy.

But that is not its basic purpose.

Its real function is to provide a ready source of liquid capital for business, an auction market where an investor can be sure of selling his interest in a business almost instantaneously.

That makes it possible for investors, ranging from an individual with 10 shares to a bank or insurance company with millions of shares, to reclaim or shift their investment in a matter of minutes, with minimal risk.

We call it the stock market, but stock exchanges also provide auction trading in bonds and debentures. So does the over-the-counter market. Thus people who prefer to lend money to a company, rather than own a part of it, also can get in and out of such investments quickly through the stock market.

However, the market has not been attracting a large flow of new money for business since the early 1960s.

The current big stock trading volume is in older stocks. Most of the big capital issues being bought are bonds and debentures, some of them convertible into stock at the option of the buyer.

A number of new stock issues for existing companies, or cases of small private companies "going public," are announced each month in the over-the-counter market. But the overall volume of these is small in comparison with the lush days from the end of World War II to the late 1960s.

That means it's a lot harder now than it was then for young businessmen to raise a few hundred thousand dollars and launch a promising business. Nowadays, the capital must be borrowed, often at high interest rates, instead of being raised by selling stock.

Brokers see this as a serious roadblock to economic recovery in the United States. Wall Streeters and many business executives are urging the federal government to do something about it.

Chairman Charles Bluhdorn of Gulf & Western Industries, Inc., for example, last week increased his company's dividend and urged Congress to let small income taxpayers deduct more dividend income in order to encourage them to buy common stocks.

Why did the market for new stocks dry up?

You can probably get a thousand answers to that question, nearly all of them right. But they add up to the fact that too many little investors got burned buying new issues. Too many companies were launched whose only real purpose, as a famous statement by the Securities and Exchange Commission put it, was the sale of their own stocks and debentures.

Nature tours

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (UPI) — Papillon Tours will offer 11-day nature trips into the hinterlands of Trinidad and French Guiana next summer.

The tours, to be operated between July and November, include visits to the Asa Wright Nature Center in Trinidad and Ile Royale of French Guiana.

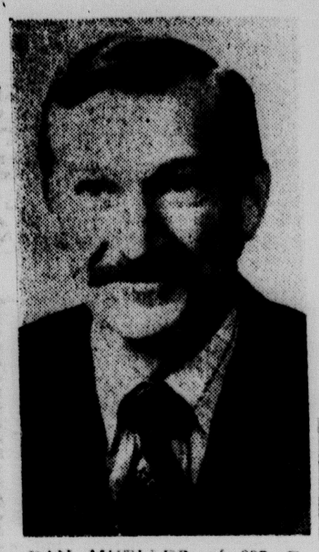
BANKAMERICARD



DAN MUELLER of 237 E. Buffington St., Upland, has been promoted to manager of the Slauson-Vermont Bank of America in Los Angeles. Mueller, with the bank since 1956, assumes the post after one year as assistant vice president of loans at the bank's Pomona Main Office.

Area college to show Cannes prize winner

"Animaux Sauvages" (wild animals), the final film in an Audubon wildlife series, will be shown at La Fetra Hall in La Verne College Feb. 19 at 8 p.m.

The winner of an award for the best educational documentary at the Cannes Film Festival in 1971, the film is a study of some of the wild creatures of Africa.

Painstaking work by San Schippers and Henk Kegel resulted in some unusual sequences: underwater filming of hippos, elephant habits and migrations, the solitary lifestyle and ingenious hunting skills of the cheetah, termites working at their mounds and a gathering of flamingoes.

Cal Poly urban planning

Master's program accredited

The master of urban planning degree program at Cal Poly has been given a five-year recognition by the American Institute of Planners. According to Harry A. Anthony, chairman of the department of urban planning, recognition in this field is equivalent to accreditation by the profession.

The maximum five-year recognition was granted retroactively to 1972 at the request of the department. In this way alumni who earned graduate degrees in 1973 and 1974 will receive the benefit of accreditation.

The request for recognition was submitted in July 1974 and met the criteria established by the national standards committee of the American institute of Planners. This criteria pertained to the graduate program objectives, the organizational structure (the internal administration and policy of the department), affirmative action policies, the curriculum, the financial support, the library and physical facilities, and the alumni.

Recognition of degree programs promotes collaborative efforts between schools of planning and assures high professional standards.

Cal Poly's urban planning undergraduate degree program gained recognition in 1970. The graduate program was started in 1970-71.

Parents and teachers

The Thursday meeting of the Philedalphia School PTA in Pomona will be centered around the theme of Black History Week.

The meeting will be held at 3 p.m. in the school cafetorium. Following a short business meeting, two members of the community will be presented honorary service awards. The children of the third and sixth grades, under the direction of their teachers, will present the program.

★ ★ ★

EL RANCHO ELEMENTARY SCHOOL PTA, Chino will present two honorary service awards at the annual Founders Day program Feb. 20 at 7 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the school multipurpose room.

★ ★ ★

"George Washington's Life", a play produced by first graders at MORENO SCHOOL in Montclair, will be presented at 7 p.m. Feb. 20 for parents and other residents.

The Moreno PTA will also present two honorary service awards in recognition of outstanding service to children and youth.

★ ★ ★

Candidates for the Pomona School board will give brief presentations during the combined meeting of LINCOLN and YORBA ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS, Pomona on Feb. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln auditorium.

During the meeting the candidates will present their qualifications and philosophy to the community.

All interested persons are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

'65 Upland High class to reunite

The 10th anniversary reunion of Upland High School Class of 1965 is slated on Aug. 23 at the Diamond Bar Country Club.

A buffet dinner will be served at 8 p.m. after the social hour. Entertainment and dancing will be included in the program.

A July 15 deadline has been set for ticket sales.

Former members of the class can obtain details by contacting Bill or Paulette Talley at 628-5768 or Bob or Cheryl Smith at 627-1736.

PHIL R. WOOD of Claremont has been named superintendent of the roll shop department at Kaiser Steel Corp.'s Fontana plant. He was general foreman. Wood has been with Kaiser since 1956.

Area residents' son takes Newport post

David W. Ariss, 35, has joined John D. Lusk & Son of Newport Beach as sales director for the firm's industrial and commercial property divisions.

Ariss is a licensed real estate broker and for the past four years was associated with Coldwell Banker & Co. in the industrial property department.

His responsibilities with Lusk will be in acquiring additional industrial property, building on contract to suit clients needs, and selling or leasing the firm's existing industrial land.

Ariss, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ariss of 2286 N. Orange Grove Ave., Pomona, is a graduate of Claremont Men's College. He is a highly decorated Marine Corps helicopter pilot with more than eight years of service. Ariss and his wife and two children reside in Corona del Mar.

Afro Week activities planned at Mt. SAC

Several hundred persons are expected to take part in Afro Week at Mt. San Antonio College Feb. 19-21.

Busloads of elementary school children from four schools will be brought to the campus for the three-day program sponsored by the Black Students Union.

The children will come from the North San Antonio and Yorba schools in Pomona, and the Sparks and California schools in La Puente.

"One measure of success is the degree of participation we receive from people of other ethnic backgrounds," C. Russell Martin, coordinator of the programs, explained. "Especially with children, we feel it is important to have contact with other cultures."

The programs will range from films to a talent show, a jazz concert and a tour of the campus.

Congressman Ronald Dellum, D-8th Dist., who represents Alamenda and Contra Costa counties, will deliver an address on Feb. 21.

The observances will conclude with a dance Friday night in the Student Center.

8 from valley at osteopathic parley

Eight Pomona physicians will participate in the annual educational convention of the Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons of California. The convention starts today and continues until Sunday aboard the Queen Mary in Long Beach.

Dr. Richard Eby, convention chairman, will present a three-day program featuring local speakers. Dr. Paul A. Frederick will discuss "The Preventive Approach to Coronary Artery Disease." Dr. Charles Yelsa, roentgenologist at Park Avenue Hospital, Pomona, will talk about diseases association with the plasma cell." Also attending from Pomona will be Dr. William Stahl andDr. Robert S. Lee.

A lecture on "Podiatric Considerations in the Whole Man Approach" will be presented by panelists Dr. Francis Lantz, Dr. William C. Landry and Dr. James R. LaRose.

Baton class will start in La Verne

The La Verne Recreation Department will offer a baton class beginning Tuesday. Classes will be held every Tuesday and Thursday at the Community Building.

Beginning classes meet from 4:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., with intermediate classes following from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Persons between 4 and 14 are eligible to participate. The fee is $5 for 5 weeks.

Registration is now being accepted at the La Verne Recreation Office, 2039 Third St. All registration must be made and fees paid prior to the start of the class. For further information, persons may call the La Verne Recreation Office at 593-4571.

DR. EDWARD ZALTA

Staff chief elected at hospital

Dr. Edward Zalta has been elected chief of staff of Foothill Presbyterian Hospital, Glendora. Others elected to office for 1975 are Dr. William R. Morgan, chief of staff-elect and Dr. John J. Di Mare, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Zalta succeeds Dr. John M. Wormley, immediate past chief of staff, who guided the hospital through a period of major growth.

The new chief of staff earned his B.S. and M.D. degrees from Tulane University, New Orleans, La. In 1960, he established his Glendora practice as an ear, nose and throat specialist, and opened a second office in West Covina in 1965.

Dr. Zalta is also president-elect of District 13, Los Angeles County Medical Association.

Chest X-ray unit to visit

Chest X-rays will be available at a mobile unit on Feb. 18, 19 and 20 at Fourth Street and Grove Avenue, Ontario.

Sponsored by the Lung Association of San Bernardino, Inyo and Mono counties, the unit will be open from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 5 p.m. each day.

Chest X-rays are an important part of preventive medicine as they detect many respiratory problems in addition to tuberculosis.

A $2 donation is being requested to help offset the costs and each person examined will receive a written report.

Theology school has new vice president

Buford A. Dickinson has been promoted to vice president for administration at the School of Theology at Claremont by the board of trustees, according to President Gordon E. Michalson.

Prior to his promotion Dickinson was assistant to the president and director of continuing education.

He holds a doctor of religion degree from STC and has served in an administrative capacity at the school since 1964. Before coming to the STC he was pastor of various churches in Mississippi and Georgia.

The political arena

Ayala opposes cutbacks in health benefits

STATE SEN. RUBEN AYALA, D-32nd Dist., has introduced a bill that would prohibit various health care plans from reducing benefits under their policies when retirement disability benefits are receivable from Social Security.

The measure applies to all health care service plans, disability insurance policies, self insured welfare benefit plans and hospital service plans which are entered into, amended, renewed, delivered or issued for delivery on or after Jan. 1, 1976.

The proposed measure stipulates that such plans and policies may not contain any provision off-setting or reducing in any way benefits received or eligible for receipt by a person under the amended federal Social Security Act.

"This measure would protect citizens from having their private plans and policies decreased just because they are eligible for Social Security," said Ayala. "Our high inflation makes it important that we protect people who are on fixed incomes."

★ ★ ★

REP. JIM LLOYD, D-35th Dist., is among the 19 California Congress members who are asking for an extension of the April deadline for California cities submitting applications for Community Development Block Grants.

California's tough anti-pollution laws require environmental impact statements to accompany applications for the grants, he explained.

In a letter drafted by Rep. George Danielson, D-30th Dist., Lloyd joined 18 other legislators in urging Secretary James T. Lynn of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to consider the problems faced by municipal officials in submitting these reports to meet the April 15 deadline.

"We want to protect the environment and at the same time allow California cities to get their full share of federal funds. We should not be penalized because of our strong enviornmental protection laws," said Lloyd.

Rep. JOHN ROUSSELOT, R-26th Dist., has called for fiscal discipline to halt inflation and recession. "To believe that further controls are the answer is pure folly," he said.

Rousselot said the nation should be more concerned with fiscal discipline and spending of tax dollars than with imposing controls on the private sector. "The idea of regulating wages and prices, interest rates and consumer credit are completely unworkable and inequitable."

He advocated returning to a balanced budget," reducing federal expenditures to balance anticipated revenues; tax cuts made possible by reduction in federal spending; and repeal of regulatory laws which allow federal intervention in the private sector, discouraging competition, raising prices and otherwise promoting inflation.

"These solutions would allow the free market to function and to deliver goods and products at competitive prices to all consumers, returning the basic decision making power to the people."

Chest surgeons most popular

NEW YORK (UPI) — When 41 workers in the health professions were ranked according to popularity, thoracic (chest) surgeons came in number one. Chiropractors came in last.

The health-team members were ranked according to how much physicians, patients and students looked up to them, reports the American Academy of Family Practice.

Centennial unit extends deadline for motto, flag

The Pomona Centennial Committee has announced it will continue accepting entries in the city motto and flag contests through Feb. 28.

The committee had previously set a Jan. 31 deadline for entries.

Both contests are open to all Pomona residents or persons who work in Pomona.

A $100 savings bond will be awarded to the winner in both categories.

Criteria for the city motto are brevity, applicability, optimism and timelessness.

For the city flag, criteria are simplicity of design and color, and symbolism appropriate for Pomona.

Entries may be delivered to David Streeter at the Pomona Public Library, or mailed to P.O. Box 2271, Pomona 91766.

Foreign tourism

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York heads the list of favorites destinations for Europeans visiting the United States via Swissair, according to Andre Chesaux, manager of the carrier's Visit North America department. Next in popularity, he said, were Washington D.C., Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago.

For those needing less than hospital care

Transitional mental health center to open

A psychotherapeutic program for young women will begin Friday in Ontario.

Operated by San Bernardino County's Mental Health Department, the facility will offer a group home setting with psychotherapy, school and other planned activities.

The program will be conducted at Rose Manor, located on Campus Avenue.

This will accommodate 24 patients who will live in a cottage-like, open setting with the objective of becoming self sufficient or being able to return to parents or foster parents.

Residents will be those girls now in state hospitals who can be released to a more transitional care, said officials.

A program director and consulting psychologist will plan and supervise therapy geared to individual needs of residents.

A paraprofessional staff, working under the program director, will be with residents 24 hours per day to insure maximum benefit.

The program is designed to create an atmosphere where each resident can learn a sense of appreciation and consideration for others and also develop a healthy and positive image of herself within the total community, officials said.

Official dedication ceremonies are scheduled for 2 p.m. Friday.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

France assumed a protectorate over Annam on March 15, 1874, according to the 1875 World Almanac, in a treaty signed at Saigon. The Emperor of Annam was obliged to conform his foreign policy to that of France and to recognize French possession of Cochin China while the French promised protection and suppression of piracy. The emperor, however, systematically violated treaty provisions and appealed to China for aid against the French.

South played brilliantly (at least he thought he had), quickly (everyone agreed to that), and with conspicuous lack of success.

He rose with dummy's jack of hearts, plunked his ace on East's queen, took the club finesse and ran off six club tricks. Then he led a heart and hoped for the best. The best did not eventuate. West had discarded one spade, one heart and two diamonds. He cashed the last three hearts and led a diamond to give his partner tricks with the ace and king.

South wanted to know why North had bid three notrump, instead of dropping the bidding at two notrump or signing off at three clubs.

North replied, "If I had known I was playing with a butcher, I would have bid three clubs."

We wouldn't go so far as to say that South had butchered the hand, but we do know that a really enterprising player would have brought home nine tricks. At trick two he would have led the queen of spades. If West covered he would take dummy's ace, come back to his hand with the second spade and then finesse the club. If West ducked, South's queen of spades would hold the trick. Now the club finesse would be taken.

This would have led to a substantial set if either finesse had lost, but South wasn't doubled and should have taken the chance.

Kids rob banks to help reduce penny shortage

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Children in the West have robbed their piggy banks, and the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco is happy.

Federal Reserve Vice President Wes de Vries said Thursday that more than five million "hidden" pennies have been returned to circulation as a result of a six-month penny campaign.

The campaign was started to alleviate a shortage of one-cent pieces which especially plagued commercial banks, restaurants, supermarkets, retail stores — and consumers themselves. Hoarding started when the price of copper went up.

De Vries said children were the biggest help in the campaign. He said schools throughout the West turned in almost 3 ½ million pennies.

School board approves list of cuts as crowd jams session

STUDENT SUPPORT

Ken Stockwell, vice president of the Garey High School student body, tells Pomona school board 275 students signed petitions opposing cuts and pledging support of the tax override.

If public reaction at Tuesday's Pomona school board meeting is any indication of community feeling the school district's scheduled May 27 tax override may succeed.

Some 350 persons attended the meeting, which was moved into the Education Center board room, and of the 17 who addressed the board, most appeared to agree the override must pass so cuts do not have to be made next year.

After the school board had listened almost two hours and then voted unanimously to approve cuts recommended by the administration in next year's budget, people stood in line to volunteer to assist Roy O. Day, Pomona businessman already named chairman of the override committee.

Those cuts approved total $1.9 million, eliminate some 110 jobs, eliminate all high school team sports and call for the closure of two small elementary schools.

Board President Ken Pine, following the vote, said the board "sincerely hopes this does not become a reality. We have to get to the people and let them know their pride and integrity as a community are at stake.

"We guarantee, as a board, that if the override goes through, we will reinstate this entire list of cuts, I pledge that to you on behalf of the board."

Schools Supt. Robert E. Wentz told the board he would place on the agenda for the next meeting a proposal that between 93 cents and 95 cents per $100 of assessed valuation be asked on the May 27 override, to raise approximately $2 million to make up inflationary losses.

Day, addressing the audience, which had thinned down near the end of the meeting, said he had been doing a lot of preliminary planning on the campaign, which he felt has become a moral and religious issue in the community.

Day said he ran the school board override election in 1968 — the last to win voter approval — and he intended to win this one, he said, because "I've never lost a campaign.

"We're going to take this campaign right into every home. I'm coming to you and I'm going to ask you to pass it."

A number of students from Pomona schools addressed the board. Keith Meastas, a freshman at Pomona High, said "We're trusting the school board to let us have a good education in the years to come." Pomona High football player Anthony Miley said, "It would be pretty hard to tell younger kids when they want to play football later on, sorry you can't play athletics."

The possibility of high school team sports being cut next year drew comment from almost every speaker, but was not the major concern. Cuts in music and drama departments were mentioned. Ken Swart, a 1974 graduate of Pomona High, told the board, "In these cuts you've stripped the schools of everything: drama, sports and band. There's nothing left."

There was a group of 30 parents from Allison school, one of the small schools to be closed if the override fails, who attended the meeting bearing placards which read "Please do not close Allison."

J. Cecil Hoover, a candidate in March 4 school board elections, was the first to address the board. He said the district faced a dual crisis, lack of money and low academic standards. "With or without the override, we must upgrade our schools," he said.

Gene Whitlock, another school board candidate, countered that "our schools are not that bad. We could do better." Whitlock said he would not like to see the sports programs cut because "sports are the one thing that ties the community together."

Ray T. Lahar, president of Associationed Pomona Teachers (APT) said the teachers were "fully aware of the difficult position" of the board, and "APT believes the board is acting responsibly.

"We all must live with reality. The reality is that there is not enough money. In our eyes, all programs are of equal worth.

"APT pledges its total resources to secure passage of the override, and invites the whole community to join in this pledge."

Ken Stockwell, vice president of the Garey High student body, presented petitions bearing 275 signatures of those volunteering to work for passage of the override.

"We are very distressed about these cuts. Our basketball team is No. 1 in CIF—really the heart of our schools," said Stockwell.

"We pledge our help. We hope everyone will work together to make Pomona's schools the best schools in Pomona Valley."

Pomona High football Coach Mike Clifton (whose varsity team is San Antonio League champion), said "if the override does not pass, it scares me. I wish you'd take a hard look and not put the whole program up. Athletics should take its fair share. Cuts could be set at 35 per cent or 50 per cent."

Clint Park of Diamond Bar reminded the board that a year ago he was pleading for busing for Diamond Bar students who attend Ganesha High School in Pomona. "Now," he said, "and I don't mean to be a turncoat, but I know it has to be taken away."

Elimination of that busing service is included in the cuts.

"The academics have to come first," said Park. "But it takes more than that to be a well-rounded person. We must have the three Rs, athletics, drama, music and social activities.

"To insure this boils down to a sales job. We must triple our efforts in this tax override. The people we've got to sell are those who are not here."

Wentz said that if the override passes, all 31 schools will be kept open next year and a new location would be sought for the continuation high school.

McVittie, valley leaders to draft new bike trail proposal

Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., will meet Friday with officials of valley cities to draft a new application for federal funds to help build a 35-mile bike trail system.

The session is set for 10 a.m. in the Pomona City Hall. Attending with McVittie will be Richard Felty, deputy director of the state's Parks and Recreation Department.

Total cost is estimated at $315,260, with half being sought from the U.S. Interior Department.

A previous application was not processed because it lacked written consent from various jurisdictions for use of land needed in the system.

The plan involves the cities of Claremont, La Verne, Montclair, Upland, Walnut, Pomona, the U.S. Corps of Engineers and flood control districts in both Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties.

McVittie said he will personally carry the new application to the state Department of Parks and Recreation and seek to have it included in the 1975-76 budget.

Once funding is obtained then work can begin immediately. The project will take about six months to complete.

The proposed trail would use service roads along the San Jose, Thompson and Marshall creeks. It would also extend across La Verne and Claremont on the future Foothill Freeway alignment and across south Pomona to Chino on Philadelphia Street.

Chino gives top priority to parks

The Chino barrio area will get the bulk of first-year federal Community Development Act funds, city councilmen decided Tuesday night.

The council, in making a final decision on priorities for use of nearly $2 million in funds expected to be received over a five-year period, made some important changes in the plans.

A stronger emphasis on parks for areas south of Riverside Drive, and lesser importance on unpaved alleys and sidewalks, are reflected in the final priority list.

The big shift is toward total development of Villa Park in the first year, at a cost of $30,000. A total of $474,000 is expected to be received for the initial year, 1975.

Another important change is a $39,000 improvement to a park site at Monte Vista Avenue and D Street. About $64,000 had been allocated in the original priority list for purchase of the land at the old school site, but councilmen decided to add more money to the project.

A number of persons from the barrio addressed the council last week, indicating an emphasis on park needs was vital.

The park site at Monte Vista and D also appeared as a top priority on a list submitted by residents living south of Riverside, at several recent public hearings.

Planners will mull waiving impact info on aid application

The Pomona Planning Commission will consider tonight a request to adopt an exemption declaration for an environmental impact report in the city's application for $2.8 million in federal community development funds.

The planning staff will present the argument that the fund application does not require such a report. These reports, however, would be required before starting individual projects in the program.

The city proposes to use the funds to acquire additional property for the Civic Center and maintenance yard, home improvement revolving loan fund, improve city entrances, establishing a mobile mini-city hall, abatement of business areas of unsightly conditions, street lights, development of a new fire station and a multipurpose facility, and study and possible upgrading of abandoned commercial complexes to promote renewed commerial activity.

The commission will meet at 8 p.m. in the City Council chambers.

In a second matter, planners will consider approval of an environmental impact report regarding the operation of a board and care facility at the Kellogg Valley Inn, 2150 W. Valley Blvd.

Want limit of two a year

Resident's weekly garage sale irritates councilmen

In an effort to discourage a Claremont resident from holding a garage sale every weekend, the City Council Tuesday night began working on an ordinance which would limit a resident to a garage sale twice a year and up to three days on each occasion.

The proposed ordinance states that a resident must obtain a permit from Planning Director Donald G. King, with the permit explaining the sale location, hours and person responsible.

Councilman Gene Block protested the fact that the proposed ordinance would allow the garage sale holder only one sign, which must be located on his own property.

"I think one sign is too restrictive," Block said. "We have discouraged builders from grid-type streets and encouraged cul-de-sacs. If a cul-de-sac owner wants to have a sale, no one will see his sign."

Block said that he doesn't think such an ordinance can be enforced, and suggested more than one sign. He contended that the city staff has enough to do without running around trying to enforce such an ordinance.

City Councilman Frank Hungerford said that "if people have questionable situations, at least the police can ask if the owner has a permit."

"I think selective enforcement is where you get into trouble," Block commented.

"You can drive up and down Indian Hill Boulevard on weekends and see garage sales advertised," Hungerford said. "There are ways to get around this, but we must have a law on the books."

Although the Planning Commission had recommended a garage sale a year per resident, Block suggested two, and gained support from Councilwoman Claire McDonald.

Then the question arose of what constitutes a garage sale, and whether that included a patio sale, a moving sale, rummage sale, and similar sale.

Mrs. McDonald stressed that the ordinance shouldn't apply to single items for sale in the home.

The council deferred that item to the city staff for clarification.

Abe's birthday only partially observed here

The February holiday season began today with a partial observance of Abraham Lincoln's birthday.

All public schools in the valley as well as county and state offices and the Pomona City Hall were closed. But federal offices including the postal service, all other city halls, and businesses remained open.

The holiday season will continue Friday with Valentine's Day, but no one is expected to close to commemorate that day.

However all public agencies as well as all banks will be closed next Monday in observance of the birthday of George Washington.

There will be no mail deliveries that day except for special deliveries. A will call window will be open from 7:30 to 9 a.m. at the main office and the central station in Pomona.

Trash collections will not be effected by holidays.

Three arrested in tavern kidnaping of valley man

Three West End men are being questioned by West End sheriff's deputies this morning in connection with the kidnaping of an Upland man from a Cucamonga tavern Tuesday night.

According to deputies, Larry Coonrod, 28, of 872 Third Place, Upland, managed to escape from his abductors after he was kidnaped from the Club 66 at 12675 Foothill Blvd. about 11 p.m. Two of the three alleged kidnapers were arrested in Hemet about 3 a.m.

Being held for questioning are David Greg Shelby, 26, his brother, Chris Shelby, both of Upland, and another man identified as William Edward Keen. Deputies said that the Shelby brothers were out on bond pending trials on charges of conspiracy to transport illegal drugs from Mexico to the United States.

According to deputies, Coonrod received a call from a man who said he wanted to get a bid on a roofing job.

A roofing contractor, Coonrod agreed to meet the man at the Cucamonga tavern about 9 p.m. Both Coonrod and his wife drove to the tavern.

Coonrod went inside while his wife waited in the car. After nearly an hour Mrs. Coonrod became worried about her husband and went into the tavern to find him. He had disappeared. Mrs. Coonrod called deputies.

After nearly four hours Hemet police called the West End Sheriff's Department to inform deputies that they had Coonrod and two suspects in custody.

In Hemet, Coonrod managed to escape from two of the suspects and inform police that he had been kidnaped.

Deputies this morning were interviewing the suspects and Coonrod. The motive for the alleged kidnaping was still unknown.

Man in gunshot death sentenced to six months

A Claremont man, who pleaded guilty last month to involuntary manslaughter in the gunshot death of his friend, has been sent to jail for six months as a condition of probation.

William Carl Frederich, 28, originally was charged with murder in the death Dec. 11 of Dave A. Birtle, 22, of 150 Serrano Place, La Verne. Frederich was placed on probation for three years by Pomona Superior Court Judge Francis J. Garvey who made the jail term a condition of probation.

Birtle ws killed at Frederich's home at 452 W. Eighth St. when a pistol Frederich was handling fired, striking the victim in the face.

COLLEGES GET AID — Local colleges have received grants totaling $9,150 from the Sears Roebuck Foundation.

They are Pomona, Scripps, Claremont Men's, Harvey Mudd and Pitzer colleges, Claremont Graduate School and Claremont University Center.

The grants were presented by J.S. Ambrose, manager of the Sears store in Pomona.

The foundation is distributing $1.3 million in unrestricted funds among 1,000 private colleges during the 1974-75 academic year.

Area man dies playing basketball

A 41-year-old Chino man collapsed and died Tuesday night, apparently of a heart attack, after playing basketball with other men at Simons Junior High School in Pomona, police reported.

Kenneth Leroy Nelson, 12558 Bristol Court, was pronounced dead on arrival at Pomona Valley Community Hospital despite resuscitation efforts of firemen and persons at the school.

Witnesses said Nelson had played about an hour when he sat down on the bench. A few minutes later he grabbed his chest and collapsed.

The body was taken to Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona and an autopsy was ordered.

Tempers flare over open classroom plan

Tempers continued to flare over Chino's controversial Glenmeade School program Tuesday night, with one group of parents trying to drown out the other.

Backers of the open classroom concept made their views known for the first time before the school board, but parents opposing the program showed up in force.

Although the two groups did not clash during the meeting in a packed board room, supporters were angry afterwards that so many parents opposing the concept were in attendance.

"I want to know why the opposition is so afraid when they heard supporters were showing up, that they had to turn out en masse," said Fannie Cradoc, a parent and strong advocate of the Glenmeade plan.

Board members, who earlier promised an investigation of the "open space" program by a team of school officials, took no action Tuesday.

Eva Weiszbrod, board president, said "We're moving as fast as possible on the evaluation plan. That's all I can say." Another board member, Charles Smith, said he wanted to see as many parents involved in the probe as possible.

The open classroom plan has been under considerable fire in recent weeks.

The parents' criticism centers around the feeling that the program provides too much freedom for students, and not enough instruction.

Mrs. Lois McCollough, a supporter who addressed the board, said the plan "offers a healthy combination of basic skills instruction, social interaction, creative activities and student decision making."

Mrs. McCollough added that at the start of the current school year, Glenmeade programs were "somewhat disorganized." But, she said, "as the year progressed, Glenmeade teachers demonstrated their sensitivity to constructive criticism by steadily improving the learning environment at the school."

She presented the board with a letter signed by 25 parents who support the open concept.

Five parents who oppose the program addressed the board.

"We can't wait for all the problems to be ironed out," declared Barbara White, "New educational theories don't fit all children. Why not give parents a choice of either structured or nonstructured programs?"

Mrs. White charged that her child receives only three to five minutes of oral reading per week, "if he is lucky."

Susan Gugliomotti, another parent, repeated a list of complaints presented at the Jan. 28 board meeting.

They center around children having no structure to their school day, parent volunteers teaching, no stress on spelling and penmanship, students cheating and stealing, and problems with parent volunteers.

"Children are not getting what they need at school," she said. "I can teach my child needlepoint and social graces at home. Kindergarten through third grade are very important years. If they lose out then, they'll be behind for the rest of their lives.

"We can't wait until the kinks get ironed out in this program."

Jack Derho, another parent, said it would be possible for a student to have only three hours of spelling in six months if he is on the "open contract" system.

Mrs. Cradoc said she was hopeful parents can be educated that the plan is "workable."

But Joan Sexton, a parent opposing the plan, said Glenmeade is a "classic example of an exercise in futility. If my child is not raised to his level of expectancy, we'll go to another district."

Opinion

Lincoln eternal

Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people? Is there any better or equal hope in the world?

I desire so to conduct the affairs of this administration that if at the end, when I come to lay down the reins of power, I have lost every other friend on earth, I shall at least have one friend left, and that friend shall be down inside me.

The world has never had a good definition of the world liberty. And the American people just now are much in want of one. We all declare for liberty; but in using the same word we do not mean the same thing. With some, the word liberty may mean for each man to do as he pleases with himself and the product of his labor; while with others the same word may mean for some men to do as they please with other men and the product of other men's labor. Here are two, not only different, but incompatible things, called by the same name, liberty. And it follows that each of the things is by the respective parties called by two different and incompatible names, liberty and tyranny.

The shepherd drives the wolf from the sheep's throat, for which the sheep thanks the shepherd as his liberator, while the wolf denounces him for the same act . . . Plainly the sheep and the wolf are not agreed upon a definition of liberty.

If you once forefeit the confidence of your fellow citizens, you can never regain their respect and esteem. It is true that you may fool all the people some of the time; you can even fool some of the people all the time; but you can't fool all the people all the time.

Human nature will not change. In any future great national trial, compared with the men of this, we shall have as weak and as strong, as silly and wise, as bad and as good.

While the people retain their virtue and vigilance, no administration, by any extreme of wickedness or folly, can very seriously injure the government in the short space of four years.

I have never had a feeling, politically, that did not spring from the sentiments embodied in the Declaration of Independence . . . I have often inquired of myself what great principle or idea it was that kept this Confederacy so long together. It was not the mere matter of separation of the colonies from the motherland, but that sentiment in the Declaration of Independence which gave liberty not only to the people of this country, but hope to all the world, for all future time. It was that which gave promise that in due time the weights would be lifted from the shoulders of all men, and that all should have an equal chance. This is the sentiment embodied in the Declaration of Independence . . . I would rather be assassinated on this spot then surrender it.

Calculating bargain

Economics, always a dismal and never an exact science, has gone bananas.

For example, you just aren't supposed to have continuing inflation in the middle of a recession, yet that's what we've been having.

Don't throw out the textbooks just yet, however. Some of the old laws of economics we used to depend on still seem to be in effect, thank goodness.

Nowhere is this better illustrated than in the history of pocket calculators. When these little electronic wonders were introduced a few years ago, they ranged from a couple hundred dollars on up for even the simplest ones.

Since then, prices have steadily dropped to the point where models capable of performing the four basic mathematical functions are available for around $20, and less than that on sale.

Mass production and competition, with a big assist from constant technological improvement, are what did it. Just as we were taught they should back in Economics 100.

Fuel fallacy

Consumer militants have a way of turning a basic fallacy into a crusade. For example, there are those who attack as unfair to the little fellow the present, uneconomically sound rate structure for energy, especially gas and electricity.

Under the so-called price-volume concept, large users are given lower rates than small consumers. "Cheaper by the dozen," in other words. Militants charge this is unfair, favoring the big users. Some go so far as to say that light and heat are basic rights. Ranking with the unalienable rights to Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness?

What the militants don't point out is that the lower-rate big users are interruptible customers. When the supply runs short they are cut off, while the small consumer is not. Utilities supplying gas and electricity even cut off their own subsidiaries in such cases.

Far from being put upon, the little consumer is to a very considerable extent protected in his ability to get light and heat, insofar at least as the nation's economy is able to provide them. This is bad?

Solutions to inflation are tough

Paul Harvey reports efficiency is eroding in the United States. I doubt that many will dispute him. Letter carriers say they will strike if job reducing efficiencies are put into effect. Congress likes President Ford's idea of a tax cut (and resulting deficit) but feels the counterpart increase in gas costs is too painful to bear. And economists are wondering why none of their "solutions" to inflation seem to be working.

Isn't it about time we accept reality? For 30 years we have enjoyed the greatest economic wealth ever seen — and spent even more than we earned. Worse, we have grown to expect an ever increasing standard of living and an ever wider distribution of that standard. We also expect to spend less effort and less tedium and fewer hours and fewer years. We also expect a lot of other things which cost a lot of money. As a matter of fact, most of us consider all these things our God-given right and throw various types of tantrums if we don't get them. Unfortunately, the rest of the world is catching up, wants to share the good things and is willing to work for them. Also, our own inefficiency and over expectation is catching up. Prosperity is not our right, we have to work for it and double digit inflation is telling us precisely that.

The American ability to produce and determination to live better has been the envy of the world and can continue to be so. We will have to start working harder and smarter and with less narrow selfishness. We need to stop consuming more than we produce and in fact, consume less until we replace the capital we have so foolishly wasted. This will hurt, but not that much or that long. Most of the people of this world would still love to live as well as our poor.

We will have to give up the idea that government can give us something. All politicians can do is reallocate and so far they have done a very wasteful job, which we have encouraged and rewarded because too many people think they personally are getting something for nothing. The best thing the politicians can give is to stop overspending their budget and to eliminate some of the unworkable and useless regulations that are strangling our productive capacity.

We will have to accept the fact that only higher gasoline and fuel costs will curtail consumption and encourage substitutes. It will hurt but not as much as we think. The alternate is to sell our souls and our children's standard of living to the Arabs.

We need to stop making not working quite so attractive. Social Security plans that encourage early retirement and virtually prohibit continued work are stupid and cruel. Welfare plans that give no incentive to begin work are a life sentence to idleness. When unemployment and strike benefits can pay almost as well after taxes as working, incentive to get back to work is reduced. Conversely, we need to reward working and saving more highly instead of piling on an ever increasing load of taxes and inflation.

Finally, we are going to have to stop being stupidly selfish and demand the same of others. Laws and regulations will not stop the abusers. Regulations are too many, too vague, and too complex and the will to enforce against the real culprits too often missing or bought off. Only a public that will not tolerate destructive greed including their own, can stop the growing me first trend and force enforcement where needed.

These solutions to inflation are tough and the specifics will be even tougher for many. The problems we face are serious — more serious than most will admit. Wishful thinking and painless solutions haven't worked and won't. The government declared war on inflation and appears to have surrendered unconditionally; labor, organized and otherwise, seems determined to keep up or gain regardless of the consequences; business just keeps passing on the increases; our foreign neighbors have problems of their own and would rather enjoy ours than solve them; help is not in sight. The answer is the people of this country and not the institutions. We've accepted tough solutions to serious problems before and done magnificently working together because we succeed or fail together. This is our heritage and this is our right. — Philip R. Swanson, Pomona.

Greek exile going home as patriot

WASHINGTON — Now that the Greek dictatorship has collapsed, the story can be told how the White House and Justice Department connived to send a Greek exile home to certain torture and possible death.

The exile was newspaper editor Elias Demetracopoulos, who was driven from his homeland by the military junta in 1967. But the Greek colonels couldn't silence his typewriter.

He obtained resident status in the United States and took up battle station in Washington, pounding away at the junta and its Greek-American supporters.

The Nixon crowd in Washington zeroed in on him when he began firing volleys at Thomas Pappas, a millionaire with vast oil, soft-drink and chemical interests in Greece. Pappas also happened to be a close friend and financial backer of President Nixon.

So close was the Nixon-Pappas tie that the Watergate conspirators instinctively turned to the Greek tycoon for hush money, although he insists he never provided a penny for such purposes.

On July 12, 1971, Demetracopoulos appeared before a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee and accused Pappas of helping to manipulate U.S. foreign policy in favor of the Greek dictatorship.

Before the testimony could be printed, a Justice Department lawyer showed up at the subcommittee and asked for Demetracopoulos' statement. Those were the days, of course, when Atty. Gen. John Mitchell was riding high at the Justice Department.

Demetracopoulos found out Mitchell's motive from Louise Gore, a friend with strong Republican credentials, who had encountered the attorney general at a Perle Mesta party. Mrs. Gore had been appointed by Nixon to be ambassador to UNESCO and expected she would need his support for a subsequent bid for the Maryland governorship. She had the courage, nevertheless, to alert Demetracopoulos.

"I went to Perle's luncheon for Martha Mitchell yesterday," wrote Mrs. Gore, "and sat next to John (Mitchell). He is furious at you — and your testimony against Pappas. He kept threatening to have you deported!! . . .

"He (kept) asking me what I knew about you and why we were friends. It really got out of hand. It was all he'd talk about during lunch and everyone at the table was listening."

The editor-in-exile received a more direct warning from President Nixon's personal troubleshooter, the late Murray Chotiner. As Demetracopoulos remembers it, Chotiner advised him to ease up on Pappas. "You can be in trouble. You can be deported. It's not smart politics. You know Tom Pappas is a friend of the President."

Ten days after the warning, the brave editor, undeterred, blasted Pappas again in a memo to the House subcommittee. The memo detailed Pappas' relations with both the junta and the Nixon Administration, accusing Pappas of profiting from both. Later, Demetracopoulos encountered Pappas at the Sans Souci restaurant, a favorite hangout for White House gourmets. Demetracopoulos alleges that Pappas fumed at him, suggesting he could get in trouble with the Wall Street investment firm which provided Demetracopoulos with a livelihood.

Not long afterward, the FBI visited his Wall Street employer and made inquiries about the Greek exile. The FBI declined comment but Justice sources insist that, despite appearances, the FBI visit to Wall Street was not triggered by Mitchell and was unrelated to Pappas.

The Greek secret police, the KYP, meanwhile began questioning Demetracopoulos' former friends. The purpose, according to sources now able to speak about the junta days, was to get information to help the United States deport Demetracopoulos.

The Greek secret police allegedly told those they interviewed that they were "just helping out the CIA," which gave them financial support. By an interesting coincidence, Mitchell was on the CIA's governing 40 Committee at the time of the KYP inquiries.

Before the embattled exile could be deported and turned over to the mercy of the junta, the Watergate scandal forced Mitchell out of politics and, in time, the Greek dictatorship fell. Now for the first time in eight years, Demetracopoulos is returning to his beloved Greece, not as a deportee facing torture but as a patriot.

Footnote: We were unable to reach Mitchell or Pappas for comment. Ms. Gore told us that, despite the risk to her political career, she would warn Demetracopoulos again if she had it to do over.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D.-Minn., has told friends he expected to be put out of action by cancer of the bladder. Instead, the cancer has been eliminated and he is in vigorous health. He has never been too religious, he has told friends, but he believes God may have spared him for a purpose. Therefore, he intends to be a champion for the common people during the economic crisis he sees ahead. . . . Dr. Morris Chafetz, the contentious head of the federal antialcoholism effort, has stopped a promising treatment program for government employes with drinking problems. By an interesting coincidence, the program was run by Dr. George Reifsnitz, who had once testified against Chafetz in a discrimination case . . . In a fierce private letter to James Gregory, the federal auto safety chief, Senate Transportation Chairman Vance Hartke, D-Ind., has said it is "completely unjustifiable" for Gregory to buck down on rules requiring sturdier auto bumpers. Hartke demanded a report from Gregory within 30 days on what he has done to get Detroit to justify lighter, more dangerous bumpers.

Just in jest

Were one to judge by the fabulous profits being reported by the oil companies, the electronic companies, the sugar manufacturers, the gas, the steel and the telephone companies, to name the first few that come to mind, he could hardly be blamed for thinking that prosperitry was just around the corner. But that just goes to show what can happen when one jumps to conclusions. Rather than being just around the corner, the truth is propsperity is just being cornered.

But there could be an easy solution to one of our big troubles. If all the hot air now being generated by countless politicians in attempting to promote their own energy conservation plans were to be combined and put to some practical use, our energy shortage would soon disappear. And in the meantime, if we the people would start burning more calories and less oil, we might accomplish much the same thing.

VIC GOLD

Baker first to challenge Ford

For a man who just a year ago, as Vice President, was vehemently disclaiming any interest in running for the presidency in 1976, Jerry Ford has in the past six months done more than a mere turnabout. He has about-faced by 180 degrees and nailed his furniture to the Oval Office floor.

At the mere wisp of a mention that their boss might not run for a full term, the White House staff seems taken with a nervous tremor, eased only when news secretary Ron Nessen rushes to the press room microphone to reaffirm that the President enjoys his job and intends to stay on past January 1977.

There are two White House lines put out to explain this hyperactivity, which commenced with Ford's early warning announcement of candidacy (no President in memory ever publicly declared almost two years in advance of election day).

The first line is that if the President's intention to run isn't made known, loud and clear, his leverage on Capitol Hill would diminish. Leverage? On whom? Certainly not on the Democratic opposition.

Indeed, if the President wanted to use future political plans as a factor to be reckoned with by the opposition, his best ploy would be to float a rumor that he has no future plans, that as of now (but subject to change, of course) he couldn't care less about November 1976.

Few prospects intimidate politicians working in the heat of their own ambition, you see, more than going up against a peer who says he really doesn't give a damn whether he's returned to office or not.

It was this carefully-cultivated illusion that he operated "above politics" which served Dwight Eisenhower so well in his dealings with the Democratic congressional majority of his day. Made him, in fact, despite two recessions during his tenure, the most popular Republican President of this century.

That was the image that Richard Nixon sought to project during his years in the White House. In the end, of course, Nixon failed dismally to appear "above politics." But his very failure, and the manner in which his successor came to the presidency, made the image one that Ford could have adopted, to his — and a divided country's — advantage during the remaining years of the Nixon term.

Instead, after little time spent on the job, the new President eschewed the Eisenhower image as a national unity leader, preferring his old role as a congressional leader, on the road campaigning for his party colleagues, exultant and uplifted by the experience of political combat.

It might have been hoped that the results of the 1974 congressional elections would themselves have spoken loud and clear to the President regarding the tactical wisdom of this partisan course. However, the reverse seems true. Ford, by the emphasis he continues to place on his political plans, has, if anything, compounded the error.

Which lends to the second White House line advanced regarding the purpose of those reminders.

Ford hopes, says one adviser, to exert, if not leverage, then restraining pressure on would-be Presidents within his own party. Such as the unrestrained son, Howard Baker, who last week was the first Republican to suggest that, Ford in or Ford out, he could well be slogging through the snows next February, in the first of the presidential primaries.

Given the President's own economic projections, Baker stands to be only the first of a deluge within Ford's own party. For ambitious Republicans, no less than their Democratic colleagues in politics, are apt to gauge their plans not by whether they think Jerry Ford is running as of 1975 — but whether they believe he can win in November 1976.

Army replies promptly to inquiry over vet's pay

On Oct. 4, 1974, I thought my problems were over.

On that beautiful day I was released from the Army after two long years trying to stay out of trouble.

When I was released from active duty the government owed me $372, my pay for the month of September.

I notified the finance office at Ft. Bliss that I hadn't received my September pay check. The people there looked into the problem and told me the check had been sent to Indianapolis and I would have to submit a claim to receive it.

I filled out the form and sent it to the claims department in Indianapolis. When I heard nothing in reply, I wrote to my congressman and explained the situation to him. He told me I should write to the commanding officer of the finance office at Ft. Benjamin Harrison. I did the day I got his reply.

Ten days later I received a note from the finance office saying a copy was needed of my discharge papers. I mailed the copy immediately, thinking I would receive the money within the next week.

That was about four weeks ago. I have yet to hear anything. — E. B., Pomona.

We contacted Ft. Benjamin Harrison. Ferdinand M. Stauch Jr., public information officer, thanked Action Line "for allowing us to assist you" and you got your check for $372.

I joined the Record Club of America more than a year ago.

Since that date I have received two of the six albums promised.

I have written the club three times with absolutely no response. One of my letters was to indicate a change of address.

Other promises on the part of the club included a free subscription to Awarehouse magazine, a subscription to Disc and Tape Guide and a master discount catalogue.

I have yet to see the catalogue or Awarehouse. — C. W., Upland.

It was two months before we received an answer from Record Club of America and when we did it was a copy of a letter to you from Nan Forsythe, manager of the customer service department.

She had sent your list of missing selections to the club's warehouse but learned that all four selections were out of stock.

She sent you a credit certificate so that you could order from the current Disc and Tape Guide, which she addressed to you under separate cover.

Record Club of America no longer offers the master catalogue or Awarehouse.

It was necessary to discontinue those catalogues because of problems in fulfillment of orders by manufacturers, the manager explained. Members now get the Schwann catalogue.

Can you find out if a billboard advertisement I sat for as a child was ever used by Meadow Gold Milk?

If so, how and to whom were the royalties paid and how much did they amount to?

I remember posing for different things in Culver City or Hollywood between 1949 and 1952. The milk ad stands out because I was given a dusty glass and I thought I had to drink from it. — B. T., Pomona.

We learned from the Pomona Library that Meadow Gold was represented by I-MAC Inc., an advertising agency.

Our letters to I-MAC was referred to Beatrice Foods Co. in Chicago, apparently the parent company of Meadow Gold Milk.

Harold Bogdon, advertising director of Beatrice Foods, told us there were no company records for 1949-1952 involving a photograph of you.

"If such records were available, we would be pleased to supply this information, but unfortunately, we are unable to," he said. We're sorry too.

About this and that

During the Revolutionary War years, paper money became worthless. But its value is picking up as the U.S. Bicentennial draws near. At a recent auction in New York, collectors paid $600 for a 20-shilling note printed by New Hampshire in 1775 and $380 for a $2 bill issued by Virginia in 1781.

ANN LANDERS

Mother with hurt feelings finds it hard to tell her daughter why

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I live alone, so does my grown daughter. Her place is 15 miles out of town. Last month she had the flu so I ran back and forth to take care of her.

Sunday after I had fixed her supper and cleaned her house I drove myself home. I realized I should have taken her washing to do the next day. I phone and offered. She said, "Thanks, Mom, come on back and get it."

Well, Ann, I drove back, picked up her laundry and was just about to sit down and chat for a few minutes when she said, "don't sit down, Mom. I have company coming in a few minutes—someone you don't get along with."

I was so hurt I cried all the way home. I couldn't for the life of me think of a friend of hers with whom I don't get along.

That was four weeks ago. We have talked on the phone often since then and she has been to my home several times, but I can't bring myself to go to her place. I am unable to tell her how badly she hurt my feelings. Am I getting senile, crazy or what? please help me.—Tongue-Tied Mom

Dear Mom: Untie your tongue today. Write the words on a piece of paper and read them to your daughter on the phone—if you must. But get over this block at once.

Ask her point-blank which friend she was referring to the day you came back for her laundry and she asked you not to stay. Make it short and direct. Once you clear the air you will feel better. And so will she.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 17-year-old girl and am very mature for m age. I am in love with a boy who is 19. Hal is very handsome and sweet, but he has some growing-up to do. We've been going together off and on for two years and have talked about getting married at least a dozen times. I'm sure he was sincere.

About five weeks ago Hal told me he met a girl who was "a few years older" than himself. (I later found out she was 23.) She is crazy about him. He lost his job three weeks ago and this girl has been helping him financially. She has a very fine position and a little inherited money from her grandmother. He told me yesterday that he is going to marry her and wants me to come to the wedding.

I nearly went into shock. He quieted me down and said, "This will probably be temporary. You and I will wind up together—if you are patient and really love me."

I DO love this guy, Ann. Please tell me what should my next move be?—Shaken at the Roots

DEAR ROOTS: Buy a pair of track shoes and run as fast as you can—in the opposite direction. Hal is very poor husband material, as his bride-to-be will soon find out. Consider yourself lucky SHE got him instead of you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: On occasion you print "rules" for parents on How to Break Up A Marriage.

I have an addition to your list which is guaranteed to work if all else should fail. It is this: If there are grandchildren, be sure to favor one over the others. This will create such havoc between the parents that they will be in a continual state of turmoil and a reasonably good marriage can be knocked to pieces. Sign me—Seen It Happen

Dear Seen: I'll take your word for it. Thanks for writing.

What's the story on pot, L.S.D., cocaine, uppers and downers, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Lander's new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped eenvelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

Two-car garages not what they say

The two-car garage was invented by a bachelor named Brick Wahl in 1766.

No one got too choked up about it as the first car wasn't invented until 1768.

Wahl's harmless little discovery has done for marriages what Ironside has done for wheelchairs.

I contend the two-car garage was never meant to hold two cars. My husband says that's what they are for. Thus, every evening, we go through the garage number.

"You've done it again," he announces storming into the kitchen.

"Done what?" I ask.

"Parked over too far for me to get my car in the garage."

"So, park it in the driveway."

"Would you start in the mornings if your motor was cold and you had ice on your windshield?"

"I've been known to start with less."

Minutes later I am easing my car out carefully and pulling it forward again, coming to within a hair of the wall.

Inching in alongside me is my husband who turns off the motor, waves, and smiles triumphantly.

"You get out first," he yells.

"Oh no, after you," I say, folding my arms.

I watch him as he tries the door on the driver's side, and then the door on the passenger side. Both are wedged shut. "Roll down your window!" he instructs. I watch mesmerized as his body slithers like a boa through his window and into mine.

"What's that caught in my fender?" he pants.

I crane my neck. "Just the garbage cans, two bicycles, a power mower and a rollaway bed. You should see mine. There's a trunk, a carton of empties, a garden hose and lawn fertilizer jammed in my grill."

"Are we going to sit here and talk all night or are we going to get out and have dinner?" he asks.

I roll down the window on the passenger side and force my body through the opening.

Maybe if Brick Wahl had seen a car first, things would have been different.

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — For as long as I can remember my legs, from the knees down, have tired out much quicker than anyone else's doing the same thing. This goes back to my high school basketball days and even to pre-teen days when I stayed home rather than go on shopping trips with my family because my legs got too tired. I have never consulted a doctor about this because I supposed I was born this way and must live with it.

I'm 51 now, have farmed for 27 years, and they are getting worse at an accelerating rate. If I am on my feet too much my feet and legs ache and even feel tired when I get out of bed in the mornings. Do you have any comments as to the cause and treatment of my problem?

DEAR READER — Anyone who has excessive fatigue, aching or cramping in the legs with exercise must have a medical examination. Sometimes this is a sign of poor circulation to the legs. The most common cause of poor circulation is the accumulation of fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries, but it can also be a birth defect of the major arteries.

Since you have had this since childhood it is less likely that your problem is circulation, but you need to have it checked anyway.

If the circulation is fine my best bet would be lack of muscle strength. Here again we must make a distinction between endurance and strength. A strong muscle is a big muscle. The strenth is related to the cross-sectional area of the muscle. Lots of walking will not develop strength because it doesn't increase the weight load on the muscle. Strength is developed in relation to the amount of weight a muscle must contract against, your body weight or any other means of loading the muscle. Because the ache is below the knees I am suspicious you are one of those many people who never developed strong calf muscles.

When a muscle is basically small it may not be so well equipped for endurance. This is why many coaches today include some form of weight training for their overall athletic program.

I would suggest that you start a series of exercises of standing on your toes. First stand flat-footed position and stand on your toes. Then return to the flat-footed position and repeat this. The weight of your body will provide the weight training. Do this about 12 times in succession Monday, Wednesday and Friday for about two weeks. If you can't do it 12 times do the number that is comfortable.

Once you can do it 12 times in a row regularly three days a week for two weeks, switch to standing on one foot. You can balance yourself with one hand against the wall. You may be able to raise up on your toes only three to five times at first. Do the toe stands for each foot three days a week until you build up to doing this three times a week regularly.

More frequent or additional toe stands will not help you and can over work the muscle to the point that it doesn't develop strength as fast as with the schedule outlined here. The rule is train, not strain. Maintain these exercises and it may enable you to increase your endurance during walking and similar activity.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on cholesterol, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Cholesterol" booklet.

Is it okay for wives to earn more?

Mister, if your wife were offered a better-paying job than yours, would you want her to take it? Pollsters put that query to numerous husbands. And one man in six said no he'd want his wife to turn down said job. Two in six said sure, let's get that extra money, or words to that effect. Three in six said it didn't matter, she'd take it, anyhow.

IT'S A MATTER of record, too, that Sophia Loren's husband, Carlo Ponti, gave his wife for her fortieth birthday a 14-carat gold toilet seat. Correspondents say it was custom fitted, but they won't say how.

THE HARD FACTS

Am told by a garment maker that large women wear out clothes twice as fast as do small women . . . REMEMBER, bartender, if the old boy can't pronounce "truly rural," he's had enough . . . GOURMETS who ought to know, contend no alcoholic beverage goes better with curry, chili, or steamed clams than cold beer.

WHAT'S the first thing you think about when you wake up in the morning? "What time is it?" may be a little bit obvious, but that's my answer. Recently put this query to a small sampling of about 20 young men and women in adjacent offices, and those who didn't blush mentioned the time thing, too. Except one transplanted Yankee. He said, "Oh no, grits again."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "What's a 'crossword panacake'?"

A. That's what the English call waffles.

WAS NONE OTHER than Robert Schuman, that famous French diplomat, who said: "When I was a young man, I vowed never to marry until I found the ideal woman. Well, I found her. But, alas, she was waiting for the ideal man."

THAT GOOD HUMOR man who drives around the neighborhood to sell ice cream to the youngsters on Saturday afternoon should be required by law to equip his truck with school-bus-type flashing lights and fold-out signs that read "Stop! Proceed with caution." So suggests a safety expert. Possibly so. But the recommendation is not new. Indianapolis has required such for some time now.

You and I live at the bottom of a great ocean of air that surrounds the earth and that extends upward for hundreds of miles. We call it the atmosphere.

We could not live without it and the oxygen it contains.

It keeps the earth's temperature from becoming too hot or too cold. It also keeps out some harmful energy from the sun.

The atmosphere is made up mostly of nitrogen and oxygen. But there are also small amounts of other gases present, too.

There is always some water vapor and dust in it, too.

The earth holds the atmosphere to it by the pull of gravity, otherwise it would drift off into space.

The atmosphere is made up of different layers. The bottom one, the troposphere, holds most of the air living things breathe.

The higher above the earth you go, the thinner the atmosphere becomes until it gradually fades into interplanetary space.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first younster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/0 this newspaper), Box 1335 (D4), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

United Church of Christ Congregational
5th & Harvard, Claremont
Fri., Feb. 14 10-4 Sat., Feb. 15 9:30-12

30th White Elephant sale slated this week

The 30th White Elephant Sale of the Claremont United Church of Christ will be held Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and on Saturday from 9:30 a.m. until noon in the refectory at the church.

The Women's Fellowship sponsors the annual event with Mrs. Myron Powell, Mrs. Clarence Faust, Mrs. William Montgomery, Mrs. A. P. Herrlinger in charge of general arrangements.

Proceeds from the sale enable the Women's Fellowship to support many carefully chosen projects at home and abroad. Summer camperships, Pilgrim Pines. The American Indian cause are all in the budget. Gateway House of Pomona and other social concerns will also benefit, according to Mrs. Ray Baber, president of the group.

Luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. under the direction of Miss Esther Smith and Mrs. Dwight Ryerson. There will also be a snack bar with Mrs. William Blanchard in charge.

Booth chairmen are: Mrs. John Flucke, Mrs. George Tibbals, Mrs. Worth George, Miss Marjorie Smith, Mrs. Henry Refo, Mrs. Stanley Larsen, Mrs. Alma Garris, Mrs. H. O. Morgan, Mrs. Jesse Perrin, Clarence Wagner, Ed Madsen, Mrs. Annette Raymond, Mrs. Hunter Clark, Mrs. Raymond Wells, Mrs. Leon Carver and Mrs. John Burma.

Mrs. Hazel Wilson and Mrs. Harold Ryerson will be the treasurers.

Luncheon planned Saturday

"Gems of the Bible" will be the subject of a talk to be given by Don Wight at a luncheon planned by the First Lutheran Church Women on Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

Mr. Wight is a jeweler in Ontario. His interest in jewelry is inherited as well as assimilated, for his grandfather, father and an uncle were all jewelers. He is a registered and certified gemologist of the American Gem Society.

The church is located at 1751 N. Park Ave. Reservations may be made by calling 622-6795 or 629-9052.

MR. AND MRS. JACK SIMPSON

Golden anniversary marked in La Verne

Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Simpson of La Verne celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Saturday.

A reception in their honor was hosted by the couple's daughters, Mrs. Ben Boyd and Mrs. Edwin Santee. Guests at the reception in the Foothill Terrace Club House in La Verne included family, friends from the Pomona Foursquare Church, community friends, neighbors and business associates. Approximately 200 guests were present.

Prior to his retirement, Mr. Simpson was the senior member of Simpson and Sons Landscaping. He has received community honors for his workmanship and original designs in both city projects and private homes.

The couple's four children, 16 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren were present. A surprise guest was Mr. Simpson's sister, Mrs. Della Anderson from Portland, Ore.

Mrs. Donald Simpson and Mrs. David Simpson assisted in cutting the four-tiered cake. A granddaughter, Mrs. Dan Thomas, attended the guest book while another granddaughter, Mrs. Stephen McIntyre, was the musician. Other grandchildren also assisted at the reception.

Scholarships awarded by secretaries

Miss Virginia Paul of Corona and Miss Barbara Jean Albertson of Yucaipa were named recipients of $200 scholarships presented by Pomona Valley Chapter, Executives' Secretaries Inc., at their January installation meeting at Red Hill County Club.

Miss Paul is a second-year student at Chaffey College.

Recipient of the Katherine Chesworth Memorial Scholarship, given annually to a student at California State College, San Bernardino, is Barbara Jean Albertson. A senior administration major, she intends to pursue a career in banking and finance, with a B.S. degree in business.

Other highlights of the evening included the presentation of awards by Miss Priscilla Lerma of Lampman and Associates, Pomona, who is the club's new treasurer.

Lula Burnap to observe 95th year

On Valentine's Day, Friday, Mrs. Lula Burnap of Pomona will celebrate her 95th birthday.

Mrs. Burnap was born in Crestline, Kan., in 1880. In 1892, she came to California, living with an aunt, Mrs. Henry Henderson in North Pomona and later in Upland.

In 1908 she married Jack Burnap and has spent most of the intervening years in her home in Pomona.

Mrs. Burnap recalls that when she first came to California she rode her bicycle to the Claremont Grammar School. She was the organist at the Claremont Methodist Church for some time and for several years she worked in the Post Office in North Pomona.

Friends and releatives will help her mark her birthday with a party in the afternoon.

Travel costs up

The cost of travel for Americans shot up nearly 14 per cent during the past year, according to the United States Travel Data Center.

Entertainment

LIFER — Dinah Shore and director Peter Bogdanovich congratulate Orson Welles upon receiving the Life Achievement Award from the American Film Institute Sunday night. Charlton Heston, AFI board chairman, presided at the banquet at the Century Plaza Hotel, Los Angeles. Frank Sinatra was master of ceremonies. Among those paying tribute to the actor-director-write-producer were Joseph Cotton and Ingrid Bergman. The program was taped and will be on CBS-TV at 9:30 p.m. Monday.

USC Chamber Singers scheduled at Citrus

The USC Chamber Singers, conducted by Dr. Charles Hirt, will present a concert in the auditorium of Citrus College at 8 p.m. Friday.

Admision is $1 general, 50 cents for students.

The 16-member chorale has toured the United States, Europe and the Middle East. The repertoire ranges from Baroque and Renaissance music to contemporary, folk and pop selections.

Hirt is director of choral organizations at USC and chairman of the departments of choral music and church music, both of which he founded. He is widely sought as a guest conductor and choral clinician in this country and Europe.

At Dailey Theater

LVC to present Giraudoux play

The La Verne College Theater Company will present the Jean Giraudoux fantasy, "The Enchanted," in Dailey Theater at 8 p.m. Saturday and March 1 and 7.

John Woodruff directs, assisted by Chuck Lovelace.

Giraudoux, a French statesman, is better known for his play, "The Mad Woman of Chaillot." "The Enchanted" is known in France as "Intermezzo."

It tells of a young woman, Isabel, who is in love with death and the mysteries beyond the grave. She courts a handsome ghost until he is destroyed and she is demoralized by those around her.

The cast includes Lovelace, Don Watt, Terry Weaver, Frank Ramierez, Dave Glasa, John Rueblood, Cathy Adams, Kara Moore, Janine Cole, John Dunbar, Dwayne Smith, Wayne Trimmer, Whitney Chandler, Sharon Mahan, Cindy Smith, Melody Mayer, Rita Ornales, Debbie Kniesley and Cindy Shaw.

Tickets are $2 general, $1.25 for students.

Russian duo to perform at Shrine

Valery and Galina Panov, noted Soviet ballet stars, will perform at Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, at 8:30 p.m. March 1 and at 2:30 p.m. March 2.

An earlier schedule for the Soviet dancers to make their United States debut tour had to be postponed when Panov suffered a strained leg muscle during rehearsal.

The artists will perform a program of selected solos and pas de deux, with symphony orchestra under the baton of Robert Zeller. The Los Angeles dates will be their only Southern California appearances and their only concert performances on the West Coast.

Ticket orders received by mail to Variety Concerts for the previously announced schedule will be filled to correspond with the performance initially requested.

DONNA FARGO, pop and country singing star, will appear on "Como Country: Perry and His Nashville Friends" on CBS-TV at 8:30 Monday night. Also on the show are Chet Atkins, Loretta Lynn, Charley Pride, Charlie Rich and the Nashville Brass.

Car inspection will help safety and environment

"Mandatory" and "compulsory" are not the most popular words in the English language. Among car owners they are especially distasteful because the automobile is, in and of itself, an expression of the free spirit.

Nevertheless, as our roads become more crowded and our society becomes more complex, the need for stronger disciplines in the operation and maintenance of our cars increases. One area in which most states have been woefully lax is that of vehicle inspection.

A truly effective maintenance inspection would involve more factors than safety.

More than safety

For this reason some legislators now are looking at motor vehicles from the standpoint of its environmental influence as well as safety. Air pollution and noise pollution are becoming matters of serious public concern.

The Federal Government undertook to regulate the mechanical condition of the nation's cars with its Highway Safety Act of 1966. At that time 20 states and the District of Columbia had periodic motor vehicle inspection. Another 10 initiated programs before the 1970 deadline required by Department of Transportation. One more had come in since then.

Hold back funds

Supposedly, the government would hold back a percentage of the state's federal highway funds if no inspection program were developed by the 1970 deadline. This has not happened.

Motor and Equipment Manufacturers Association, the national organization representing manufacturers of automotive service parts and equipment, has created a task force to help bring about some much needed broadening, strengthening and standardization of vehicle inspection nationwide. Some progress has been made.

Significant additions

According to Wayne E. Rapp, of Walker Manufacturing Company, Chairman of the Task Force, "the significant additions to vehicle inspection programs that will emerge during the '70's, other than more thorough and sophisticated testing techniques and standards, are the inclusion of exhaust emission checks and tests for noise level.

"Except in a few isolated cases, these factors are at the discretion of the car owner. This would be fine if people were more responsible. Human nature being what it is, we expect that nationwide legislation will be the eventual answer.

"Our M.E.M.A. Task Force urges officials who deal with motor vehicle inspection to contact us at 222 Cedar Lane, Teaneck, N.J. 07666 for assistance."

Zippers shot off

Victim lucky he lost only pants, jacket

DENVER (UPI) — Walter Lund, 69, considers himself lucky that he lost only his pants and a jacket in an armed robbery.

Two young men, one of them armed with a pistol, accosted Lund in a parking lot and demanded money, police said.

"I told them to go to hell," the crusty employe of Mountain States Telephone Co. said. "They were standing so close to me we were almost touching and they fired this gun at me. I thought it went into the ground, and I got in my car and drove off."

One of the robbers fired the pistol at Lund and the bullet deflected off the zipper of Lund's jacket and bounced off the zipper of his trousers. Lund escaped with only a flesh wound in the leg, police said.

"It blew both zippers clean off," said Lund. "I guess I'm lucky. I guess the old man upstairs was watching out for me."

Cranston: Ford's budget will hike jobless ranks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Unemployment will increase to 11 per cent in California unless Congress overrules President Ford on the economy, Sen. Alan Cranston said today.

"California faces an unemployment rate of 11 per cent along with an inflation rate of 11.3 per cent unless Congress can make major changes in the President's budget," Cranston said. He spoke at the outset of a hearing held by the California Conference on National Budget Priorities in the federal building here.

The senior California senator, a Democrat, called for huge additions to the budget in the form of increased Social Security, welfare and school appropriations.

"We must not further penalize education, the sick and the elderly who are already among those hardest hit by inflation-recession," Cranston said in his remarks opening the session.

Weapons found in searches of Boston schools

BOSTON (UPI) — School officials here, where court ordered desegregation has spawned sporadic violence, said that detectives have found more than 300 "extremely dangerous" weapons during searches of a dozen schools.

Among the weapons found in the last three weeks, officials said, were a starter's pistol, hunting, kitchen and throwing knives, ice picks, a variety of chemical sprays, cut-off baseball bats and razor blades.

"I expect there are many more weapons at schools we have not yet searched," said John J. Doherty, chief plant engineer in charge of school operations.

"We are quite concerned about dangerous weapons such as knives, guns and clubs being stored on school property," he said.

Boston School Committee Chairman John J. McDonough said he felt the weapons were the product of widespread racial tension in the schools due to federally ordered school desegregation.

Iran may get a better U.S. ship than our Navy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An American firm is planning to sell Iran new destroyers that are better ships than destroyers contracted for by the U.S. Navy, Rep. Les Aspin charges.

Aspin, a frequent critic of Pentagon decision-making, said Sunday that the Navy admits the Litton Industry DD-963 destroyers will have better weapons systems and more firepower than the same ship being sold to the Navy.

The Iranian ships will be equipped with extra antiaircraft capability.

"The facts are that the Shah of Iran is being built a better destroyer in a U.S. shipyard than our own Navy is getting," Aspin said.

A mere 'touch' can be battery

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — A police officer, since dismissed from the force, has been convicted of simple battery for kissing a 15-year-old high school student without her permission.

The incident occured while former officer Alfred Cummings, an 11-year veteran of the police force, was assigned to duty at Baton Rouge High School.

District Judge Elmo Lear ruled the charge of battery did not require that the victim be struck. A mere touch without consent of the victim is sufficient to commit battery, he said.

Sentence is to be imposed at a later date.

Probably the most impressive thing about the more than 23,000 ideas submitted to Atlantic Richfield Company's Public Transportation campaign is the inventiveness and diversity of the ideas.

Most of the ideas deal with variations of known forms of technology. And interestingly enough, many of the ideas deal with our failure to use the technology already available: the systems approach.

To us, the most interesting group of letters begins something like this: "The American public will never give up its love affair with the car..." and they go on with proposals to incorporate automobiles into a Public Transportation system.

Right now, we are in the process of putting together booklets incorporating many of the more interesting ideas. We will make these booklets available upon their completion.

So far, we feel the campaign has been very successful. Only one thing could make it even better – the answer to this question: Where's your idea on Public Transportation?

Please note that all ideas submitted become public property without compensation and any restriction on use or disclosure. This allows the ideas to be used freely to promote the concept of Public Transportation. Again, our thinking is that since the subject is Public Transportation the ideas should belong to the public.

OMS ready for 1975 Cal 500

The Ontario Motor Speedway is very much alive and moving fullbore toward this year's running of the California 500 March 9 in spite of some financial problems.

The qualifications will be held two weeks from Saturday. The Twin 100's are set for two weeks from Sunday and the Cal 500 three weeks from Sunday.

The recent flurry of negative publicity was somewhat misleading according to two of the people who are in the best position to know.

One is Executive Vice President Jim Cook of OMS, the other Ontario City Finance Director A. C. Gabriel.

Both men acknowledge that the operating company, headed by Parnelli Jones, owes back rent and a property tax bill which add up to a reported $194,000.

However there is little chance that Jones and company will suddenly be tossed out and a new operator brought in.

"We have a contract with the current operator," said Gabriel, "and we couldn't bring in someone else if we wanted to. Furthermore, we aren't looking for anyone else."

Cook explained the reason the company had not paid the rental and property tax bills when due.

"Ontario Motor Speedway lost $9.7 million the first three years it was in operation," Cook said. "I don't think anyone thought we could turn it around the first year. But we did break even.

"The success of the speedway definitely depends on a large turnout for the California 500 each year," Cook continued. "When we assumed operation (in 1973) there were a lot of unpaid bills, taxes, etc. and the place had been allowed to run down.

In perfect condition now

"Now it is in perfect condition and we've improved and finished the parking areas. But we're coming up to our biggest attraction. We have to make sure we put on a great event. So we've had to make the best business decisions on where the money we have is to go and we are late on some payments. We intend to pay all our bills. But payment will simply be delayed until after the California 500."

Gabriel was in accord. "They have a cash flow problem," he said, "which will not be relieved until after the 500."

The people at OMS are doing all they can to insure a successful race.

"We have 39 entries," Cook revealed. "That's better than anyone anticipated. All the top guys will be here. The only driver now questionable that we'd like to have is Joe Leonard (1971 winner)."

Leonard was injured at last year's race and hasn't raced since. He was not signed by the Vel's-Parnelli team for this year because of a doubt as to his availability.

"Joe (Leonard) called and said he was coming in," said Cook. "But I don't know if he has a ride (car). There are some cars that might shift drivers. I've heard that Leonard might drive one of A.J. Foyt's cars."

Jim McElreath, winner of the first California 500, is another driver expected to be on hand hunting for a spot in one of the 39 entries.

But as Cook said, the top drivers (and cars) have entered. Attractions like Mario Andretti, Bobby and Al Unser, Foyt, Billy Vukovich, Roger McCluskey, etc., etc., will be here.

A new addition this year is Bobby Allison, better known for his stock car driving. Allison and Andretti will be allowed special qualification runs since they have committments that will prevent them from being here the first weekend which includes the qualifications and the Twin 100's. However, they will drive in the 500.

Andretti will be driving in the South African Grand Prix March 2. Allison will be in a stock 500 at Rockingham, S. C.

Enough parking areas have been paved and lined off now so that 60,000 vehicles can be handled. There is room for an estimated additional 40,000 cars in non-paved areas.

Cey, Sutton go to arbitration

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers said Tuesday the contracts of third baseman Ron Cey and pitcher Don Sutton have been submitted to arbitration.

Cey requested arbitration of his 1975 salary and the club asked arbitration of Sutton's contract, Dodger President Peter O'Malley said.

O'Malley said the arbitration procedure "will be helpful in speeding up the finalization of salary differences."

Both players are expected to be on hand when spring training begins Feb. 26, O'Malley said.

COMING THROUGH

Garey High's Sonny Baldez (30) drives past Pomona's Sam Davis (24) during San Antonio League contest Tuesday. Garey topped Pomona, 96-64, to hold league lead.

Garey is 'terrible' but wins anyway

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

Again Garey High head basketball coach Mike Wells wasn't completely satisfied.

He had just watched his No. 1 ranked Vikings manhandle cross-town rival Pomona, 96-64, Tuesday afternoon in San Antonio League action. Then he responded with, "It was one of our worst performances this year."

It didn't look all that bad, but Wells wanted to point out how his Vikings looked in his eyes.

"That first half was terrible," the third-year skipper commented. "We were just standing around. The players looked bored, and that's a bad sign. We can't afford to play like that against better teams."

The "better teams" Wells was referring to are the clubs his team will face in the CIF playoffs, which begin in two weeks.

The victory gave the Vikings an 11-0 record in the SAL and it boosted their season mark to 22-1, which is the main reason why they're ranked No. 1 in the CIF 3-A poll.

Pomona, meanwhile, saw its league record drop to 3-8 and its season mark dip to 7-15.

Although Wells didn't think it was one of Garey's finest performances, it was an outstanding day for a few individuals.

Garey forward Delbert McDonald, who leads the league in scoring, had an incredible day. "Mac" dropped in 17 of his 19 field goal attempts to lead the Vikings with a massive 34 points and 12 rebounds.

Viking forward Gary Carpenter, playing his usual smooth game, pulled down 13 boards while scoring 12 points.

Garey "super sub" Kent Jordan came off the bench and performed brilliantly again, scoring 14 points on mostly long bombs.

Pomona forward Sam Davis was about the only bright spot for the Red Devils. Davis poured in 12 points in the third quarter enroute to a 17-point performance for the day, while also snagging 11 rebounds.

The game itself was no contest after the first quarter.

Garey, after stumbling around in the early going, ran off to an 18-9 lead against the cold-shooting Devils. The only time the Vikings trailed was when Pomona's Davis opened the game with the first bucket.

Garey tied it with a Billy Evans 25-foot bucket, and then the Vikings rattled off six straight points.

The league leaders finished the first quarter hitting 9 of 17 from the floor, while Pomona shot an icy 4 of 17.

Both teams shot at a 50 per cent clip in the second period, but Garey had pushed its lead to 44-25 at the intermission.

The third quarter is when McDonald and Davis put on their shows.

Delbert, taking most attempts on layins off the left side of the rim, poured in 14 points in the eight minutes of play. He didn't miss a shot throughout that period.

Davis almost duplicated that feat. The Pomona senior forward made good on six of his seven attempts from the field to round up his 12 markers.

Kings' slump about over?

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Kings try to cut Montreal's five-point lead in Division 3 of the National Hockey League tonight when they host the Atlanta Flames.

The Kings snapped a three-game losing streak Sunday by beating Chicago 2-1 and Los Angeles Coach Bob Pulford thinks his team's slump is about over.

"We're not all the way back to our system but we're getting there," Pulford said.

He said the Kings would have to keep up their tight defensive hockey while at the same time score goals to overhaul the Canadiens, who have been battling Los Angeles neck and neck throughout the season.

Lakers blow big lead

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — What does a basketball coach say when his team shoots a blazing 58 per cent in the first half, then turns in an iceberg-cold 33 per cent performance in the second half?

"It was the most frustrating loss of the year," said Los Angeles Lakers Coach Bill Sharman. "No way we should have lost this game."

Bob McAdoo and his Buffalo Braves beat the Lakers 112-108 Tuesday night.

The Lakers streaked to a 65-50 halftime lead over the Braves, outscoring Buffalo 35-19 in the second period and connecting on 28-of-48 shots in the half for 58 per cent. Braves' forward Jack Marin was held scoreless in the half.

Through three periods the Los Angeles lead was 87-72 and it looked as though all the Lakers had to do was hold on to the ball.

But in the fourth period, Marin and McAdoo exploded, outscoring the Lakers 40-21 and holding Los Angeles to 18-of-54 shots.

A three-point play by Marin with 43 seconds left gave Buffalo a 110-108 lead. Gail Goodrich missed for the Lakers 10 seconds later and Buffalo needed only to control the ball.

But McAdoo lost it to Goodrich, who passed to Elmore Smith with eight seconds left. Smith, however, lost control and Randy Smith of Buffalo came up with the ball. He was fouled at the buzzer and sank two free throws.

McAdoo, the NBA's leading scorer, had 47 points, hitting 16-of-32 shots. He was 15-of-19 from the free throw line and also grabbed 16 rebounds.

"There is no question he (McAdoo) is the league's Most Valuable Player," said Braves Coach Jack Ramsey. "His whole game has improved dramatically. I wouldn't trade him for any combination of players."

For the Lakers, Goodrich finished with 26 and Lucius Allen had 20.

Los Angeles has now lost 11 of its last 14 games to sink deeper into the cellar of the NBA's Pacific Division, 12 games behind Golden State.

The Lakers are idle until Friday night when they host Atlanta.

Fresno State uses height to whip Poly

FRESNO — Fresno State was simply too tall and too good for Cal Poly here Tuesday night.

The host Bulldogs broke it open in the second half to trim the Broncos, 81-60, to snap Poly's six-game winning streak in a non-conference game at Selland Arena.

Fresno outscored the Pomonans, 50-33, in the second half to record its fourth consecutive victory and improve its season mark to 13-8. Poly is now 11-7 for the campaign entering Friday night's California Collegiate Athletic Association battle at UC Riverside.

Poly stayed close through the first half trailing by only four points, 31-27, at the intermission but the Broncs couldn't handle Fresno during the final 20 minutes.

Freshman Ken Barnes (6-7) came off the bench to lead the Bulldogs with 19 points. Roy Jones (6-7), center Bruce Henning (6-10) and Pat O'Leary (6-6) also scored in double figures.

Guard Joe Sills continued his high scoring for Poly by tallying 25 points followed by Paul Newton with 19. They accounted for 44 of Poly's 60 points as the rest of the team was held down.

Poly had a miserable shooting night in making only 37.9 per cent of its field goals and 55.6 per cent of its free throws. Fresno also enjoyed a 56-40 rebounding edge as Jones grabbed 16. Newton nabbed 13 for Poly.

Ron Lyle upset by Jimmy Young

HONOLULU (UPI) — Elusive, counter-punching Jimmy Young scored a unanimous upset decision over third-ranked heavyweight Ron Lyle Tuesday night in their 10-round fight at the Honolulu International Center.

The loss probably cost the heavily-favored Lyle a shot at Muhammed Ali's title next June as Tuesday's fight was considered a warmup for the Denver heavyweight.

There were no knockdowns in the hard punching battle which referee Walter Cho scored at 49-42, judge Gilbert Souza 48-43 and judge Wilbert Minn at 50-44.

Young, of Philadelphia, managed to tie up the 218-pound Lyle repeatedly and then smashed sharp lefts and combinations to Lyle's head when they broke.

Lyle concentrated on his younger opponent's body and lost a point in the third round for low blows.

Most of the fight was fought with the two locked head-to-head with Lyle attempting to work over Young's midsection. He occasionally caught the No. 9 ranked heavyweight with solid punches to the kidneys.

But time and again the faster, more agile Young caught Lyle on the side of the head with his rapier lefts, which he also used effectively to keep Lyle at bay in the later rounds when the Denver heavyweight, aware that he was behind in points, charged across the ring attempting to end it all with a knockout.

It was only the second defeat in 33 fights for Lyle and it was Young's 16th win in his career.

Lyle weighed in at 218½ and Young at 203¾. A crowd of 3,700 watched the fight.

Lyle's stablemate, Leroy Jones, 250½, took a dull eight-round decision from Jim Gilmore, 288½, of Los Angeles in a repeat of their eight rounder at Las Vegas, which Jones also won by a decision.

Roger Moreno of Manila, 119¼, unanimously decisioned Shinobu Fujita, 120¾, of Tokyo, and Willie Goodwin, 156, Honolulu, decisioned Anthony Maldonado, 154, of Hilo. Dave Bruce, 159, Honolulu, knocked out Solomone Namoa, 159, of Tonga in 2:54 of the second round of their scheduled four-rounder.

Hacienda race almost over

Second place up for grabs

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

About the only thing left to get excited about in the Hacienda League basketball chase is the battle for second place.

Walnut High, the third-ranked team in the CIF 2-A division, holds a three-game bulge in the standings with only four games left on tap.

So most of the attention is focusing on the second-place spot, where a CIF berth awaits the team who finishes as runnerup.

Going into this week, Bonita High holds down that spot with Alta Loma sitting in a tie for third with Gladstone.

The Bearcats (7-3) must still face unbeaten Walnut (10-0) in the season finale, while Alta Loma (6-4) has already battled the Mustangs twice. So you can see, Bonita will be hoping for just one more upset of Alta Loma to and some security to a CIF berth.

The Bearcats, however, can't afford to look past two of their next three opponents.

Bonita opens this week of competition against bitter rival San Dimas Thursday afternoon. The Bearcats slipped away with a 57-49 victory in their first meeting, and that was at home.

After their battle with San Dimas, the 'Cats must face last-place Royal Oak Friday night and a tough Gladstone team next Wednesday before meeting Walnut.

Meanwhile, Alta Loma seems to have a fairly easy schedule — facing Sierra Vista, Ontario, Royal Oak and San Dimas.

The countdown begins Thursday.

While Bonita and San Dimas are battling it out in the Saints' gym, Walnut will be entertaining Royal Oak, Alta Loma will visit Sierra Vista and Gladstone hosts Ontario.

Hacienda League games are usually scheduled on Wednesday afternoons. But with the school holiday today, the league rescheduled the games for Thursday. All contests are scheduled to begin at their usual 3:15 p.m. time.

There will be three outstanding players to keep an eye on during the Bonita-San Dimas confrontation.

San Dimas forward Steve Brahs is leading the league in scoring with a 23.2 average, while also placing second in the valley with a 21.8 seasonal mark.

Bonita's Harold Drake (forward) and Steve Sly (center) are among the league's top five leading scorers.

Sly, vastly improved over last year, is second in the league scoring derby with a 19.5 average. The 6-foot-3 junior center is averaging 19.4 for the season — seventh in the valley.

Drake, more commonly known as H.P. (Harold Paul) and one of the best all-around athletes in the valley, is fourth in the league in scoring with a 17.6 average. He's ranked fifth in the valley for the season with a 20.5 mark.

San Dimas' starting lineup will probably include Brahs and Mike Shepherd at forwards, Kevin Pokrajac at center, and Bobby Childress and Alan Hanson at the guard spots.

The Bonita starting five will most likely be Drake and Russ Tyner at forwards, Sly at center, and Scott Johnson and Dale Dyck at guards.

Leos host Oxy in battle for first

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

La Verne College expects the biggest basketball crowd of the season when the Leopards take on Occidental tonight (8 p.m.) in the Supertent.

The first-place Leos (7-2) hold a slim half-game lead over second-place Oxy (6-2). But the Tigers have the best overall record (15-6) of anyone in the conference. La Verne (12-9) is second best. But no other team has a winning record.

In other games tonight, Pomona-Pitzer (3-3) hosts cross campus rival Claremont-Mudd (1-5). The Sagehens, with road wins over Occidental and Whittier, are very much in the title picture.

Redlands (4-2) is at Caltech (0-7) in the only other conference game. Whittier (4-4) hosts Westmont in a non-conference tilt.

"We lost to Oxy in overtime (61-57) at their place," said La Verne coach Art Bias, "and our players left there feeling they should have won. Since they've played us, they've changed their defense and they may change it back for this game."

Oxy's only two losses have been by a total of seven points. The Tigers suffered their first loss at the hands of Pomona-Pitzer (63-62) at Occidental. Redlands won, 65-59, in overtime last Saturday also at Oxy.

"This is the hottest conference race in years," said Bias. "Four teams are still in contention. We don't have any easy games."

The Leos have only three conference games left. After tonight, only two remain. Pomona-Pitzer visits the Supertent a week from Saturday. The Leopards wind up the season at Redlands, Feb. 26.

If the Leos win all three, they will win the championship outright.

"I feel Pomona is going to be as difficult as anyone," Bias commented. "They only have three losses and we all have two. It proves the league is just like I said at the start of the season, very even."

The Sagehens still have two games with Redlands and single games with La Verne and Occidental in addition to this week's contests with Claremont-Mudd and Caltech. But the La Verne and Redlands games are the only tough ones on the road.

"If we can win all our remaining games, we can at least tie for the conference title," observed Pomona coach Les Nagler. "The thing we need most is some consistent scoring from the other forward position."

Nagler's "other" forward position has been a problem all season. Three players have shared the position with 6-3 Manual Ramos drawing most of the starts.

Ramos is averaging only 3.9 points per game. The other two players, 6-5 Bob Hoehn and 6-4 Bill Harris are much different. Hoehn has a 4.1 average and Harris, who has played little, has a 3.9 mark the same as Ramos.

But Ramos has a virus and isn't expected to play tonight. So either Hoehn or Harris will start.

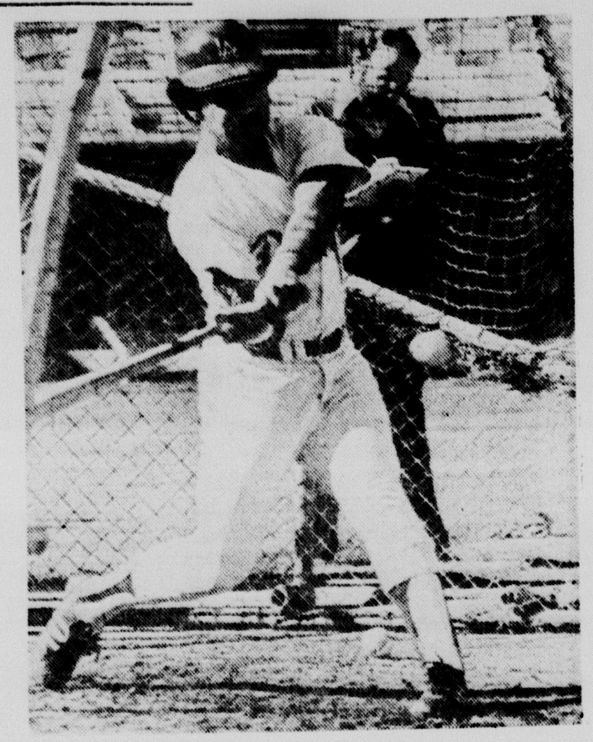
Everyone's choice

BOSTON (UPI) — Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins was a unanimous choice for both the 1974 and 1975 National Hockey League All-Star teams.



TIME FOR TIMING — Dodger second baseman Davey Lopes works on his timing during winter workouts at Dodger Stadium. The Dodgers will play USC's national champions Sunday in a public workout.

Dodgers, USC in free exhibition

LOS ANGELES — There will be a championship flavor to the Los Angeles Dodgers' free public workout on Sunday at Dodger Stadium.

The Dodgers, of course, won the National League Championship in 1974 and they will be making their only public apperance prior to departing for Spring training in Vero Beach, Fla., on Feb. 26.

After participating in their workout Sunday the Dodgers will play a five-inning game with the USC Trojans, winner of five consecutive NCAA championships.

There will be no harge for parking or admission to Dodger Stadium Sunday. The gates will open at 11:30 a.m. with the workout beginning at 12 noon and the game between the Dodgers and Trojans at 1:30 p.m.

Many of the Dodgers players who reside in California will take part in the workout. This group includes pitchers Al Downing, Charlie Hough, Tommy John, Andy Messersmith, Rick Nitz, Doug Rau, Don Sutton and Geoff Zahn; catchers Joe Ferguson and Steve Yeager; infielders Rick Auerbach, Ron Cey, Steve Garvey, Lee Lacy, Davey Lopes, Ken McMullen and Jerry Royster; and intfielders Bill Buckner, Glenn Burke, Willie Crawford, John Hale, Tom Paciorek, Cleo Smith and Jimmy Wynn.

Also scheduled to take part in the public workout and game with the Trojans is outfielder-catcher Norm Miller, the newest member of the Dodger roster. Miller was signed as a free agent after outfielder Von Joshua went to the San Francisco Giants on waivers.

Miller, 28, is a veteran of 10-National League seasons and is expected to be used as a lefthand pinch-hitter and reserve catcher by the Dodgers.

Two "Most Valuable Players" of 1974 will be on display—Dodger first baseman Garvey and USC pitcher George Milke. Garvey was the winner of the MVP award in the National League and Rilke was saluted as the top player in last year's College World Series.

Other standouts for the Trojans included shortstop Marvin Cobb and outfielder Steve Kemp. Cobb batted .329 and stole 14 bases last season and he will be attempting to win all-conference honors in baseball after having been selected as an all-conference safety in the Pacific Eight Conference. Kemp batted .351 for the Trojans last season and drove in 42 runs with 5 homers and 14 doubles.

The Trojans have won five consecutive NCAA titles and 10 over-all under Coach Rod Dedeaux.

The Dodgers will not make another appearance at Dodger Stadium until April when they play a pre-season game with the California Angels.

The Dodgers' opening National League game at Dodger Stadium will be on Monday, April 14th, when they play at 5:15 p.m. game with the Cincinnati Reds.

Seven of the Dodgers' first 10 N.L. games of the season will be against the Reds, beginning with the N.L. season-opener in Cincinnati on April 7.

The Dodgers' opening homestand of the season will consist of four games with the Reds and three with the San Francisco Giants.

Claremont leagues hold sign-up Saturday

Sign-ups for the Claremont Colt, Pony and Pinto baseball leagues will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon at the Claremont Youth Activity Center in Cahuila Park on Indian Hill Boulevard north of Foothill Boulevard.

Boys born between August 1, 1960 and July 31, 1962 are eligible for Pony-Pinto while the Colt League serves boys between August 1, 1958 and July 31, 1960.

Birth certificates must be verified by a league officer at the time of registration. The league requests a fee of $25 per player or $35 per family. However, the league has a policy no eligible boy will be refused because of costs.

Mounties in stretch drive

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

FULLERTON — Mt. San Antonio College starts the final fifth of the season here tonight in a key South Coast Conference basketball game with Fullerton JC at 7:30.

All the games are important for the Mounties from here on out. They're all with South Coast opponent's and coach Gene Victor's club can't afford to lose one.

The Mounties reside in third place in the conference standings with a 3-2 record, one game ahead of fourth place Fullerton, one game behind second place Cerritos and two full games behind front-running and two-time defending champion Santa Ana.

The trick in the next few weeks will be to win everything and hope Santa Ana loses at least once before the teams meet in the final game of the season at Santa Ana.

It probably won't be a cakewalk for MSAC. Tonight's opponent, Fullerton, lost to the Mounties by only two points in the first round, 77-75.

The Hornets boast the No. 2 scorer in the conference in 6-4 sophomore forward Bob Holgate, who is averaging 22.6 points per game. MSAC's George Schader is No. 1 with a 25.2 average, 23.1 on the season.

Holgate may have set-up the outcome of tonight's contest with some outspoken opinions about the relative strengths of MSAC and Santa Ana.

Holgate was quoted by an Orange County sports writer as saying the defending champions were the better team because of their superior quickness.

The Mounties don't need a vendetta to get fired up for this game but Holgate may have supplied them with one anyway.

Besides Holgate, Paul Hill and Luther Acker are averaging in double figures for the Hornets in conference games. Hill is averaging 18.8 points per game and Acker 14.0.

MSAC's Duaine Harding, who is No. 2 in rebounding with 12.4 average, is scoring at about the same rate on the season as is veteran Gary Melugin.

In other conference games tonight, Santa Ana visits Orange Coast and San Diego Mesa hosts Cerritos.

League, club hold car wash

The Pomona Northwest Little League will co-sponsor a public car wash from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday with the Kennedy Park Teen Club.

Prices for the wash will be $1 for cars and $2 for recreational vehicles.

The car wash will be at Kennedy Park, which is located across from Ganesha High.

Final sign-ups for Pomona loop

Final signups for the Pomona National Little League will be held Friday night at Montvue School on San Bernardino Avenue from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

All players who intend to sign up must be accompanied by a parent, and should also bring their birth certificates.

Schader selected top player again

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

For the second time this season, George Schader of Mt. San Antonio College has been selected the College Player of the Week in the Pomona area.

Schader, who is scoring at a 23.1 clip for the Mounties, was an easy choice of the basketball writers and coaches at Tuesday's weekly luncheon at The Castaway Restaurant.

The 6-foot-6 sophomore from Covina scored 65 points in the Mounties' two games last week. He also grabbed 21 rebounds and was credited with nine assists.

Schader will be presented with a plaque donated by the Foothill Beverage Company.

Earning the award from the Pomona Elks Lodge 789 as the High School Player of the Week was Mike Toomay of Claremont High, who scored 54 points for the Wolfpack last week.

Quoting the coaches:

ART BIAS, La Verne: "We won both games over Caltech last week and that's all I can say about that. However, teams who still play Caltech better watch out. Caltech is getting better. We play Occidental Wednesday night and it is a big game for us. There is a lot of excitement brewing on campus. This is the first time we have been in the position of being in first place.

DAVE WELLS, Claremont-Mudd: "We shot very well in our win at Los Angeles Baptist. I feel our players took advantage of the semester break and came back with a fresh start. The layoff should do us some good. We had six players in double figures in the win. Freshman Stu DuVall of Upland did very well in scoring 13 points and grabbing eight rebounds. He plays only one way — hard all the time. The pressure isn't on us in this tight SCIAC race. We still could have a lot of say about who wins it."

LES NAGLER, Pomona-Pitzer: We shouldn't have played at all last week but we did play on the road at UC Irvine and Point Loma. We lost the two games by a total of 56 points. But the tough competition should help us. Irvine was able to dominate us except for Geoff Northrop, who scored 28 points, and Brandon Boyd. We feel we still have a chance in the SCIAC and I definitely think we'll be a deciding factor."

CLIFF HAMLOW, Azusa Pacific: "We played three games last week and managed to lose all three. We played well against USIU but didn't against Cal State Los Angeles or Cal Poly. There is no letup in our schedule. We have changed the lineup several times but it doesn't seem to make any difference. We still have an outside chance for the playoffs. Rick Reed is no longer with us. Sophomore Steve Gustin has been playing well for us."

NEIL EDWARDS, Citrus: "We lost two games on the road last week at San Bernardino and Saddleback. We are 3-7 in Mission Conference play and five losses could have gone either way. Free throw shooting on both ends is hurting us. Roland Albright turned his ankle against San Bernardino and missed the Saddleback game. He is doubtful for our games this weekend."

BARNEY NEWLEE, Chaffey: "We're also 3-7 in the Mission Conference. We just lost to Riverside by 31 but the score doesn't indicate the type of game it was. Our team is playing very well for about 30 minutes every game but that's it. We missed nine straight one-and-one free throw shots. We're also shooting 38 per cent for the season and it's difficult to win very many games with that type of percentage."

GENE VICTOR, MSAC: "We played our finest game since December in our loss at Pasadena. Pasadena is the best team we have played this year. We also played very well in beating L.A. Valley. Schader played his best basketball of the season last week. He is really learning the offense now. We have to win every conference game in the second round for at least a tie for the championship."

Vikes, Giants improve in CIF cage rankings

Garey High came closer to a unanimous vote as being the No. 1 ranked team in the 3-A, and Ganesha High moved up a notch in this week's high school basketball poll.

Garey, leading the San Antonio League by one game, picked up two more first place votes from the Southern California prep sports writers when previously third-ranked Los Altos lost over the weekend.

The Vikings are now only two votes shy of gaining unanimous acclamation.

Ganesha slipped up to sixth place in the rankings after North of Riverside, previously sixth ranked, dropped a decision in weekend play.

Walnut remains ranked No. 3 in the 2-A division, and Claremont High's soccer team is still ranked No. 2 in the CIF soccer ratings.

Giants shoot well, clobber Claremont

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

While the possible future of its sports program was being discussed elsewhere Tuesday night, Ganesha High continued toward a post-season basketball playoff spot with a convincing 87-68 victory over host Claremont.

It has been said all year that if the Giants shoot well they will win and if they don't — well, then things get interesting.

The game against the Wolfpack wasn't really interesting as Ganesha shot well. The Giants were 40 of 79 from the floor for a 51 per cent mark and never trailed after grabbing an early 7-6 lead.

The secret to this tiny Ganesha team is its overall quickness, the ability to shoot well and the need to force the opposition into more mistakes than the Giants.

Gary Fulkerson's crew was successful on each count.

The quickness showed as the Giants were able to outrebound the taller Claremont quintet by continually getting position under the backboards.

This quickness also accounted for the fine shooting percentage as many were of the lay-up variety while the quickness also caused Claremont many problems with the tenacious Ganesha press.

The Giants' full court pressure directly resulted in 11 turnovers by the 'Pack, with Ganesha being able to cash in on baskets seven of the 11 times. Take away those seven buckets and you have an interesting ball game.

Howard Love tied his season high of 19 points in leading the Giants offense while Cleve Bell, with a fine 5 for 6 performance in the third quarter, added 18.

Donald Barnes, the team's leading scorer in San Antonio League play, was limited to just 13 while 5-6 guard Ralph Dudley added 10. Starting center Paul Whitmore had his lowest total in some time with only eight points

The scoring leader for Claremont was Rob Fossum, who for the first time all year looked like the player many people expected him to be in 1975.

The leaping Fossum scored 21, 13 in the second quarter, and hauled down a game high 16 rebounds.

While Fossum was having a fine night, last week's High School Player of the Week, Mike Toomay, was struggling. Missing his first six shots in the opening period, Toomay wound up hitting just six of 24 and scored 13 points.

Chino forced into overtime against Cavs

Forward Mike Coppess dropped in a field goal and teammate Jimmy Love added a free throw in the last minute to give Chino High a thrilling 55-54 overtime victory over host Montclair Tuesday afternoon in San Antonio League play.

After Coppess and Love put the Cowboys in the lead, Montclair attempted to regain the lead in the closing seconds. But the Cavaliers missed on a field goal attempt, Chino's Jeff Scott pulled down the rebound, and the Cowboys ran out the clock to claim the triumph.

Chino had jumped out to a 17-10 lead at the end of the first quarter, and then widened it to 33-23 by halftime.

But then the Cavaliers, behind six-point efforts by forward Brent Jetton and Doug Jenson, rallied to outscore the Cowboys by 10 in the third period, 20-10. The two teams entered the final period of regulation play in a 43-43 deadlock.

They battled neck-and-neck throughout the quarter, until Jensen sent the game into overtime when he scored with 20 seconds left on the clock.

Coppess, the league's ninth leading scorer, won the game's scoring honors with 19 points. Cowboy guard Hector LaMarque contributed 15 points in the victory.

Damien keeps pace, 78-64

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Correspondent

Damien High scored a clean sweep in Tuesday night's San Antonio League charity bazaar (basketball game) with Upland High.

Coach Bill Roberts' Spartans sank nearly twice the free throws (31) that the Scots attempted (16); 'super' guard John Pignotti downed Highlander backcourt 'ace' Mark Sorenson (28-18) in their head-to-head matchup, and the Spartans wound up with an easy 78-64 victory over coach Paul Trautwein's Upland team.

Damien (17-6) maintains its shadowy pace in the SAL race with an 8-3 slate, behind Garey (11-0) and Ganesha (10-1) while Upland (4-17)continues its trek toward the cellar with a 2-9 ledger.

The Highlanders actually sank more field goals than their hosts (29-24) but lost the contest at the foul line where the CIF playoff seeking Spartans connected on 31-of-43 freebees. Upland settled for 6-of-16, 15-footers from the stripe.

While all eyes were on the two teams in battle, the focus was centered on the Pignotti-Sorenson matchup, as each club played man-to-man defense most of the way.

Pignotti, the SAL's third leading scorer at 17.6 points per game, played a consistent game by scoring eight in the second quarter, seven points in the first and fourth periods and six in the third stanza. The 6-0 playmaker-scorer hit 7-of-14 from the field and sank 14-of-16 free throws, besides contributing seven assists, four stels and five rebounds.

Sorenson, Upland's top point-getter at 14.5 per outing, had 17 markers after three periods but collected his fifth personal at 4:35 of the final quarter after obtaining just one point in the stanza.

Both players kept the jammed Damien gym buzzing with driving layins and fine outside shooting. Sorenson hit 8 of 15 field goals but managed just two of seven charities.

Upland jumped to an 8-0 lead after two minutes only to have the hosts gain an 18-5 advantage the rest of the opening eight minutes of play.

The Spartans, slowly but steadily, built their lead with a 39-31 bulge at the half, and 53-45 after three periods.

Other Spartan leaders were forward Mike Wetenkamp (16 points), center Cornel Kasbergen (six points, 12 rebounds) and reserve forward Jon Kolodge (11 points). Kolodge, normally a starter, played half the game. He's recovering from a bad ankle sprain.

Forward Dave Duncan equalled Sorenson's 18-point performance. The No. 2 Scot scorer at 12.3 points per game tallied 10 markers in the fourth stanza where he grabbed nine of his 12 caroms. Clark Sanders also come off the bench to add 16 points.

Upland visits Ganesha Friday night while Damien travels to Chino. Both games tipoff at 8 p.m.

Tigers fall to San Gorgonio

Chaffey High almost stole the ball game away from host San Gorgonio Tuesday night in Citrus Belt League basketball action.

The Tigers, unfortunately, came up on the short end of a 63-60 decision and dipped below the .500 mark in CBL play. San Gorgonio, thanks to Fontana's mild upset over Pacific, is now tied for the league lead with an 8-3 record. Chaffey dips to 5-6 with only four games remaining in the regular season.

San Gorgonio held a five-point lead most of the way. The Tigers trailed by five, 60-55, with 1:43 left in the game when San Gogo's Stan Cook sank a free throw to put the hosts six up.

Chaffey then scored to cut the margin to four, and then John Mattke stole the ball from San Gorgonio and scored to trim it to only two points.

Chaffey again got a steal from Jacobs, who was fouled in the act of shooting. However, Brian could only hit one of the two charity tosses, and the lead was chopped to one, 61-60.

With only seven seconds left and San Gorgonio stalling, Tiger guard Al Ramirez stole the ball but fell down and lost possession. In the act of retrieving the ball, Al fouled Cook, who in turn made both of his free throws to sew up the victory.

Jacobs ended up with 34 points, while teammate Mark McQuaid contributed 17.

In other high school action Tuesday, Ontario Christian downed Bell-Jeff, 73-48, in Olympic League play. Webb fell to Notre Dame, 71-44, in Arrowhead League competition, and American Christian got whipped by Marantha, 84-37, in the Academy League.

Ontario Christian forward Ed Sytsma poured in 24 points, while Bell-Jeff's Alphie Enciso countered with 20.

Webb started off strong against Notre Dame, but then mistakes cost the Gauls in the second period. Center Doug Senborne led the team with 12 points.

Forwards Dean Hayes and Greg Hammond each had 12 points in American Christian's loss.

McQuaid holds onto prep lead

With only two weeks of regular season play to go, Chaffey High's Mark McQuaid is still holding onto the lead in the valley prep scoring derby.

McQuaid, the 6-foot-4 junior forward for the Tigers, is averaging 21.9 points an outing. In second place and threatening to overtake the Chaffey star is San Dimas' Steve Brahs, who is averaging 21.8 points a game.

In third place, and moving up, is Claremont's Mike Toomay with a 21.4 average. Both averaging 20.5 per game are Chaffey's Brian Jacobs and Bonita's Harold Drake.

Montview League's heated race

Rowland pulls off seventh straight

By MIKE BROSSART
P-B Correspondent

Rowland just keeps on rollin'.

The Rowland High Raiders earned their seventh consecutive Montview League basketball victory Friday night when they nipped the hosting Nogales High Nobles, 51-49.

"We were lucky to get out of that one alive," admitted Rowland's coach Don Livingston. "Nogales didn't let us play our game, and we were fortunate to win it."

Raider forward Rusty Owens provided the necessary impetus, as he tied the score at 49 with a field goal with 1:36 remaining and scored the final two points of the game on a pair of free throws with 31 seconds left.

The Raiders, who opened league play with four straight losses before getting hot, are now in a three-way tie for second place with Charter Oak and Workman, just one game behind the league-leading Northview Vikings.

Asked to comment on his team's midseason reversal, coach Livingston replied, "There was no big turnaround. We were playing well earlier and just not winning. If there are differences, the two biggest factors have been better rebounding and better outside shooting, especially from guard David Warner."

Warner finished the game with 14 points, as did Owens. Rowland forward Jim Weedon hit a game-high 15. For the Nobles, forwards Brady Hubbart and Jim Baily scored 13 and 11, respectively, while center Napolean Sparks hit 12.

The game was close throughout, as Nogales' biggest lead was six points and Rowland's was four.

Starting the fourth quarter four points behind, the Raiders reeled off eight straight points to take a 47-43 lead. The Nobles scored six unanswered points to take a 49-47 lead with 2:34 left, but then their pass offense turned the ball over twice and Owens went to work.

★ ★ ★

Mike Moses scored 26 points and pulled down 11 rebounds to lead Charter Oak to a 69-63 victory over Azusa Tuesday night.

Charter Oak jumped out to a quick lead, took a 24-18 advantage after one quarter, fought off Azusa in the following two periods, and pulled it out in the final eight-minute stanza.

Moses was 12 for 20 (60 per cent) from the floor, while teammate Brian Harrison connected on 9 of 14 for 64 per cent and 18 points.

Garey whips Red Devils

For the game, Garey shot 53.5 per cent from the floor (46-of-86), while connecting on only 4 of 11 from the free throw line.

Pomona, on the other hand, shot an even 40 per cent from the field (24 of 60) and hit 16 of its 28 attempts at the charity stripe.

Garey, now on a 15-game winning streak, will hope to extend that to 16 when it hosts Claremont at 8 p.m. Friday night.

Pomona will draw last-place Montclair Friday night in a home encounter scheduled for the same time.

Cowboys test Upland in SAL mat showdown

Upland could finish all alone in first place in the San Antonio League wrestling standings Thursday afternoon, but it probably won't be easy.

The Highlanders, defending SAL champions, will host second-place Chino at 5:30 p.m. to determine the leader after regular season play.

Upland will be going into the final dual match of the season with a 4-0 record, while Chino enters with a 3-1 mark.

In other SAL wrestling action Thursday, fifth-place Claremont hosts last-place Ganesha, while Montclair hosts Garey in a battle for third place in the standings.

A number of matches figure to be key ones when Upland and Chino take to the mat Thursday.

At the 98-pound class, Upland's Rick Hart (3-1) goes against Chino's Dave Saucedo (2-2). At 123, Upland's Bill Glasheen, who is undefeated in league, winner of several major tournaments, ranked No. 1 in the Foothill Wrestling Association ratings, and highly regarded to place in CIF competition, wrestles Chino's Gilbert Almendariz. Almendariz is 19-5 for the season and is ranked third in his weight class.

Upland also has class wrestlers in Clem Papazian at 135, Doug Stone at 141, Bruce Barkmanian at 148 and Dan Patterson at 152. Chino will try to counter with Joe Alaniz at 130,Steve Pack at 137, John Lusk at 168 and Ron Walker at 193.

Pack is 18-2 for the season, ranked No. 1 in the FWA ratings, and is 4-0 in league. Lusk and Walker are both 3-1 in league, while Alaniz (a sophomore) is 3-0-1.

Local JCs enjoy wins in baseball

Chaffey and Citrus extended their early season winning streaks to four and three games, respectively, Tuesday afternoon in junior college baseball.

Chaffey (4-0) claimed its fourth win in a row with a 13-4 decision over San Jacinto and Citrus routed Compton, 11-0.

The Panthers had a 6-3 lead when they exploded for seven runs in the seventh inning. Gary Sloan's two-run homer and doubles by Rod Weigand and Steve Young spawned the outburst. Young's double drove in three runs.

Citrus had a big day at the plate also and that was complimented by the four-hit pitching of Ron Walton who went all the way, striking out 10 and walking only four.

Kip Eppard doubled and Dave Hostetler tripled to pace the offensive.

The Owls (3-1) haven't lost since the opening round of last weekend's Palomar-Mira Costa Tournament.

Citrus will be back in action today, hosting Rio Hondo in a 2:30 p.m. game.

Chaffey opens the Cerritos Tournament Thursday in a 10 a.m. game against L.A City at the Cerritos College field in Norwalk. The tournament runs through Saturday.

Mt. San Antonio Colge was scheduled to host San Bernardino this afternoon at 2:30, but rain inundated the Mountie diamond Monday and Tuesday's game against L.A. City had to be postponed until Wednesday, Feb. 19.

'Hens hunt for forward

"Harris is probably the best scorer of the three," said Nagler, "and he can rebound as well as the other two. But he's missed a lot of practices because of other committments."

Claremont-Mudd defeated the Sagehens, 76-73, in overtime when the two met in Ducey Gym.

"We'll have lot to say about who wins the title," said coach Dave Wells. "Besides tonight's game with Pomona, we still meet Oxy, Redlands and Whittier."

Forward Dave Waterhouse may not be at full strength. The 6-3 senior has been slowed by a virus.

Sills joins Northrop in scoring race

Hottest race in the P-B scoring derby for four-year colleges appears to be for second and third place.

Pomona-Pitzer's Geoff Northrop, averaging 20.4 points per game, has taken a commanding lead over the rest of the field. Northrop leads second place Joe Sills of Cal Poly (17.2) by an average of 3.2 points per game. Pomona-Pitzer has only six games left and Cal Poly eight.

Sills, a 6-3 guard, did not become eligible to play until Jan. 1. But by the end of the season he will have played in the same number of games, 21, as Northrop.

Northrop's teammate, Brand Boyd, is only two-tenths of a point per game behind Sills. Ken Lukhard of Azusa Pacific and La Verne's Tim Gillette are separated by only one tenth of a point (16.7 to 16.6) for the next two positions.

Girls softball league holds sign-ups Friday

Sign-ups for Claremont Girls Softball will begin Friday from 7 to 9 p.m. at Taylor Hall in Claremont. Girls may also register on Saturday, Feb. 22, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Memorial Park.

To register for a team, a girl must be accompanied by a parent or guardian, show proof of age and pay a registration fee of $10.

Girls wanting to play on the same team as last year must register Friday.

Persons interested in managing (females only) or coaching (male or female) may call 624-9721 or 624-3611.

New officers of the league are: Carol Farinella, president; Sherwin Feingold, vice president; Barbara Carter, secretary; Dolores Leary, treasurer; Bill Riegel, ways and means chairman; Bill Speer, league coordinator; and Jack Webb and Dave Snow, division commissioners.

One charge this year will be less free parking. For the qualifications and Twin 100's, the non paved areas will offer free parking. For the 500, a $1 fee will be charged for the unpaved area.

"All sports facilities charge for parking now," Cook reasoned. To park crowds properly, you have to spend money and you've got to get some back. Indianapolis does have some free areas, but they are limited. Indy doesn't own space around the track like we do so you have private parking facilities operated by many various individuals all charging fees."

If you've ever been gouged $3 or more to park for a Rams football game or $1.50 to $2.25 at the Fabulous Forum, the buck for the Cal 500 seems reasonable enough. . .as long as you don't mind hiking a half mile to the gate.

As in the past, Club Suite and Victory Circle parking is also available, at higher prices, to those wishing to get closer to the site. Overnight camping, and parking in the infield, an innovation started by Cook's group for the 1973 race, has proved very popular. The prices remain unchanged. For the qualifications and Twin 100's, the price is $3. For the 500, the cost is $10.

Caps impress new coach

By United Press International

The hour and 50-minute delay notwithstanding, Red Sullivan's coaching debut with the Washington Caps went a long way toward settling a 10-year old setback.

Sullivan, who was fired by as head coach by the New York Rangers in favor of Emile Francis 10 years ago, assumed the unenviable job as the Caps' (4-45-5) head man after Jimmy Anderson was fired hours before the their scheduled game with the Rangers Tuesday night.

But before Sullivan even stepped behind the bench, he was faced with as serious a problem you can come by in hockey—no ice.

A combination of errors resulting from an overdose of blue paint on the surface for an ice show and a subsequent rock concert cost the Capitol Arena's work force nearly 12 hours of overtime to restore the hockey ice—thus causing the long delay of the game which finally was completed after midnight (EST).

But the delay seemed to only affect the visiting Rangers as the Caps, displaying some rare rallying spirit, overcame a three-goal deficit to bomb the visiting New Yorkers 7-4.

Mike Marson, Gord Brooks, Mike Bloom and Steve Atkinson all scored in the final period as the lowly Caps overcame a 41 deficit to stun the Rangers for only their fifth win. Brooks tied the score at 2:35 of the third period and Marson, Bloom and Atkinson piled it on against goalie Ed Giacomin.

Elsewhere in the NHL, St. Louis downed Philadelphia 3-1, the New York Islanders edged Pittsburgh 2-1 and Vancouver shut out Kansas City 4-0. In World Hockey Association action, Toronto nipped Edmonton 4-3, Houston drubbed Baltimore 5-2 and San Diego routed Quebec 9-2.

Islanders 2, Penguins 1

Jude Drouin scored at 5:12 of the final period to snap a 1-1 tie and enable the Islanders to move three points ahead of Atlanta in the torrid race for the final playoff berth in Division I. New York had opened up a 1-0 lead on Clark Gillies' goal in the first period but the Penguins came back to tie it on Syl Apps' second period score.

Blues 3, Flyers 1

Red Berenson, Bill Collins and Pierre Plante all fired goals past Bernie Parent, the NHL's top goaltender, as the Blues handed the Flyers their third straight setback. Collins scored what proved to be the game winner at 2:40 of the second period. The Flyers, playing without suspended Dave Schultz, did not get a shot on goal for the first 11:15 of the second period and by that the time the Blues had taken four— two of them goals.

Canucks 4, Scouts 0

Gary Smith turned in his sixth shutout of the season and Vancouver exploded for three goals in a 2:14 span of the final period to rout Kansas City. Andre Boudrias' power play goal late in the first period was the only score through the first 52 minutes but then Leon Rochefort, Garry Monahan and John Gould scored to break open the game and lift the firstplace Canucks to a five-point lead over Chicago in Division 2.

Aeros 5, Blades 2

Gordie and Mark Howe continued their now familiar WHA father-son act, combining for two goals and four assists in powering Houston to its fourth straight road victory. Veteran Gordie Howe got his 24th goal in the third period after the Aeros led 2-0 and Mark added three assists and his 17th goal.

Toros 4, Oilers 3

Paul Henderson, Frank Mahovlich and Brian Gibbons all tallied second period goals to give Toronto its third win in a row and move the Toros 10 points ahead of third place Edmonton in the WHA's Canadian Division. For Henderson, it was the 28th goal and for Mahovlich, it was No. 24.

Nordiques, Mariners

Andre Lacroix had two goals and two assists and Wayne Rivers added a goal and two assists to enable San Diego to rout Quebec. San Diego jumped out to a 4-0 lead after one period on goals by Ray Adduono, Michel Rouleau, Rick Sentes and Lacroix and the Mariners closed out the scoring with third period goals by Gene Peacosh, Rivers, Lacroix and Mike Laughton.

Azusa stops Biola with new lineup

Azusa Pacific coach Cliff Hamlow shook up his lineup Tuesday night and the Cougars in turn shook up visiting Biola, 79-68.

It was only the sixth loss against 18 wins for the Eagles.

Hamlow started two sophomores and a freshman, Norm Van Ginkle, a freshman from Covina started at forward. The two sophs were center Steve Gustin and guard Brian Cox.

The Cougars (10-13) used a zone press so effectively that Biola made only seven of 24 shots (29.2 percent) in the first half. No Eagle player had more than two points. Seven different players each made one basket as APC roared to a 34-14 halftime lead.

The Cougars hit on 16 of 29 (55.2 percent) in the first half and then scorched the nets for 15 of 23 (65.2 percent) in the second half.

Keith Walker came off the bench to hit on all five field goal attempts while scoring 13 points and grabbing seven rebounds. Ken Lukhard only played the last eight minutes of the game but scored 12 points while hitting six of seven shots.

Walnut's Mike Leatherby led APC with 14 points and six first-half rebounds.

APC has another tough opponent Thursday when the Cougars travel to Southern Calif. College.

Farmer signs with Dallas

AZUSA — Azusa Pacific College running back Jim Farmer, who set single season and career rushing records in two years with the Cougars, has signed a professional contract with the Dallas Cowboys as a free agent.

The 6-1, 195-pound Farmer was signed for a modest bonus and will report to the Cowboys rookie camp in Thousand Oaks.

The former Cougar all-American (1973) gained 1,132 yards in 1973 for a single-season mark and finished with 718 yards in 1974. His two-season totals were 1,850 yards in 320 carries for averages of 102.8 (game) and 5.8 (carry). He also led the team in scoring the past two seasons, totalling 116 points.

GOOD OLD DAYS— This schooner brings back the days of wooden hulls. Actually it's fiberglass. It and other sailing vessels will be on display this weekend through Feb. 23 in the Long Beach Sailboat Show. Lectures on sailing, starting at 8 p.m. each day, are part of the show.

New fish, game laws summarized

Seventy bills affecting California fish and wildlife were enacted by the State Legislature and signed into law during 1974. Excet for those containing emergency clauses that became effective Jan. 1.

Numerous resolutions requesting departmental studies or federal action in specific fish and wildlife areas were also adopted by the two houses of the Legislature.

Although the changes in hunting and fishing license fee schedules received the most publicity, there was significant legislation in the areas of land conservation, commercial fisheries, sport hunting and fishing, law enforcement and funding. In the following summary major legislation, Assembly and Senate bills are identified by number, author and chapter number as contained in the statutes of 1974.

SB 1981, Nejedly (ch. 1981), establishes a buffer zone around the 55,000-acre Suisun Marsh and requires the Wildlife Conservation Board to acquire, and the Department of Fish and Game to administer, those lands within or adjacent to the buffer zone that the board finds require prompt acquisition to protect the integrity and continued wildlife use of the marsh.

The department, in cooperation with the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission, is to prepare a Suisun Marsh Protection Plan to be submitted to the governor and the Legislature by Dec. 1, 1976. The department is also required to conduct specified detailed studies of the marsh.

AB 2405 Boatwright (Ch. 25), prohibits any person including state, federal, county and city officials or their agents to pay a bounty for any bird or mammal. In 1963 the Legislature abolished the bounty on mountain lions, and in 1967 the bounties on crows and black-billed magpies were repealed.

English sparrows and starlings are now the only nongame birds which may be taken at any time without restriction. AB 3823, McLennan (Ch. 1129), amends the Fish and Game Code to bring it into conformance with the federal Migratory Bird Treaty Act. Crows, jays and magpies were added to the protected bird list by the federal law.

SB 1766, Behr (Ch. 1503), is a major revision of laws relating to the importation and possession of many species of live wild animals. The new law is designed to discourage the capturing of wild animals in foreign countries by prohibiting their importation into the state by private individuals.

AB 3531, Davis (Ch. 1066) authorizes the Fish and Game Commission to adopt regulations governing the commercial taking of crayfish to prevent overharvesting and to protect the resource.

Laws enacted in 1973 relating to oil sumps are amended by SB 2052, Zenovich (Ch. 772), to require the FGC to include a resonable definition of "hazardous" in commission regulations pertaining to oil sumps. SB 2053 also requires the DFG to specify, in its notice to the state oil and gas supervisor of hazardous oil sumps, the immediate and grave danger or hazardous conditions existing.

The taking of any cross fox, silver fox or red fox for profit-making purposes is made unlawful by AB 2406 Boatwright (Ch. 898). Current regulatiohs prohibit the taking of any fox except the gray fox.

AB 3108, Johnson (Ch. 696), appropriates for fiscal 1975-76 $1,000,000 from the general fund to the DFG for support of nongame species management and protection programs.

A new chapter titled "Native Species Conservation and Enhancement" is added to the Fish and Game Code by AB 2441, Boatwright (Ch. 898). AB 2441 creates a native species conservation and enhancement account within the Fish and Game Preservation Fund to which persons and organizations may contribute for the support of programs for nongame species. Anyone contributing $5 or more to the account will receive a decal in recognition of the contribution.

Plant Fla. bluegill in Calif. waters

The Department of Fish and Game will go before the Fish and Game Commission Friday to propose introducing a Florida strain of bluegill into California waters.

Commission President Timothy M. Doheny of Los Angeles said the meeting, scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., will be held in the supervisors' chambers of the Administration and Courts Building, 1415 Truxton Ave., Bakersfield.

According to the DFG, importing the Florida strain may help improve growth characteristics of bluegill, the principal warmwater game fish available to California anglers during the summer and solve the problem of deteriorating bluegill fisheries in waters with large-mouth bass and threadfin shad.

All bluegill now present in California waters are descendants of introductions of a northern strain from Illinois in the 1890s.

But this strain has shown tendencies to overpopulate and become stunted and therefore less desirable to anglers, the department said.

In addition to growing faster than the northern strain, the bluegill from Florida should do better in waters with largemouth bass and threadfin shad where bluegill fisheries have deteriorated.

If introduction of the Florida strain is approved, the DFG said, adult fish would be imported soon and stocked in Lake Perris, Riverside County, after they have been inspected for diseases and parasites.

Sailing experts scheduled to speak at Long Beach show

Some of the nation's best-known sailing figures will participate in the nightly lecture series at the annual Long Beach Sailboat Show, set Feb. 14-23 at the waterfront Long Beach Arena.

The lecture series are set nightly at 8 p.m., excepting opening night and Sundays, when the show closes early.

Officials of the sponsoring Southern California Marine Association have announced opening day, Friday — Valentine's Day — women accompanied by a gentleman will be admitted free.

The lecture series is one of the popular extra features of the nation's largest all-sail show. Several hundred 1975 model boats sailboats, along with nearly everything that goes on a sailboat, will be on display.

The show has been expanded by 10,000 square feet to take care of new boats and products.

The lecture lineup includes Mike Kane, the first to sail round-the-world in a trimaran; George Sigler, who survived 56 days in a raft in the Pacific last summer to prove man could exist in a hostile environment.

Also Dennis Conners, helmsman and tactician on the winning America's Cup boat, Courageous; Philip Robbibaro, an expert in fiberglass repair and maintenance; Rick Taylor, high speed multi-hull expert; John Carson, round-the-world adventurer; and Carol Patrick of NASA, on trailerable sailboats.

The speaking schedule, all at 8 p.m.

Sat., Feb. 15 — Mike Kane, multi-hulls

Mon., Feb. 17 — George Sigler, famed survival expert

Tues., Feb. 18 — Dennis Conners, America's Cup sailor

Wed., Feb. 19 — Carol Patrick, trailerable sailboats

Thurs., Feb. 20 — John Carson, long-distance adventurer.

Fri., Feb. 21—Rick Taylor, high speed multi-hull and mono hulls

Sat., Feb. 22 — Philip Robbibaro, fiberglass maintenance, repair.

Claremont team eyes state soccer playoffs

The Kangaroos will represent Claremont in the boys' Division III (ages 7-9) state American Youth Soccer Organization (AYSO) playoffs opening on March 1.

Meanwhile, the Claremont Thunderbirds defeated the Upland Cheetahs, 4-1, in a playoff game to determine the Region 32 representative in the state girls' Division I (ages 13-15) playoffs.

The Kangaroos won the Claremont title by defeating the Beagles, 1-0. The Claremont team will host the Pomona champions on March 1 at Griffith Field (Sumner School) at a time to be decided later.

Ken Burlison and Dick Byrne coached the Kangaroos to the Division III White League championship with a 10-1-1 record. They scored 40 goals during the season and allowed only eight. The Raccoons downed the Penguins, 2-0, in a special playoff game to earn second place in the White League.

The Beagles, coached by John Fidak and Don Walsh, won the Red League with a 10-2-0 record and scored 34 goals while allowing only eight. The Foxes took second place.

The Thunderbirds finished the season with a 12-1-1 record and scored 48 goals while allowing only six. The T-Birds drew a bye in the first round of the state tournament and will play Granada Hills in the second round at Granada Hills on March 15.

Six girls on the T-Birds were selected to the Claremont Division I All-Stars teams. They were Sue Ann Gatten, Jamie Mace, Shanna McBryant, Kristen McDermott, Michelle Munger and Whitney Swick.

Phils cleared of any charges

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies did not tamper with Dick Allen.

At least not in the judgment of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Kuhn said today his office concluded its investigation of Atlanta's complaint of tampering "and has not found any evidence to substantiate the complaint."

"Specifically," Kuhn added, "we did not find any evidence the Philadelphia club had originated any contact with Allen."

Vernon cagers still unbeaten

Vernon Junior High of Montclair's eighth grade heavyweight basketball team remained undefeated by defeating Imperial of Ontario, 51-35. Tony Izzo led Vernon with 12 points followed by Mike Newman with nine. David Keith and Derick Brewait led the team in rebounds.

The Vernon lightweights were upset by Imperial, 46-41. David Sandoval scored 14 for Vernon while Jerry Lange added 12.

Dodgers looking for three million

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — No major league baseball team has drawn 3,000,000 fans in a season, but Los Angeles Dodgers president Peter O'Malley is shooting for that figure this year.

"Most of the indications are favorable," he said of the Dodgers, who drew 2.6 million as the team won the National League pennant in 1974.

He cited an increase in season ticket sales and the fact that "we're going to be competitive on the field again" as factors for his optimism.

Pronghorn antelope drop noted by DFG

The Department of Fish and Game's annual aerial census over California's northeastern plains has revealed a drop in the number of pronghorn antelope in the area.

DFG wildlife biologists who search known winter habitat of the pronghorn said this year's survey produced a count of 4,109 animals. The 1974 census showed 4,747 antelope, the highest number in the 21 years of the census.

Fish and Game said the decrease in the number of pronghorn may be a product of the relationship between the size of the antelope herds and the available food in the high plains country. Biologists said the herds produced a relatively low number of kids last spring.

Tabulations from the annual January census and from a summer count are used each year to determine if the DFG will recommend that a late summer antelope hunt be approved by the Fish and Game Commission. If it recommends a hunt, the DFG also uses the census data in recommending the number of permits to be issued.

Hunters last year bagged 284 buck antelope under a 410-permit hunt. In the last 11 years, hunters have taken home nearly 2,500 pronghorn while the number of antelope in the area has doubled.

In addition to being found in Modoc and Lassen and parts of Shasta and Siskiyou counties, pronghorn inhabit Mono County in small numbers.

Pomona's Davis Honored at SLO

SAN LUIS OBISPO — Tailback Gary Davis from Pomona has been named outstanding offensive back on Cal Poly San Luis Obispo's 1974 football team.

Davis, a 5-10, 195-pounder from Garey High, led the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) in rushing with 880 yards, the third highest single season figure in SLO history.

Pomonan is in Mint 400 desert race

LAS VEGAS, Nevada — Timothy Ralph, from Pomona, Calif., has entered the $100,000 Mint 400 Desert Race, March 16-19th in Las Vegas, Nevada. The prestigious event, sponsored by Del Webb's Mint Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas, is run in the rough Nevada desert over a 400 mile course. It features the biggest guaranteed purse in off-road racing ($100,000) which is comparable with any purse for any motor racing event in the world.

1974 Indianapolis 500 winner, Johnny Rutherford, has entered as well as speed king, Mickey Thompson, world land speed record holder; Gary Gabelich; and 1963 Indy 500 winner, and defending Mint 400 champion, Parnelli Jones. Off-road super star, Bobby Ferro, will try for his first Mint 400 victory — the only major off-road event he hasn't conquered.

Former world motorcycle champion, Rolf Tibblin, will defend his Mint 400 title against the charges of Las Vegan, Jack Johnson; Preston Petty, from Eugene, Oregon; and A.C. Bakken, Santa De Vista, California.

Mint 400 Race Director, K.J. Howe, predicts an exceptionally large field for the event. More than four hundred racing drivers from throughout the United States, have entered the grueling 400 mile desert classic, with entries from Germany, Argentina, Japan, Australia, and neighboring Canada rounding out the international field.

For further information regarding the 1975 Mint 400, contact: Racing Headquarters, Mint 400 Desert Race, P.O. Box 2160, Las Vegas, Nevada 89101.

Robbins is fastest driver

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Marty Robbins of Nashville, Tenn., running his Dodge at an average 175.822 miles per hour, led Tuesday's qualifying race for the $300,000 17th annual Daytona 500 Sunday.

Robbins collected $200 as the high speed man for the day, nosing out Dick Trickle of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., who averaged 175.507 in a Mercury. David Sisco of Nashville was third in a Chevrolet averaging 174.141 m.p.h.

Donnie Allison won the pole position for the 500 in a qualifying race Sunday, averaging 185.827 in a Chevrolet. David Pearson, last year's pole sitter, grabbed the other front line Berth in a Mercury, averaging 184.411. The remaining 38 starting positions for the 500 will be decided in two 125-mile heats Thursday with positions for those races being decided by qualifying results this week.

The second 15 for Saturday's $48,000 Permatex 300 late model sportsman stock car race was decided Tuesday, James Ham of Nashville won the No. 1E position by driving his Chevrolet to an average of 172.285, barely nosing out Butch Lindley of Greenville, S.C., whose Chevrolet averaged 172.253. Number 1S went to Alvis Shugart of St. Augustine, Fla., in a Mercury.

Irwindale Raceway to host Speedway Motorcycle tour

Irwindale, Calif. — Southern California speedway motorcycle promoters Harry Oxley and Steve Evans jointly announced this week that Irwindale Raceway has been tabbed to host the third and final event in the International Champions Series (U.S. versus the World) Speedway Motorcycle tour on Saturday night, March 8.

This series, the initial event staged February 2 in the Houston Astrodome, pits six of the finest European speedway riders against America's best. Oxley will stage the second race at his popular Orange County Fairgrounds Facility on Friday night, March 7 followed the next evening on the longer Irwindale Raceway oval.

"We're just thrilled to host this pre-season international event," said Irwindale's Steve Evans. "It's a super opportunity for the fans to see the world's finest riders on both the small Costa Mesa oval and the longer, faster Irwindale facility. It also makes for a much fairer series.

Many years of World Championships are represented in the European horde. Included will be New Zealand's Ivan Mauger and Barry Briggs, Denmark's Ole Olsen, current World Champion Anders Michanek and two more still to be confirmed.

Battling for the United States will be 1974 National Champ Steve Bast, 1973 National Champ Mike Bast, 1972 Champion Rick Woods, "Wild Bill" Cody, Sonny Nutter and 1974 runner-up to the National title, Jeff Sexton.

Tickets for both races are now available through the respective race track offices and soon at outlets throughout So Cal.

The 1975 season of SRA sanctioned weekly speedway events opens Thursday night, April 16 at Irwindale and Friday night, April 17 at Costa Mesa.

Borg gets chance vs. Arthur Ashe

By United Press International

It's time for Bjorn Borg to put his tennis racket where his mouth is.

Last week, the young Swedish superstar predicted he would beat Arthur Ashe in the singles finals of the World Championship Tennis Green Group tourney at Bologna, Italy.

Today he gets his chance as they meet for the title.

Ashe, the 31-year-old top seed from Miami, ousted unseeded Bob Hewitt of South Africa, 6-2, 6-3, Tuesday in a 63-minute semifinal. Borg, the 19-year-old second seed, took 67 minutes to beat Holland's Tom Okker, the No. 3 seed, 6-4, 6-2.

Borg has beaten Ashe five times, the last in the finals at Richmond, Va., and lost to him three times.

In Toronto, top seeded Marty Riessen ousted Gerald Battrick of Great Britain, 6-2, 6-2, in first round play at the $50,000 Rothman's International Tournament. A WCT tournament, Riessen earned the top seed in this week's 32-man event on the strength of his victory in the recent U.S. Pro Indoor Championships in Philadelphia. He needed only 30 minutes to win.

In other first round matches, Cliff Drysdale of South Africa beat Vijay Amritraj of India, 7-5, 3-6, 6-4; sixth-seed Phil Dent of Australia won 6-3, 6-4 over Jiri Hrebec of Czechoslovakia; Milan Holecek of West Germany defeated Graham Stilwell of Great Britain, 7-5 7-6; American Dick Stockton won 6-2, 6-1 over Pierre Lamarche of Canada; and Mark Cox of Great Britain beat Tom Edlefson of the U.S., 6-0, 6-4.

At Salisbury, Md., unseeded Ivan Molina of Colombia beat fourth-seeded Alex Metreveli of Russia in straight sets, 6-4, 6-0, to post the first major upset of the National Indoor tournament as third round matches continued.

Jimmy Connors, No. 1 American seed, is slated to face Tomas Koch of Brazil today.

In other major matches at Salisbury, top foreign seed Ilie Nastase of Romania outclassed 18-year-old Billy Maze of Orinda, Calif., 6-3, 6-4, to advance to fourth round play. Vitas Gerulaitis, the No. 2 domestic seed, held off Manola Santana of Spain to win, 6-3, 6-4. Fourth-seeded American Billy Martin of Palos Verdes, Calif., stayed off unseeded Gene Mayer, 7-5, 6-2.

In women's action, the top seeded players in $75,000 Chicago Virginia Slims Tourney had little trouble in early competition as all three top seeds scored straight set victories.

Top seeded Chris Evert downed Sue Stap, 6-3, 7-5, second-seed Evonne Goolagong of Australia, making her first start in about a month after recuperating from a wrist injury, beat Patti Hogan, 6-2, 6-4, and third-seed Margaret Court downed Lesley Hunt 6-1, 6-3.

Fourth-seeded Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union needed a tiebreaker victory to oust Betty Stove of the Netherlands, 6-2, 3-6, 7-6.

Who is best racing driver?

DAYTONA BEACH, FLA. — Who is the best race car driver in the world?

Part of the answer will come Friday when the prime cut of racing talent comes together at Daytona International Speedway to conclude the 1974-75 International Race of Champions.

Nine of the world's best drivers will climb into identical Chevrolet Camaros and make 50 trips around Daytona's famous 2½ mile tri-oval. The one that gets there first will be crowned "Champion of Champions" and take home $30,000 in first prize money.

"I don't know if it will prove who's best," says 1974 U.S. Auto Club champion Bobby Unser, "but it's a good attempt and the money's right."

Unser is one of the nine drivers who survived the three IROC qualifying races held last Fall. There were 12 drivers in the original field.

Unser won the first qualifying race held last September in Michigan. The second and third races, held in Riverside, Calif., in October, were won by Brazilian Formula One champion Emerson Fittipaldi and stock car star Bobby Allison.

All three winners made it into the championship field where they will be joined by Indy 500 champions A.J. Foyt and Johnny Rutherford, stock car drivers David Pearson and Cale Yarborough, American road racer George Follmer and Swedish Grand Prix star Ronnie Peterson.

The IROC is a series designed especially for television and each of the four events is taped and shown by ABC Television as segments of its Wide World of Sports program.

Drivers will be assigned cars for the championship by blind drawing held an hour before the start of the race, then line up in order of points earned in the qualifying rounds.

That makes the starting order read like this:

Fittipaldi, 41 points, Unser, 38, Follmer, 36, Allison, 33, Foyt, 32, Pearson, 30, Yarborough, 29, Peterson, 23, and Rutherford, 21.

The three drivers eliminated from the field were Richard Petty, Graham Hill and Jody Scheckter.

This is the second year for the Race of Champions. The inaugural series was won by road racer Mark Donohue who supervised construction of the IROC Camaros this year.

DETROIT (UPI) — John "Red" Doram, former National Hockey League defenseman who played for the Detroit Red Wings in 1937-38, died Tuesday after an apparent heart attack. He was 63.

Sports news in brief

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Willie Davis, a $110,000-a-year baseball player, was sentenced Tuesday to five days in jail for failure to pay support to his divorced wife and three children.

Davis, a veteran outfielder who started in 1961 with the Los Angeles Dodgers in the Dodgers was held in contempt of court by Superior Court Commissioner Dorothy Ersoff because he failed to make $1,750 a month payments of $1,750 a month to Mrs. Willie Davis from September 1974 to January 1975.

Lou Brock, the base-stealing king of baseball, signed a 1975 contract that at about $170,000 makes him the highest paid member of the St. Louis Cardinals.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Veteran linebacker Billy Andrews of the Cleveland Browns was traded Tuesday to the Denver Broncos in exchange for defensive cornerback Lonnie Hepburn, a third-year veteran from Texas Southern.

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — San Jose State has lost one of the nation's top sprinter to freshman San Jose City College.

Millard Hampton, state high school 220 champ last year, enrolled at San Jose CC after completing one quarter of scholastic work at San Jose State.

Will L.A. acquire Namath? Harris isn't worried about it

By JIM COUR
UPI Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Joe Namath becomes a free agent May 1 but James Harris, the resident quarterback of the Los Angeles Rams, refuses to get himself in a dither about it.

Although Rams' owner Carroll Rosenbloom has denied that he'll seek Namath's services, Harris isn't so sure.

"I've been around long enough to realize that any organization —and that includes the Rams —is going to do the best thing to improve their club," said the 1975 Pro Bowl MVP.

"If that means bringing in players like Namath, they're certainly going to do so. So I don't worry about it. I'm just going to wait and see what's going to happen because they're the ones who are going to make those decisions."

The New York Jets' quarterback —bad knees and all —has played out his option and the rumors have flown fast and furious about his future.

"At this point, a lot of people say a lot of things," said Harris.

The 28-year-old former Grambling star knows all about the insecurity of the National Football League.

Five games into the 1974 NFL season, the Rams dumped 13-year pro John Hadl, the 1973 NFC Player of the Year, and gave Harris the starting quarterback's job.

This was the same Harris who was an eighth round draft choice of the Buffalo Bills in 1969 and who was put on waivers four years later. The Rams found him working for the U.S. Department of Commerce finding jobs for minority students in Washington, D.C., and added him as their taxi squad quarterback in 1972.

With Harris at the helm, the Rams won their second straight NFC West title and made it to the conference finals where they lost to Minnesota.

"It's just a matter of being in the right place at the right time and making good on an opportunity when you get it," he said. "It was just a matter of me getting more confidence each game that I played. I had been sitting around and not playing.

"I'll feel a lot more confident next season because of the games I played. I'll have a better feeling for what's happening than I have in the past. In the past, I've usually gone into situations where the game was out of hand."

Harris expressed "surprise" when Hadl was dealt to the Green Bay Packers for five draft choices.

"I wasn't expecting it," he said. Thereafter, he made sure he didn't read any newspaper stories about the Rams.

"I read newspapers and I read the sports pages," he noted, "but I don't read articles about our team. I feel more comfortable when I don't read what people are writing about us."

On Jan. 20, Harris became the first black quarterback ever to play in the Pro Bowl and fired two fourth-quarter touchdown passes in a 17-10 upset victory by the NFC over the AFC at Miami.

Eight grid heroes make Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four outstanding backs and four formidable linemen were named to the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame Tuesday.

The backs are Alan (The Horse) Ameche of Wisconsin, Pete Dawkins of Army, Paul Giel of Minnesota and Frank Gifford of USC.

The linemen are the late Chet Gladchuk of Boston College, Don Coleman of Michigan State, Averell Daniell of Pitt and Gust Zarnas of Ohio State.

The eight new members of the Hall, chosen in the "After 1934" category, will be formally inducted at the Foundation's annual dinner in December.

Ameche, the Heisman Award winner in 1954, carried the ball 701 times for Wisconsin, gaining 3,345 yards and scoring 25 touchdowns. In pro ball with the Baltimore Colts, he scored the winning touchdown in the sudden-death championship game with the New York Giants in 1958. He is now associated with his former Colt teammate, Gino Marchetti, in the restaurant business.

Dawkins enjoyed a fabulous career at West Point, both as a student and athlete. He won the Maxwell and Heisman trophies in 1958. He was class president, brigade commander of the corps, then accepted a Rhodes scholarship to Oxford. He served in Vietnam, winning the Bronze Star, and is now a Lt. Colonel and Assistant to the Secretary of the Army.

Giel, now athletic director at Minnesota, was a baseball star as well as an outstanding quarterback and tailback. He was signed by the then N.Y. Giants baseball team as a bonus player in 1954, but a two-year service stint interrupted his career. He pitched for the Pittsburgh Pirates and Minnesota Twins prior to retiring from the diamond in 1961.

Gifford, now a television commentator, starred at USC and also with the New York pro Giants for 12 years.

Gladchuk was at center for B.C. when the Eagles upset Tennessee in the 1940 Sugar Bowl game. After Navy service, he won All Pro honors with the Giants.

Coleman played the trumpet in his high school band before turning to playing football. He served in Korea, then took graduate work at Michigan State. He is in counseling and personnel work at his alma mater.

Danieli lettered in track and field as well as football. He captained the 1936 Pitt Rose Bowl team and played with the Green Bay Packers before joining Earl Blaik as line coach at West Point. He is now Chief Executive Officer of a manufacturing firm.

Zarnas starred at guard for the Buckeyes and also played with the Great Lakes Navy team during World War II. He is now the president of his own company in Bethlehem, Pa.

Chacon is back with workouts

MONTEBELLO, Calif. (UPI) — World Boxing Council featherweight champion Bobby Chacon, who defends his title against Mexico's Papelero Estrada March 1, trained Monday for the first time since missing 11 days because of the flu.

Chacon, of Los Angeles, sparred six rounds at his training headquarters here. He was up to 133½ pounds, four pounds over what he weighed before getting ill. The limit for the fight is 126 pounds.

The bout, originally scheduled for Feb. 8, will be held at Los Angeles' Olympic Auditorium.

Home made granola

Granola continues to capture more devotees with its crunchiness, touch of sweetness and aura of providing something healthful in the way of food.

The granola cult probably will be upset to learn that their hallowed blend of natural cereals also was a favorite of granddaddy's horses. Sometimes he got a dollop of molasses or maple sugar or some other sturdy sweetener into the feed trough but the essential cereal nutrients were always there.

Today we all pay a relative-ly high price for such a cereal blend. And, it is still as tasty and chewy for humans and horses, as it was many years ago. It can be eaten dry or doused-anointed with fresh fruits and skim milk, ideal as a breakfast dish or snack. Make your own Vanilla Granola by combining toasted rolled oats, coconut, nuts, wheat germ, sesame seed, honey, some soy cake, baked apple or puddings.

VANILLA GRANOLA

4 cups old-fashioned rolled oats
1 can (4 ounces) shredded coconut
1 cup finely chopped walnuts
½ cup toasted wheat germ
½ cup sesame seed
1½ teaspoons ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup honey
¼ cup soy or vegetable oil
2 tablespoons pure vanilla extract
1 cup assorted diced dried fruits (pineapple, apricots, raisins, apples, dates, etc.)

In a large mixing bowl combine oats, coconut, walnuts, wheat germ, sesame seed, spices and salt. Toss gently. In a small bowl mix honey, oil and vanilla extract. Pour over oat mixture. Blend well. Sprinkle half of the mixture in a 15 x 10 x 1-inch jelly roll pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until golden, about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Repeat with remaining oat mixture. Cool, combine. Add assorted dried fruits. Store in a tightly covered container and refrigerate. Makes 10 cups.

Storage potatoes in record number

Remember the old count of game — one potato, two potato? The count ended seven potato — more. And that's the situation with potatoes this season.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says that storage potatoes are plentiful and will be available in record quantities this year. As of Dec. 1, stocks were 19 per cent greater than supplies of a year ago and 14 percent above the 1971-73 average.

Frozen potatoes are also plentiful this season, so no matter you want to serve them — potatoes should be a good buy.

Here are some tips for choosing good-quality fresh potatoes from the bins: Look for well-shaped, firm potatoes, free from blemishes, sunburn (a green discoloration under the skin) and decay. Avoid potatoes with cracks or cuts in them.

Some packaged potatoes are labeled with a U.S. grade, such as U.S. No. 1. This means that the potatoes were U.S. No. 1 quality when they were shipped to the store. If the potatoes are unattractive, remember that careless handling either in transit or by shoppers — or the toll of time — may have caused the potatoes to deteriorate. Your own experienced judgment is the best guide to buying fresh produce.

When you buy frozen french fries, look for the grade name on the package. U.S. Grade A or U.S. Fancy fries are top quality in color, size, shape, and texture. You may find packages marked "Grade A" or "Fancy" without the U.S. prefix. These should meet the same standards as packages marked U.S. Grade A or U.S. Fancy. The U.S. designation means a grader from the U.S. Department of Agriculture has inspected the product and certified its quality for you. A "Fancy" label is one of the highest levels of quality.

Grades B and C — these grades are not usually used on retail labels. Neither federal grading nor grade labeling is mandatory.

If there is no grade designation on the label and the french fries are in see-through packages, you can check the quality yourself — using some of the criteria that USDA graders use. The best fries are a uniform light color. The fries are uniform in width — but not necessarily in length — and have few, if any, dark spots or other defects.

Texture can be checked by heating the product. Federal graders make this check and you can too. When the french fries are heated, they should be moderately crisp on the surface, cooked throughout, tender and not soggy.

When you heat frozen french fries, be sure to follow the directions on the package. Time and temperature are very important. If frozen french fries are not prepared properly, the results are like-ly to be unsatisfactory — even if they were top quality when they were packaged.

Students pull new respect as consumers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The student as a consumer is the emerging educational buzzword, right along with a leading topic at the annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges in Washington.

While some students are suing colleges, other "consumers" along the academic trail are looking for more specialized and sensible returns on their tuition investment.

Student demand for employability at graduation has brought some major adjustments to the liberal arts colleges, and a trend is reported, enable such institutions to provide both current preparation and a solid liberal education.

Slain in battle

Richard III was the only English monarch since the Norman Conquest to be killed in battle.

Pineapple-chocolate chantilly

Fresh pineapples from Hawaii are generally available throughout the country, but should you not find one where you shop, substitute pineapple canned in its own juice. Actually, any combination of fresh fruits may be used such as grapes, pears, papayas or apples in addition to something a little sharp in flavor such as pineapple.

The simple sauce is what makes this dessert so special. It is just a matter of stirring together a can of chocolate fudge sauce, toasted slivered almonds and a bit of mint, but it is so good! Another time serve the sauce over vanilla or chocolate ice cream.

PINEAPPLE CHANTILLY WITH ALMOND-CHOCOLATE SAUCE

1 cup whipping cream
3 tablespoons powdered sugar
1 cup fresh pineapple chunks
1 cup red grapes, halved and seeded
2 tablespoons slivered almonds, toasted
2 tablespoons rum
Chocolate-Almond Sauce

Whip cream until stiff; fold in sugar, almonds and rum. Spoon into chocolate glasses or dessert bowls and top with Chocolate-Almond Sauce. Makes 8 servings.

Almond-Chocolate Sauce: Add 2 tablespoons toasted slivered almonds and 1 tablespoon rum to 1 cup canned chocolate fudge sauce.

Journal revenues

New magazines, newspapers and supplements will total a record $7.0 million this year, and the 10-year trend should continue through the rest of the decade, according to Folio magazine's analysis of publishing developments. The latest outlook was made recently to security analysts by Nevins Kruger, Advertising Bureau President Jack Kauffman and American Newspaper Publishers Association President Stanley Smith. That total is expected to surpass revenues of U.S. newspapers almost equal those of television, magazines and radio combined.

Cranberry soup stews

Cranberry stews with fish, meats, poultry

Tasteful, and filled with down-to-earth good nutrition, soup stews are a great idea for family winter menus. Chunk-full of meat, fish or poultry, combined with a good balance of vegetables, sauce, relish or juice cocktail, broth and tangy cranberry sauce, relish or juice cocktail, these stews need little fuss or bother to cook. When they come steaming hot to your table — serve them in soup bowls along with a spoon, as well as a knife and fork, so that every drop of the piquant broth and its contents can be enjoyed along to the very last drop.

You'll want to try all of these soup stews over the winter — each has a unique flavor-essence all its own, and you'll find that they're as good the second time around, so you may want to double the recipes. Cooking in quantities saves money — and if you're budget minded you're bound to agree this is a sound approach to planning your menus. So use some now, and freeze the rest. When March winds are whistling outside your kitchen window, you'll have these hearty soup stews right at hand!

"Cranberry Pork Soup Stew" combines cubes of pork with bacon, whole berry cranberry sauce, apples, cabbage, cranberry-apple drink, and red wine vinegar into a zestful meal. Serve along with a loaf of bread spread with bits of garlic and butter, and warmed in the oven. A light red wine would certainly be a pleasant addition.

CRANBERRY PORK SOUP STEW
(Serves 6)

2 pounds boneless pork, cut into 1-inch cubes
Salt and pepper
6 slices bacon, diced
1 can (8 ounces) Ocean Spray whole berry cranberry sauce
2 tart apples, peeled, cored and diced
4 cups chopped green cabbage
2 cups Ocean Spray cran-apple juice
2 tablespoons red wine vinegar

Sprinkle pork on all sides with salt and pepper. In a Dutch oven, fry bacon until crisp. Add pork and stir until brown on all sides. Add remaining ingredients. Cover tightly and simmer for 1 hour or until pork is tender. Season to taste with more salt and pepper if desired.

For a poultry dish with a delectable difference consider "Cranberry Chicken Soup Stew" combining budget-wise chicken parts with cropped onions, whole berry cranberry sauce, chicken broth, tomato juice, celery, rice, carrots and white wine. This would make an especially nice dinner for entertaining. Serve with a salad of crisp greens with a cheese dressing, thick slices of dark bread (pumpernickel or rye) and a bottle of white wine or pitcher of cranberry-apple drink mixed with ginger ale.

CRANBERRY CHICKEN SOUP STEW
(Serves 6)

1 chicken, about 3 pounds, cut up
Salt and pepper
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 large onion, chopped
1 can (8 ounces) Ocean Spray whole berry cranberry sauce
2 cans (10¾ ounces) condensed chicken broth, undiluted
1 cup dry white wine
1 cup tomato juice
½ cup raw white rice
2 cups 1-inch pieces celery
3 carrots, cut into 1-inch pieces

Sprinkle chicken pieces on all sides with salt and pepper. Heat butter in a large Dutch oven. Brown chicken pieces on all sides. Push chicken pieces to one side of Dutch oven. Add onion and cranberry sauce and stir over high heat for 2 minutes. Add remaining ingredients, cover tightly and simmer for 35 to 40 minutes or until chicken pieces are tender. Season to taste with more salt and pepper. Serve in large bowls with slices of dark bread.

And, last but not least, a dinner for now or Lenten days to come, "Cranberry Fish Soup Stew." This subtle recipe is a mix of chopped onion, chicken broth, cranberry-orange relish, orange juice, vegetables, and cod fillets. You might consider using other favorite fish fillets as well. Serve a basket full of crisp crackers (warmed in your oven) or small rolls and perhaps a dry white wine.

CRANBERRY FISH SOUP STEW
(Serves 6)

1-3rd cup butter or margarine
1 large onion, chopped
1-3rd cup all-purpose flour
½ cup Ocean Spray cranberry-orange relish
2 cans (13¾ ounces each) chicken broth
1 cup orange juice
1 package (1½ pounds) frozen vegetables for stew
1 package (1 pound) frozen cod fillets or 1 pound fresh cod fillets, cut into 1-inch cubes
Salt and pepper

In a Dutch oven melt butter and saute onion until tender, about 5 minutes. Stir in flour. Stir in relish and gradually stir in chicken broth and orange juice. Stir constantly over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Add vegetables and simmer, stirring occasionally for 20 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Add cod and simmer for 5 minutes. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve with crackers, in large bowls.

Railroad film

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — A 20-minute movie about modern railroading in the American West is fast becoming one of the most traveled transportation films ever made. Since its premiere a year ago, Portrait of a Railroad has been seen by more than six million people in theaters from New York to Honolulu. In addition, more than 500,000 saw it in the Burlington Northern pavilion at Expo '74 in Spokane, Wash. The 20-minute documentary, sponsored by the Burlington Northern railroad, has been translated into Spanish, French and Arabic by the U.S. Information Agency and released for distribution in 45 foreign countries.

German editor thrilled at Amerikaner cuisine

In a recent issue of Fur Sie (For You), a German women's publication, the food editor, Helga Ganzow, who had just returned from an American tour reported enthusiastically on the cooking of the USA.

The Editor had tasted all kinds of American cooking. She visited Boston, New Orleans, Dallas, Salt Lake City and San Francisco where she sampled New England Clam Chowder; Alaska King Crab; Roast Turkey; New Orleans Bananas Flambe; Texas Steaks and Fishermen's Cioppino, California's one dish fish stew.

She also described as superb the salads she tasted, in particular artichokes and avocados filled with crabmeat and mushrooms and dressed with seasoned mayonnaise. Helga Ganzow seemed, however, to have missed our molded salads, so typically American.

Here are three she might have encountered in private homes. One is Tomato Aspic Cottage Cheese Mold. Another, Apple Souffle Salad and the third, Perfection Salad served with a dressing recommended by the makers of Best Foods real mayonnaise. It is a simple mixture of real mayonnaise and yogurt, a new idea for perking up Perfection Salad which would surely have been of interest to the visiting German editor.

TOMATO ASPIC-COTTAGE CHEESE MOLD

1 cup seasoned tomato juice
1½ envelopes unflavored gelatin (1½ tablespoons)
1½ cups creamed cottage cheese
½ cup real mayonnaise
½ cup finely chopped celery
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash salt
Dash hot pepper sauce
1 recipe Tomato Aspic (below)

Pour tomato juice into 1½-quart saucepan. Sprinkle gelatin over tomato juice. Heat over low heat, stirring constantly, until dissolved. Remove from heat; stir in cottage cheese, mayonnaise, celery, onion, Worcestershire sauce, salt and hot pepper sauce until well mixed. Pour into 1½-quart mold. Chill about 30 minutes or until firm. Pour in Tomato Aspic Layer. Chill 1 hour or until firm. Unmold. Makes 12 servings.

Tomato Aspic: Pour 3 cups seasoned tomato juice into small saucepan. Sprinkle 1½ envelopes (1½ tablespoons) unflavored gelatine over tomato juice. Heat over low heat, stirring constantly, until dissolved. Cool.

APPLE SOUFFLE SALAD

1 cup boiling water
1 package (3 oz.) lime gelatin
½ cup cold water
½ cup real mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup diced unpeeled apple
½ cup diced celery
½ cup chopped walnuts

In large mixing bowl (or large bowl of electric mixer) pour boiling water over gelatin; stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Add cold water, mayonnaise, lemon juice and salt; beat with wire whisk or on low speed of electric mixer. Chill in freezer unit 20 to 25 minutes or until firm about 1 inch from edge but still soft in center. Remove from freezer. Beat on medium speed of electric mixer until fluffy and thick. Fold in apple, celery and walnuts. Turn into 1-quart mold or individual molds. Chill in refrigerator until firm, 50 to 60 minutes. Unmold. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

PERFECTION SALAD

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1-3rd cup cider vinegar
½ cup light corn syrup
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup finely chopped cabbage
½ cup thinly sliced celery
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
Mayonnaise-Yogurt Dressing

Pour cold water into large bowl. Sprinkle gelatin on water. Let stand a few minutes for gelatin to soften. Add boiling water and stir until gelatin is complete dissolved. Stir in vinegar, corn syrup and salt. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in cabbage, celery, green pepper and pimiento. Pour into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with Mayonnaise-Yogurt Dressing. Makes 6 servings.

Mayonnaise-Yogurt Dressing: Stir ½ cup real mayonnaise. Fold in ½ cup yogurt. Makes 1 cup.

Modern danger

Never dispose of empty aerosol cans in a trash compactor or an incinerator. The cans contain propellants that can cause explosions.

Cheaper than bacon and eggs

Forget sugaring cornflakes; wrap 'em around chicken

Just as bacon isn't the only meat you can serve for breakfast, cornflakes don't have to be served in a bowl with cream and sugar.

Throw habit out the door, and crush your cornflakes with toasted wheat germ, then use the double-cereal to coat plump, tender parts of a fryer. Chicken for breakfast is a practical and delightful change from bacon, toast and eggs — and it's every bit as nutritious and more economical, too.

Select the meaty parts of the fryer and brush them with combined butter and lemon juice, then roll the pieces in the crumb mixture. Set the chicken into the oven to cook through while you go about the morning's projects of brushing teeth or making school lunches. The less-meaty pieces you have reserved make up into a delicious sandwich filling when chopped and combined with celery, green onion, mayonnaise and seasonings.

The easily assimilated protein of chicken gives sustaining energy for cold morning starts, and helps the student or worker perform at a greater level of efficiency than a more meagre meal would allow.

The extra crunch of the corn flakes and wheat germ also adds to the nutritional value of this unique breakfast, and when you add wedges of fresh orange and tumblers of milk, you've got the day off to a flying start in the right direction.

Try something new—chicken for breakfast

BREAKFAST CHICKEN

1 (3¾ pound) Foster Farms double-breasted frying chicken
¼ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1-3rd cup cornflake crumbs
1-3rd cup toasted wheat germ
¾ teaspoon salt

Set aside neck, back and giblets of chicken to make Chicken Sandwich Filling for later use. Split breast and separate drumstick and thigh. Melt butter, and add lemon juice. Combine cornflake crumbs, wheat germ and salt. Brush chicken pieces with lemon butter, and roll in the crumb mixture. Arrange skin side up on oiled flat baking pan. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 45 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Chicken Sandwich Filling: Place chicken neck, back and giblets in a medium-size saucepan. Cover with water and add 1 teaspoon salt. Bring to a boil, turn heat low and simmer 30 minutes. Remove chicken pieces from broth and cool. Remove meat from bones, and chop meat fine (should measure about 1 cup). Add 1-3 cup finely chopped celery, 1 teaspoon finely chopped green onion, 3 tablespoons mayonnaise, ¼ teaspoon dill weed and ¼ teaspoon salt; mix well.

Fruit, nut trees

Now is time to plant 'em

If your offpsring think that fresh fruits come from the produce section of the supermarket, and that nuts come vaccum packed or in cellophane bags, now is a good time to set the record straight.

February is an excellent time to plant fruit trees and nut-bearing trees. Nurseries have their largest selection of deciduous fruit and nut tree varieties at this time of the year. Visiting the nursery and selecting the trees can be a fun outing for the entire family—and an enlightening experience for the youngsters, who see and learn that they can enjoy harvest of fruits, and nuts, in their own home garden.

If your offspring, however, have never tasted a tree ripened peach or plum picked right off the tree, they'll be elated with the taste treats. There's nothing to compare with the flavor of garden-grown fruit.

If you garden has adequate sun, there is no reason you can't enjoy a crop or two of your favorite fruits. Space is important, of course, but lack of it needn't be a problem, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

Grapes can be grown on a fence or against a wall; apples, pears, and figs are often featured as espaliers in narrow planting areas. In addition to being handsome focal points in the landscape, these espaliers offer delightful edible rewards.

Nurseries also have semi-dwarf fruit varieties which require less space. It's a rare property that can't accommodate one, or a few, orchard-size trees; the semi-dwarfs, where they thrive, make it possible to plant even more. There are true dwarf trees, too, and these prolific delights are the answer for locations where larger fruit trees won't fit. The dwarfs can be grown in tubs and are decorative as they are productive.

It is important to plant fruit and nut varieties adaptable for your climate. Your local nurseryman will offer the varieties best for your area, and if in doubt about a particular fruit or nut variety, check with him. He can also explain which trees are self-fertile (most are) and which varieties require a pollenizer in the neighborhood. Pollenizers enhance fruiting and may be necessary considerations for a few varieties.

Packages avert meat spoilage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Researchers at the U.S. Department of Agriculture are working on techniques to make each package of fresh meat a miniature controlled atmosphere to help control microorganisms, that cause spoilage.

The process uses a packet of a nonvolative acid like citric acid and a salt like sodium dioxide. This gas often is used to preserve produce in storage coolers.

Spanish hedgehog good as it sounds

Spanish Hedgehog is the Castillian answer to the British Tipsy Cake.

Almonds and chocolate — favorite ingredients in the cuisines of Spain and Mexico as well as England — are combined here with a wine-drizzled sponge cake and a custard sauce.

Yes, this dessert is as good as it sounds! And it's interesting looking, too, with almond halves studding the cake in porcupine — or hedgehog — fashion.

Incidentally, you'll find the toasted almonds easier to split while they are still warm. Use a thin-bladed knife with a pointed tip.

Spanish Hedgehog

1 round sponge cake layer (8 or 9-inch)
½ cup wine such as Madeira or sweet sherry
½ cup whole blanched almonds, toasted
6 eggs
2 cups milk
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup shaved or chopped semi-sweet chocolate or semi-sweet mini-chips

Drizzle the wine over the cake. Split the almonds and stick them all over the cake, small ends up. Make a cream custard by beating the eggs and combining with milk, sugar, and cinnamon. Cook in a metal pan over hot water, stirring, or beat gently with a wire whip. Cook custard just until it bubbles. Let custard cool, then pour around and over cake. Sprinkle with chocolate. Makes about 10 servings.

Treated hay

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Hay treated with chemicals equals the quality of heat-dried hay, according to researchers at the Pennsylvania State University.

Cattle and sheep accept the hay treated with organic chemicals and make desirable gains, the researchers say. Two of the most common materials used to date are propionic acid and anhydrous ammonia.

RESEARCH FINANCED

Federal legislation gives farmers a means to finance and operate research and promotion programs for many agricultural commodities. All programs have provisions for federal monitoring of activities by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service.

A fact sheet is now available giving information on the legislative authority, administration, and activities of research and promotion programs for cotton, wheat, potatoes, wool, lamb, and mohair, including recent legislative authority that would permit a program for eggs. A brief summary is also included of research and promotion through federal marketing orders, under authority of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937.

Single, free copies of the pamphlet: "Facts About Research and Promotion Programs for Farm Products" may be obtained by writing: Information Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Pancake dish will satisfy hearty winter appetites

Pancake stacks make for hearty wintertime supper

A box of pancake mix, a little of this, a little of that and some imagination add up to a great build-your-own wintertime supper. It's each to his own individual taste with stack 'em yourself pancake main dishes.

Tropical Pancake Stacks are a new way to use left over ham. Diced ham is combined with pineapple chunks in a delectable sweet and sour sauce that's easily made with preserves and prepared yellow mustard. The crunchy goodness of crumbled bacon, flaked coconut, or peanuts is added to the pancakes as they cook. At the table, everyone builds their own stack alternating pancakes and ham mixture and sprinkling all with additional bacon crumbs, coconut, or peanuts.

The principle's the same but the flavor altogether different with Barbecue Pancake Stacks. In this recipe the pancakes are perked up with chopped ripe olives, green pepper, or salami. A lusty mixture of ground beef and sloppy joe seasoning mix is the perfect go-between for the Barbecue Stacks.

Complete your meal with cole slaw, and fresh fruit or cheese for dessert. These pancake stacks are just right for after skiing, after snowmobiling, or just after all.

TROPICAL PANCAKE BARBECUE PANCAKE

- ¼ cup prepared yellow mustard
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 can (1-lb., 4-oz.) sliced pineapple
- ½ cup apricot or pineapple preserves
- 2 cups diced cooked ham
- Pancake batter (recipe below)
- Flaked coconut, crumbled cooked ham, chopped peanuts

In fondue pot or skillet, stir together mustard and cornstarch until smooth. Drain juice or syrup from pineapple; add water to make 1 cup. Add to mustard mixture along with preserves. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until sauce comes to a boil and thickens. Cut pineapple into ½-inch sections. Add ham and pineapple to sauce; cook 5 minutes longer, or until hot. Prepare pancake batter; spoon onto hot, lightly greased griddle. Sprinkle uncooked side of each pancake with a little coconut, bacon, or peanuts; turn and bake second side. Serve pancakes topped with ham mixture; sprinkle with additional coconut, bacon, or peanuts. 6 to 8 servings.

Pancake Batter: Prepare recipe for about 20 to 24 pancakes following directions on pancake mix package.

BARBECUE PANCAKE STACKS

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 envelope (1½-oz.) Seasoning mix for Sloppy Joes
- 1 can (1-lb.) tomatoes
- ¼ cup Burgundy or Claret, if desired
- Pancake batter (recipe below)
- Chopped ripe olives, green pepper, or salami
- Shredded Cheddar cheese

Cook beef in fondue pot or skillet until brown, stirring to crumble; pour off excess fat. Stir in contents of seasoning mix envelope, tomatoes, and wine. Simmer 5 to 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Prepare pancake batter; spoon onto hot, lightly greased griddle. Sprinkle uncooked side of each pancake with a few pieces of olive, pepper, or salami; turn and bake second side. Serve pancakes topped with beef mixture; sprinkle with cheese and additional olives, pepper, or salami. 6 to 8 servings.

Pancake batter: Prepare recipe for about 20 to 24 pancakes following directions on pancake mix package.

Philippines will switch sugar from U.S. to Arabs

MANILA (UPI) — President Ferdinand E. Markos indicated today the Philippines will sell its sugar to Arab countries to replace its preferred market in the United States.

In a speech at the annual convention of sugar producers, Marcos said the Philippines has lost its main sugar market with the end of the American quota system.

The Philippines sold 1.5 million tons of its more than 2.5 million ton sugar output annually to the United States under the U.S. Sugar Act, which guaranteed preferential treatment to countries granted quotas. The sugar act expired in December.

"We have, I understand, a situation here where we've lost our American market. There apparently is no intention to approve a new sugar act in the United States," Marcos said.

To remedy the situation, Marcos said he had ordered the Philippine National Bank, the government agency solely authorized to trade in sugar, to study the possibility of selling sugar on five-year contracts at 24 cents a pound.

"We have made initial inquiries. I understand it is difficult. The market here will now have to be the Middle East.

Payne named to head visiting nurse group

Ernest Payne of Ontario has been named president of the Visiting Nurse Association of Pomona-West End, Inc., board of directors.

Payne is retired assistant superintendent of the Chaffey Union High School District.

ERNEST PAYNE

Others named as board officers for 1975 are Mrs. Betty Townsend, Pomona, vice president; John McCallum, Upland, treasurer; and Mrs. Venne Robertson, Pomona, secretary.

John Lockton of Claremont, retired bank manager, is a new appointee to the board. Others serving this year are Walter Carney, Claremont, Mrs. Frances Grove, Pomona, Dr. Francis M. Hearst, Claremont, Mrs. Yvonne Losh, Upland, Mrs. Byrdie Reddick, Pomona, Mrs. Bob[illegible] Stahl, Claremont, Frank Tondis, Upland, Mrs. Hazel [illegible]ller, Chino, Mrs. Betty Wiltsey, Ontario, and Luis Manjarrez, Pomona.

The association is a nonprofit organization which serves the Pomona Valley and West End communities.

Among the 76 employes are registered nurses, licensed vocational nurses, physical, speech and occupational therapists, a nutritionist and a medical social worker. These people provide skilled nursing care, therapy and educational services. In addition, home-health aides are trained to perform part-time service in the home at the request of a doctor and under the supervision of a nurse.

These nursing services have increased 20 per cent in the past year, according to Mrs. Jane Hull, executive director.

The homemaking service was added to the association's program less than two years ago. Last year, this service increased 35 per cent, with 63 clients receiving 2,226 hours of care in December, alone.

The homemakers are trained to help in the home in capacities ranging from doing light housekeeping, helping with personal care for the ill or shut-in and infant and child care to shopping and transporting adults or children to appointments.

Patients and their families can be assisted in making plans for continuing care after discharge from the hospital through the visiting nurse discharge coordinator in most area hospitals.

Persons wishing information about the services of the visiting nurse of homemakers programs may call 624-3574 or 621-3961.

Writers' Day slated at Mt. SAC

More than 500 students, teachers and members of the community interested in writing are expected to attend the third annual Writers' Day at Mt. San Antonio College Feb. 22.

Guest lecturers will include Sterling Siliphant, Academy Award screenwriter. Other lecturers will be Theodore and Wina Sturgeon, John Stewart, Kenneth Koch, Arthur Mizener and Mark Harris.

Twenty-one prizes in three divisions will be awarded to local writers whose entries were judged earlier. One division is for students in the district's 27 high schools, another for those who are attending the college and a third for members of the commuity at large.

Awards will be given in fiction, poetry, plays, non-fiction television and film scripts, documentary writing and children's writing.

Jeanne O'Reilly and Elizabeth Dorning, both of the college's English Department, have charge of the event.

Three sections of lectures-discussions, designed so that participants may take in all writers or concentrate on their own areas of interest, will be held throughout the morning and into the early afternoon.

After the morning program there will be a box luncheon when all the authors will participate in a group discussion and take questions

Registration will be held at the Student Center from 9:30 to 10 a.m.

The first set of lecture-discussions is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. with the Sturgeons speaking in 26B-101 and Stewart in the Student Center.

Sturgeon is the author of science fiction classics including "Killdozer" and "Starshine." Mrs. Sturgeon is a columnist for "Gambit" and environmental-consumerist commentator for KCET-TV and KFWB radio. Stewart is a San Gabriel Valley free-lance writer, author of nonfiction and children's books including "The Circus Is Coming to Town" and "Frederick Remington."

The second set of lecture-discussions, at 11:15 a.m., will feature Koch, Mizener and Hunter. Poet-teacher Koch is the author of "Thank You" and "Rose, Where Did You Get Your Red?" Mizener is currently a professor of English at Cornell University who wrote "The Far Side of Paradise." He was the editor for the Fitzgerald anthology "Afternoon of an Author." Hunter is the winner of the Los Angeles Drama Critics Circle award for "An Interview with F. Scott Fitzgerald."

Siliphant and Harris will host the final set of discussions scheduled to begin at 12:30 p.m. Siliphant wrote the screen plays for "The Towering Inferno," "The Poseidon Adventure," and "In the Heat of the Night." Harris has authored numerous books including "Bang the Drum Slowly" and "Wake up Stupid."

Shriners to hold Valentine dinner, dance

Old Baldy Shrine Club of Al Malaikah Temple has scheduled a Valentine's Day dinner and dance Friday in the recreation room of the Foothill Terrace Mobile Home, 4095 Fruit St., La Verne.

The social hour begins at 6:30 p.m. and dinner is scheduled at 8 p.m. Dancing will be to the music of Bob Cheadle and his orchestra.

Chairmen of the event are Jack Daley of Ontario and Lawrence Fiora of Chino.

Convalescent center volunteers honored

Volunteers at the Julene Convalescent Center in Pomona were presented certificates and pins at an awards ceremony at the center.

Awards were presented by Mrs. Darleen M. Curley, administrator; Mrs. Mildred R. Myers, director of nurses; and Mrs. Marjorie Jacobsen, acitivities director.

Gifts for over 75 hours of service were presented to Miss Anna Hartshorn, Miss Donna Puzifera, Miss Peggy Wikum, Mrs. Rule Marie Townsend and Mrs. Virginia Lamb.

Julene Volunteer pins for 50 to 75 hours of service went to Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Coufield, Mrs. Gwyn Frost and Mrs. Mammie Marx.

Certificates for up to 50 hours service were presented to Mrs. Zeke Cortez, Miss Noemi Cruz, Esteban Cruz, Bob Cameron, Miss Lydia Enriquez, Miss Cindy Fender, Miss Liza Gonzales, Miss Tammy Harstad, Nick Hartshorn, Mrs. Liz Ketchem, Miss Sandy LaFaue, Miss Karen Mortonsen, Miss Tammy Norris, Mrs. Marilyn Poole, Miss Kassey Quick, Miss Susan Ripley, Mrs. Flo Scott, Miss Sandy Wulfing and Miss Lori Saunders.

Others presented certificates were Miss Cindy Barton, Miss Lori Barton, Miss Linda Brown, Mrs. Margeret Cicero, Miss Leeanne Danley, Miss Debbie Mock and Mrs. Carrie Vejar.

Churches receiving awards for volunteer service were First Lutheran Church of Pomona, Trinity Lutheran of Pomona, Calvary Baptist of La Verne, First Baptist of Pomona, First Presbyterian of Pomona and Assembly of God of Pomona.

Recreation activities to begin soon

Registration is now underway at the La Verne Recreation Department for a boys soccer league which will begin play on March 1.

The league is open to all boys between 8 and 14 and no previous experience is needed. The teams will be divided into groups for younger and older boys.

Another sports activity to begin Friday is a new class in judo. It will meet each Wednesday and Friday from [illegible] to 7:30 p.m. in the Community Building. Persons between 6 and 15 are eligible.

Other classes to begin this month are macrame on Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Community Building and beginning guitar on Feb. 25 from 4:30 to [illegible] p.m.

The fee for macrame for [illegible] weeks is $7 to be paid at the time of registration. Guitar lessons will be $6 for five weeks with lessons each week on Tuesdays or Thursdays.

Alaska city manager is woman from valley

The lone female city manager in Alaska is a former La Verne woman.

Mrs. Barbara Steckel, who was graduated as Barbara Webb from Bonita High School in 1956, was named to that post by the Kotzebue City Council last November. Until her appointment, Mrs. Steckel served the community as its city clerk.

Kotzebue is a city of 2,100 near Anchorage.

Mrs. Steckel says she often spends 10 to 12 hours a day working with residents, looking for additional funding or planning improvements.

"I spend a lot of time just searching through federal and state aid books for new ways to receive revenues," she said.

The city has a three per cent sales tax but no real personal property tax base. Most of the residents work for or in support of the Nenana Regional Corp., but the fishing and tourist industries are also important.

Mrs. Steckel and her husband, Dale, a supervisory electronics technician for the Federal Aviation Agency, and their three children moved to Alaska from Samoa five years ago.

The Alaska city manager is the daughter of Mrs. Bernice Banta of 1337 Fifth St., La Verne. While at Bonita she was the student body treasurer in her senior year.

NOSE TO NOSE — Tumpsey the Clown of De Wayne Bros. Circus, gets acquainted with a young fan. Tumpsey is one of a contingent of clowns who will appear in Pomona with the circus for two performances March 1.

Optimist Club sponsoring it

Old-fashioned circus will come to Pomona

An old-fashioned, tented circusd will be brought to Pomona March 1 by the Pomona Breakfast Optimist Club.

The tent will go up on the old heliport at Commercial Street and Park Avenue. There will be performances at 2 and 8 p.m.

Tickets will be $2.50 for 12 and older. Those under 12 will be admitted free.

Procees will benefit youth activities and the Optimist Club Boy's Home.

Tickets will go on sale this week at leading businesses in the community.

John Avila, president of the Pomona Breakfast Optimist Club, said that the DeWayne Bros. Circus will present wholesome family entertainment with such acts as the Great Antonio, Miss Suzette, Morales, Tates Canine Revue, Jargo the Human Ape, Bimbo Jr. the Elephant, Girls in the Air, Miss Susie Morris, the Juggler Supreme, Lifton Trampoline, Ponies and Gemni the Educated Horse.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling 622-7422.

Poly education unit receives $6,250 gift

Kellogg West Center at Cal Poly has received a $6,250 donation from the U.M. Keck Foundation.

The donation was given to Kellogg West to assist in the building of a new living-learning unit, which will expand the residential capabilities of the center.

Initially challenged with a $600,000 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich. Cal Poly has received donations exceeding another $200,000. Two-thirds of the projected $1.2 million goal has now been raised.

Kellogg West provides in-residence, instructional facilities designed for adult learning and intellectual growth. Industry and business employes, educators, adults of all ages and avocations, are provided facilities and programs for lifelong educational enrichment through the center.

Two La Verne profs on sabbatical leave

Two members of the La Verne College faculty will spend the spring semester on sabbatical leave.

They are Dwight L. Hanawalt, professor of physical education, and Jay Rhee, associate professor of chemistry.

Hanawalt will tour Central and South American countries exploring the possibilities of expanding La Verne College's off-campus learning programs.

His journey will take him to countries he visited as a Peace Corps consultant and as a leader of study groups, over the past 10 years, including Uruguay, Ecuador, Guatamala, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Salvador, Colombia, Bolivia and Peru.

Rhee will do research at UC Davis, working on optical detection of magnetic resonance spectroscopy of large molecular systems which involve transition metals bonding with biologically important molecules.

As a visiting professor at Davis, he will also teach a course.

Death blamed on pneumonia, not foul play

ALAMEDA (UPI) — A mother whose body was found sprawled on her living room floor by a door to door saleswoman was the victim of pneumonia, the Alameda County coroner's office ruled Monday.

Roland Prahl, chief deputy coroner, said he could find no signs of foul play in the death of Regina Richardson, 23.

The saleswoman called a neighbor and entered the house Sunday when her doorbell ring was answered by the victim's three children and they all looked hungry.

The youngsters are Michael, 1; Anthony, 2; and Channing, 3. They said their mother had appeared sick.

Volunteers sought to aid heart drive

An appeal to residents of Ontario, Chino, Upland, Montclair and Cucamonga for volunteers to help in the Heart Fund drive on Feb. 21 to 23 is being made by Mrs. Jack Aronoff, chairman of the San Bernardino County campaign.

Volunteers are needed to call on neighbors with information on reducing the risk of heart disease and how to recognize the early warning signs of heart attack and stroke.

The volunteers will also collect contributions for increased research, education and community programs to help fight the nation's leading cause of death.

Persons interested in assisting the campaign as volunteers may call the Heart Fund headquarters, 590 N. Euclid Ave., Suite 2, Ontario, phone 983-2746.

N.Y.'s Chinatown seethes with social turmoil, crime

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK (NEA) — There is a youth gang in this town named the "Ghost Shadows" whose members go about their neighborhood as peanut-sized potentates whose objective is domination. They extort women in the street, roll drunk old men after dark and walk abreast on sidewalks forcing pedestrians into the gutter. When they eat, they feed voraciously, burp, and walk off without paying their bill.

In light of the history of urban American gangsters, their manners are not surprising. But their origin and location are. Ghost Shadows are not black kids in Bedford Stuyvesant, not Puerto Ricans in Spanish Harlem—they are Chinese Americans in Chinatown.

Chinatown?

For scores of years, that segment of the New York's lower East-Side housing Oriental citizens was nothing if not a model community. During the first half of the century, the area's 15 to 20,000 residents were so quiet as to be hardly remembered by outsiders save the tourists. Mostly immigrants unaccustomed to Western ways, Chinatown's people were strictly private, totally self-sufficient and steadfastly opposed to the mongrelization of their customs and lifestyle.

Now, to the joy of some and chagrin of others, Chinatown seethes with the same social turmoil—the brutality and resentment—as the rest of the nation. Crime, for instance. Last year, according to police records, there were at least a dozen gang-related street deaths and this year 42 illegal weapons have been confiscated from teen-age boys and girls.

A few weeks ago police were called to stop several people from machine gun target practice on a roof. Recently a girl was gang raped by "kids maybe half her age." People here aren't used to this, says Chinatown merchant Frederick Tzu, "we're all afraid."

And the increased crime is only part of Chinatown's ugly transformation. The once solid Chinese-American family structure is eroding if not collapsing. The sense of community has been so largely abandoned that Chinese-American landlords are forcing Chinese-American tenants to pay up to $2,000 key-money for the privilege of obtaining a decent place to live.

"There isn't even the same respect for the aged, says Father Louis Tchang, director of a Senior Citizens charity organization. "Many of our old people are being abandoned or forgotten, left to survive as best they can alone."

There seems no mytery in this sudden flipflop of Chinatown values. In the first place it has not been sudden. Local officials say the problems have been increasing for years but outside America was simply not paying attention.

"God knows," says a social worker here, "Oriental-Americans are the most typecast people of all. I've seen textbooks in the Midwest which still show us with pigtails and folded arms. Not many have noticed we've been growing-up."

At least they've been growing. Chinatown's population increased only slightly for several decades prior to the 1960s. But in 1964, Sen. Robert Kennedy paid a well-publicized visit to Hong Kong and deplored the living conditions of Mainland immigrants. He sponsored legislation to ease U.S. immigration quotas and since then, 20,000 Chinese have come into the nation each year.

The U.S. Chinese heritage population is now put by the Census Bureau at 500,000. New York's Chinatown has grown to 65,000 in the last decade; today its boundaries have spread to the point where, according to one count, half of Little Italy is Oriental.

In essence, say Chinatown authorities, the expansion has been too great to control. It has resulted in poor housing, a shrinking job market, and economic confusion.

Says M.D. Lee, president of the Chinese-American Benevolent Association: "People just aren't making enough money anymore. It's being spread too thin. Besides this, prices go up every day and make matters worse. The cost of rice has tripled in the past year and everybody is left wondering what's next."

With social ills aggravated then, the reformers were bound to move in. And among the reformers have been radicals genuinely interested in improvement and young punks who've formed gangs to confront their own personal frustrations. Whatever the motivation, though, Chinatown has been shaken so severely, says M.D. Lee, that "a lot of us wonder if we can ever be the tight community we once were."

Basically, says Lee and other established leaders, the problem here is that while everyone wants reform, not everyone wants the same variety of it. The generation gap is ominous. Older people want to cling to older ways; the thought of accepting state welfare, as example, remains contemptuous to men who have worked 10 to 12 hours daily all their lives to maintain respectability.

On the other hand, says 21-year-old Spencer Wong of the Chinatown Planning Council: "Our parents forget that while they remember China and Chinese ways, most young people do not. I was born here in America, what do I know of China? Yes, I was to retain cultural ties, but I want to be mainstream U.S., too.

So it is while Wong and other radicals pump the American conscience for aid and understanding, Lee and fellow

Violence a way of life

S.F. Chinatown a brutal ghetto

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO — (NEA) — To the condescending Occidental, it is a scenic hive of quaint streets with a foreign mystique and cute kids in pigtails.

That's not the way it is to the people who live in the largest Chinese community in the Western world.

Chinatown, San Francisco, is a ghetto. Brutal, congested, dirty and oppressive behind the facade of a tourist attraction. But, more significantly, it has added another element in recent years — violence.

Since 1969, when young hoodlum gangs became the new phenomena of Chinatown, there have been 21 murders attributed to internecine gang warfare. Harsh, cold-blooded, vengeful, open killings flaunting the traditional gentility of the Chinese as a people.

So that in teeming Chinatown, even as the normal daily business is conducted in the packed streets and the summer tourists cram into its tight quarters, there is a mood of foreboding.

"We have bullet holes in our windows," says Rev. Harry Chuck of Cameron House, "from target practice in a nearby alley."

It's an encrusted brick building on Sacramento Street, up the hill from Stockton, which started out as a rescue home for Chinese girls forced into prostitution back in the 1880s. Now the young Presbyterian minister — a third generation Chinese-American with long black hair, thick mustache and dressed in demins — uses it as a youth center.

"We always had gangs before in Chinatown," he says, "but we grew out of it. Now the kids start young and they stay on longer. And guns, what do you do about 'em? I can't go up to a 10-year-old kid on the street. I don't know what he's got under his coat.

"We've watched the leaders slowly being killed off," says John McKenna of the homicide detail of San Francisco's police department, a specialist in dealing with Chinatown murders. Of the 21 street murders, most of them in broad daylight, a dozen are still unsolved.

McKenna outlines another worry as the tourist season approaches. "Every murder that's occurred up there, maybe only one bullet has got the victim," he explains. "We go up after and see bullet holes all over that street. Your wife or your child or some tourist could be walking there."

The Chinese community itself is aghast at the phenomenon of violence. A young Chinese lawyer who is a native of the area says, "I couldn't believe it would happen in a place where I grew up. I couldn't believe the Chinese could be that bad."

"The unrest here is due to the immigrant," says Tommy Tong, an elder of Chinatown who came to San Francisco from Shanghai in 1915 at the age of 3. His father was the first Chinese lawyer in Chinatown and in fact, built the picturesque arch at Bush and Grant Streets which is the gateway to Chinatown.

"They brought the Hong Kong culture here," he said.

Twenty years ago, Chinatown — the Chinatown of Rogers and Hammerstein's "Flower Drum Song" — had an estimated 30,000 residents. Now the estimates run as high as 80,000, the majority crowded into that 42-square block are at the foot of swank Nob Hill. The population density rate is 10 times that of the rest of the city.

Leonard Siu (the name is fictitious) came to San Francisco from Hong Kong at the age of 14. His father was already here. Leonard didn't speak a word of English but was thrust into the ninth grade and forced to compete, with no special language program.

Leonard started cutting school and was transferred to a remedial school — a wild mixture of minorities all speaking their own languages — and got in a lot of disciplinary trouble there. He wouldn't go home and started sleeping in doorways. The police took him to the Youth Guidance Center for detention. Because his dad wouldn't claim him, he was forced to stay. The longer he stayed, the tougher he got.

At this point, Rev. Harry Chuck learned of his case, stopped in and took Leonard home to straighten him out. But six months later, Chuck went on an extended trip to Hong Kong. While he was gone, Leonard was caught stealing a car and sent away as a juvenile offender. When he was released, there was tremendous pressure on him to join a street gang.

But he wanted no part of it. He got a job in an auto body shop and was doing O.K. One day, he went to pick up a friend. The cops were tailing the friend and nabbed him in Leonard's car with stolen goods. Leonard was charged, too. He appeared before a Chinese judge who doubled his bail which Rev. Chuck, now back in town, was unable to raise. Leonard was sent to the county jail for a year.

He is out now but he avoids his old benefactor. He has no car, he was deprived of his driver's license and no one will hire him. Harry Chuck saw him on the street the other day. He was with a couple of kids in black leather jackets and black pants. Leonard was dressed like them, too.

He has, at 18, obviously joined the gang.

German bank to buy into firm, keep it from Shah

BONN (UPI) — The Deutsche Bank, one of West Germany's largest banks, announced today it will buy a 29 per cent share in the Daimler-Benz automobile company to prevent the stock from going to foreign bidders.

The stock is now held by the Friederich Flick company, which in the past weeks has sought to sell its 39 per cent participation in the Mercedes automobile manufacturer.

The West German press reported that the Shah of Iran expressed interest in the Flick shares, and negotiations were under way to sell the stock for more than $1 billion.

"The Deutsche Bank has declared its readiness to take over the stock to prevent it from ending up abroad," a statement from the bank said.

The bank said it had made the decision after consulting with the government and Daimler-Benz officials.

The Finance Ministry said it was "very satisfied with the solution and the fact that the Daimler-Benz shares will remain in the country."

The purchase of the Flick shares will give the Deutsche Bank a majority holding of the automobile company, with a total of 56 per cent of the shares. The bank previously owned 27 per cent of Daimler stock.

The price of the Flick packet is estimated at about $807 million, according to banking sources. Neither the Deutsche Bank nor Flick announced the negotiated figure.

Nuclear garbage not wanted by three western states

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The three Western states that may end up with the Atomic Energy Commission's nuclear garbage dump are unanimous in their criticism of the groundwork for the facility.

Idaho, Nevada and Washington representatives appeared at an AEC public hearing recently to register objections to a draft environmental impact statement on setting up a temporary nuclear waste storage facility.

Idaho officials say they want no part of the dump. Nevada is wary, but interested, and Washington is receptive. Texas, which is not even under consideration, is skeptical.

And environmentalists say the impact statement is shallow and narrow.

30-year program

The AEC wants to set up a dump for temporary storage of nuclear waste for a period of about 30 years until the government can find and perfect a method of permanently disposing of it.

Three sites are under consideration: The Hanford atomic works near Richland, Wash., the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory near Idaho Falls, and the Nevada Test Site northwest of Las Vegas.

Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, in a statement read by an aide, said his state wants no part of the dump. He added that he wants the AEC to get on with its promise to remove waste now stored in INEL. He said a high-level storage facility could present a potential danger to underground water reserves in the area.

He also said the impact statement offered no assurance the temporary dump being proposed would not become a de facto permanent disposal area.

Nevada's conditions

Nevada officials said they want the test site to remain under consideration, but only under two conditions: more participation in planning by state and local governments, and recognition of the state's right to back out at any time.

A separate delegation from the Las Vegas area, led by the chamber of commerce, urged the AEC to locate the storage facility at NTS, claiming the installation has all the necessary staff and facilities to do the best job.

Washington officials said they could see no major problems with locating the storage facility at Hanford, as long as there were adequate safety measures, and minor problems were ironed out.

Robert L. Prendergraft, an assistant attorney general for the State of Texas, appeared as an intervenor at the hearing. He criticized the AEC for presenting only a cursory analysis of the cost of the temporary dump plan, and for offering no assurances the system would be reliable.

No detailed analysis

He said if the plan were costly, the cost would be passed back to the utility companies operating nuclear power plants, and from there to the consumer. he said the AEC has not provided any detailed analysis of what those costs might be.

He also said the impact statement did not detail any possible shutdowns in the storage mechanism which could leave power plants with uncollected nuclear wastes and possible close them down.

"I'm worried about the consumer in Houston," he said.

Environmentalists, including representatives of the Sierra Club, the National Resources Defense Council and the Foresta Institute for Ocean and Mountain Studies, joined the state delegations in criticizing the statement's lack of depth.

Huge tankers to be built in San Diego

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — National Steel and Shipbuilding Co. has received an Atlantic Richfield Co. contract for two 954-foot tankers, the largest yet to be built on the West Coast, NASSCO said recently.

The contract was for more than $123.7 million and contained an option on a third Catalina Class tanker.

Nassco designed the 130,000 dead weight ton Catalina class tanker, with a length of 954 feet and a beam of 146 feet. The ships will be slightly larger than three football fields end-to-end. The draft will be 55 feet.

Deliveries were set for late 1979 and mid-1980, and the ships will be used to transport north slope Alaskan crude oil to the U.S. West Coast, NASSCO said.

The ships will be powered by steam-geared turbine plants and will have collision avoidance systems and various environmental protection features.

The bridegroom wore handcuffs

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The bride wore a skirt and blouse. The groom wore handcuffs.

Derek McCall, 21, who faces life in prison for a series of offenses including sex crimes, was married Wednesday to Diana Chiles in a brief courthouse ceremony. Both are from Los Angeles.

McCall was allowed to exchange his jail denims for a white suit and pink shirt and was brought into the marriage license bureau for the ceremony in handcuffs, armed guards at his side.

Asked where he was going after the ceremony, McCall said "Fourth floor, cell six."

He is expected to be sentenced Jan. 24 to life in prison. He has been convicted of kidnaping, robbery, burglary, rape and crimes against nature.

His father said that although McCall will not be eligible for parole for at least five years, the bride insisted they be married. "In fact, lots of girls want to marry him," he said.

FBI recovers most of loot

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — The FBI has now recovered $700,000 of the million stolen from a Reno bank last September.

Federal agents recently said $159,000 of the loot was found buried in a mountainous area 16 miles southwest of Reno.

Three men have been charged with the armed holdup of the First National Bank of Nevada and are in federal custody. The trio, Curtis Michelson, Edward Malone and Floyd Forsberg, were caught several weeks after the Sept 27 robbery.

FBI agent Jack Keith Jr., said the search continues for the missing $300,000.

Youth violence

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Nearly 34 per cent of the youthful offenders committed to the California Youth Authority, or about 900, in 1974 had been involved in crimes of violence.

WHAT'S IN STORE

THE YEAR OF THE RABBIT

Since last summer, I've wished you "Happy New Year" twice, once at the Jewish holiday, once at the beginning of our calendar year. Now it is time for the Chinese New Year, so "Happy New Year" again. I hope the third time is a charm!

In browsing through our Alpha Betas, I found there are many possibilities for putting together a delicious Chinese menu. For those who are not "do-it-yourselfers," there is great variety in the frozen food section (complete dinners and separate dishes like egg rolls, sweet-sour pork, etc.). There is also a wide assortment of Oriental foods in the Chinese section of the grocery department (canned chop suey, chow mein, etc.). In the deli, we have the won ton skins, which when wrapped around various meat, fish or vegetable fillings, then fried, make marvelous snacks or a part of your Chinese dinner.

The fresh produce department has a nice selection of Oriental vegetables. Ask your Alpha Beta produce man if you're in doubt about preparation.

Ample supplies of pork and chicken, which form the basis of many Chinese entrees, can be found in the meat department.

I just opened a can of fortune cookies (from the grocery department). My fortune says, "This is the Year of the Rabbit, get hopping!" This may be a "hare raising" year for all of us!

New York Chinatown seething

veterans see such as degrading. Through an interpreter, an aging laundry operator says it thusly:

"I see the youths out marching for Mao Tse-tung and I want to cry. They who know nothing of Mao! I fled China when the communists took over. All I want is to be allowed to work hard in this wonderful country but the children want more. They want to beat their fists and form gangs; it is terrible."

Terrible or no, the children of Chinatown will doubtless win out eventually. Observers here are not predicting the end to this delightful community, but perhaps an end to the delightfulness.

"Some day," says a restaurant owner, "you won't see women in Mao blouses. When today's kids grow up this won't be much of a tourist place. They'll still have names like Wong and Lee, but they'll be selling computers and televisions like the rest of the country. I don't like to see it, but I can't stop it. They're Americans, aren't they?"

The people flood began with the easing of immigration restrictions in the early 1960s. It was the time of the "paper fathers" — resident Chinese who vouched for the homeless kids siphoned off the streets of Hong Kong, itself filling with refugees from Red China. And then when the kids got here, the "paper fathers" disclaimed future responsibility.

"They were ragamuffin kids who had worked into gangsthere," reviews McKenna. "We've talked to authorities from the Royal Police in Hong Kong. They've said, "The problems are no different from what you've got now. Shakedowns, extortion. They walk into a shop and place a hand grenade on the counter.'"

Men like Tommy Tong believe the lawlessness derives from a breakdown in family discipline which has been the cornerstone of Chinese society.

"As a 'beat' man," nods McKenna, "if you ever came across a kid who was heading down the wrong road, all you had to do was inform the elder and he would handle the problem. The kid would be sent to Watsonville to pick lettuce.

"Now we go to the house and the mother and father really can't tell us where their sons are. They haven't seen them for days. Half of them don't even show up at school. The parents don't speak English. Mama works in a sewing machine factory. Papa works as a dish washer. They can't control the half-Western style these kids are evolving into with their gangs."

The Chinese, who made a tremendous contribution to the early history of California and were long ripped off as secondary citizens, banded into the famous tongs for security. These tongs still exist but often have been diverted into such illegal activity as gambling, smuggling and narcotics. Gambling is an accepted fact of life in Chinatown. The gang kids were often hired when they first arried in San Francisco as "look-see" men at the gambling joints. They also try to shake down shop owners and intimidate restaurants.

They can get away with it because, explains McKenna, "historically, the Chinese have never turned to the Caucasian or the courts to make their appeals." It's a fact that it's difficult to get a Chinese victim to testify. As a result, the young thugs generally prey on their own. Their bold acts of violence, often in broad daylight, only cause more intimidation.

One Chinese official working in the district attorney's office outlines two vital steps to combat the violence:

1. The victims must come across and testify.

2. The liberal and "establishment" elements of the Chinese community must get together with a program for the disenfranchised young people.

One white policeman who has worked the Chinatown detail offers a more chaotic view:

"The only solution here is an earthquake and burn down Chinatown. Really spread 'em out."

Insights on campus today

Here is an interesting paradox. On New Year's Eve while celebrating a little, I ran into Dick Todd who is a member of the Mt. San Antonio College Board of Trustees. Our conversation naturally turned to education and a discussion of some of my columns which he had read. We seemed to agree quite generally regarding most issues discussed. This puzzled both of us a little. I had categorized Dick Todd on the conservative side and most people tend to categorize me on the liberal side, but here we were both agreeing on most educational issues.

Now the paradox. A true conservative is usually an educational liberal. The key words in this statement are "true" and "educational." That, at least, is how Dick and I figured it out. The true conservative is very much concerned with rights, responsibilities, privileges of the individual and the freedom of choice. He is most wary of centralized control, standardized programming, and anything impinging upon the individual's rights and responsibilities.

When we looked at traditional education institutions, we found them for the most part to be permeated with standardized and rigid track systems which have a homogenizing effect upon students. Special programs were getting at the specific needs of individuals, but these were usually federally or state funded with increasing loss of local control.

On the other hand, somewhat to our surprise, we recognized that the nontraditional and innovative approaches to teaching and learning (now becoming more and more evident in our schools and colleges) were quite clearly emphasizing the rights and responsibilities of the individual by giving more freedom of choice, more alternative approaches to fit individual needs, and giving much greater recognition of the rights and responsibilities of individual students.

Perhaps this is just another indication that lieralism and conservatism are not a matter of a continuum but, in actuality, result in a closed loop. Dick and I agreed that the labeling of one as a conservative or a liberal would have to be considered in the light of the situation and the issue.

Either we were both the happy victims of the cheer and brotherly feeling of New Year's Eve, or the time is right for a new coalition aimed at the reform of our schools.

Robbers leave loot behind

DETROIT (UPI) — Two young men held up a fast-food restaurant on the city's West Side Sunday but were in such a hurry they left without the loot.

Police said employes in the store handed the men a paper bag containing $315

One of the thieves grabbed a pocket calculator as he fled but the bag containing the cash was still on the counter when the thieves ran

FUNNY BUSINESS

L.A. judge, Yankwich, dies at 86

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Leon R. Yankwich, a Romanian immigrant who became a top legal scholar, federal judge and expert on newspaper law, died Sunday at age 86.

Yankwich served as a Los Angeles Superior Court judge from 1927 to 1935, when he was appointed a U.S. District Court judge, serving until his retirement in 1964.

In one of his most notable rulings, he held in 1936 that the state of California had illegally sold oil from the Elk Hills Naval Reserve to Standard Oil of California, and ordered the oil company to reimburse the federal government $7 million for the oil. The field, still held as a naval reserve, now figures prominently in energy crisis debates, with a number of public figures demanding that it be opened to production before large scale offshore drilling.

Island misnamed

New Guinea first appeared on European maps as Isla del Oro, or Island of Gold, the name given it by Spanish navigator Saavedra in 1528. Little gold was found on the Pacific island, however, the National Geographic Society says.

Judge finds self guilty; imposes fine

SULPHUR, La. (UPI) — The case on the docket was that of a man stopped for going 42 miles an hour in a 35 mph zone. When Judge E.W. Thompson asked how the defendant pleaded, Thompson got out of his chair, moved around to the other side of the bench and said "Guilty, your honor."

Thompson returned to his chair and fined himself $17.50.

"I felt I needed to be slowed down," Thompson said.

Twins, triplets born at hospital

TEANECK, N.J. (UPI) — The twin girls born Saturday didn't keep the spotlight for long — a half hour later a set of triplets was born in the same hospital.

The multiple births occurred within 36 minutes of each other Saturday at Holy Name Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said the twins were born to the family of Rudolf and Barbara Triviano of Little Ferry, N.J. A girl was born at 1 p.m. and the second girl at 1:06 p.m.

Then came the triplets, born to James and Mary Jean Scudieri of New Milford, N.J. A boy was born at 1:21 p.m., an identical brother at 1:24 and a girl at 1:36 p.m.

Drivers fall asleep

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — An overturned truck held up traffic for three hours on a Frankfurt superhighway during the night, but it took police longer than planned to get the backlogged autos moving again.

Officers had to wake up at least 20 drivers who had fallen asleep in their cars while waiting for the lanes to be cleared.

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED AD USERS

You are about to invest money for an Ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this it is necessary for you to TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results. Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and cost less in the long run.

1. Don't Omit The Address

Many out-of-town readers will write you but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. Don't Omit The Phone Number

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. Don't Use Blind Box Numbers

They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. Don't Conceal The Price

Surveys show that a high percentage of readers will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. Don't Leave Home On The Days You Advertise

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

6. Don't Forget, Check Your Ad The First Day It Runs. Call Us!

7. Don't Omit Important Words To Save Money

PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:

- defects in material or workmanship,
- normal road hazard failure,
- premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining),

Montgomery Ward will:

1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage, replace it for a prorata charge based on mileage used.

Nail punctures repaired free during the entire guaranteed mileage.

For guarantee service and adjustments, return tire to any Montgomery Ward branch with the Guarantee Booklet issued at the time of sale.

Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.

Passenger tires used on taxicabs and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in materials and workmanship only.
